DEWEY TO VISIT GREEN AUGUST 1 IN SPRINGFIELD

Brooks and Lyons Among Conferees.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., July 24.—Gov. Dewey announced this afternoon he is going to spend Tuesday of next week in Springfield, Ill. He will be the guest there of Gov. Green before proceeding to St. Louis for a conference Aug. 2 and 3 of all 26 Republican governors.

In Springfield, Dewey will meet with Sen. Brooks and Richard Lyons, Republican candidate for the United States senate, and with Illinois' Republican congressmen and candidates for congress. This is in furtherance of his policy of soliciting advice and seeking harmony in the campaign, a policy he hopes to continue into a Republican administration in Washington, D. C.

It will be the nominee's first visit to the midwest since he was named flagbearer in the fight against the New Deal. For four weeks, he has been in almost daily sessions with New England and New York national legislators and political leaders, receiving counsel from the seaboard branch of the Republican party.

No Speeches Planned.

In Springfield, Dewey will place a wreath on the tomb of Abraham Lincoln.

No speeches are planned for the western trip. However, plans are still somewhat tentative since they are awaiting approval of the Vice Presidential candidate, Gov. Bricker of Ohio, who will arrive here on Wednesday with Mrs. Bricker.

Dewey and Bricker are working as a team. They have been in telephonic communication almost daily since the convention.

The site for the governors' conference, in the home state of Sen. Truman, the Democratic Vice Presidential nominee, was selected before the senator's nomination. Missouri is a doubtful state in the November election. Robert E. Hannegan, chairman of the Democratic national committee, is a former city hall boss in St. Louis.

Illinois Trip Moved Up.

The stop in Illinois, originally considered for the return trip, was advanced to Tuesday so that Dewey will not be in Missouri while the polls are open for a primary election there.

Dewey, on the telephone, asked Green to invite Illinois leaders in labor, agriculture, and industry to meet with him in Springfield. The candidate wants to hear problems peculiar to the state as well as the attitude of the state toward national and international issues involved in the campaign. He wants as much information from as many people as possible before he launches a speaking schedule, probably starting shortly after Labor day and continuing until the November election.

Another such meeting is scheduled for next Monday in Pittsburgh with Gov. Martin of Pennsylvania arranging the day's program.

CLARIFY POLICY OF REPUBLICS ON ARGENTINA

Washington, D. C., July 24 (AP).—Secretary of State Hull indicated today that the American republics have reached general agreement on their attitude toward the government of Argentina, but he declined to discuss its details.

At a press conference, Hull recalled that conferences had been going on for some time concerning the Argentine situation. Recently some conferring ministers had sought to clarify the situation because of confusion created by sinister and subversive elements.

Hull did not define those elements nor say in what way they had been sinister and subversive.

The aim of the policy clarification was to make clear the policy of the American nations supporting the allied cause and the policy of the American nations supporting what Hull called another cause. He did not define the other cause.

HOW BOSS RULE AND ROOSEVELT NAMED TRUMAN

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

The post mortem on the Democratic convention now makes it all crystal clear how Sen. Truman of Missouri was put over by the big city bosses, with the aid of President Roosevelt, for the nomination for Vice President.

Intertwined with the plot is the story of the friendship and political partnership of Sen. Truman and Boss Hannegan of St. Louis, now Democratic national chairman, who helped each other into high places.

Back in the early '30s, Truman, who has become known to the country as the able chairman of the senate investigating committee that has exposed waste, inefficiency and corruption in war production, was an obscure cog in the notorious Pendergast machine of Kansas City. He was county judge of Jackson county.

Picked by Pendergast.

In 1934 Truman went to Pendergast with a plea to let him run for county collector. Boss Pendergast, then in the heyday of his power founded on his famous political principle of "feed 'em and vote 'em," turned Truman down. The boss said Truman was to run instead for the United States senate. Truman ran and won.

Asked afterward why he had conferred his favor on Truman Pendergast was reported to have said:

"I wanted to demonstrate that a well oiled machine could send an office boy to the senate."

In the senate Truman voted religiously for New Deal legislation, becoming what his critics called a Roosevelt rubber stamp. He repaid his debt to Pendergast by vainly opposing the re-appointment as United States attorney at Kansas City of Maurice Milligan, the prosecutor who had been largely instrumental in breaking the power of the Pendergast machine.

Sees Third Term Light.

While the Milligan re-appointment was pending in 1938, following the exposure of the Kansas City election frauds, Truman was asked how he stood on a third term for Mr. Roosevelt. He replied that he never had expressed himself on the subject and did not "intend to do so until the President decides what he is going to do." Within the next six days Mr. Roosevelt re-appointed Milligan and Truman, returning from a conference with Pendergast in Kansas City, suddenly saw the third term in a new light. He then stated that "I am not for any one for a third term."

Truman felt that Pendergast was being slandered by the charges against him in the insurance scandal and said he would not desert the boss. Pendergast was convicted of income tax evasion and sent to the penitentiary before the end of Truman's first term in the senate.

Switch to Truman.

When Truman sought renomination in 1940 he was opposed by Milligan and by Gov. Lloyd C. Stark. The St. Louis Democratic machine, headed by Hannegan and Mayor Dickman, started out supporting Stark, but the day before the primary circulated organization slates in half the city wards designating Truman for the nomination. The switch was made by Hannegan and Dickman in a deal to get support from southwest Missouri for their candidate for governor, Lawrence McDaniel.

This deal saved Truman from defeat in the primary. He won reelection on President Roosevelt's coattails. The payoff for Hannegan

6,000 Aliens in Brazil Book Passage Home

BY ANTHONY PATRIC.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, July 12 [By airmail].—Confident of an allied victory soon over Adolf Hitler's armies, more than 6,000 European refugees, many of them Jews who found a haven in Brazil, already have made reservations to return to their homelands, one of the leading trans-Atlantic shipping companies disclosed today.

Some 50,000 aliens are expected to return to Europe within three months after the end of hostilities, with many others leaving later.

May Cause a Depression.

This exodus may create some difficulties in certain industries employing alien technicians and a depression is expected to hit Brazil thru this dislocation of economy. Apparently, the problem of transferring funds to Europe when they leave this country does not worry these refugees. Strict controls by the Bank of Brazil thru the exchange control board make it almost impossible to transfer any large amounts of cash.

The majority of the war refugees have done well in Brazil. They have earned easy money and have invested their surplus cash in easily removable commodities. Most war refugees live in luxury and are responsible, to a great extent, for the steady increase in the cost of living, deeply felt in Brazil since 1940.

Known as Lavish Spenders.

They have invaded the exclusive residential districts of Copacabana, Leme, Ipanema, and Leblon to such an extent that the Portuguese language is seldom heard in the higher price restaurants, bars and night clubs of Rio. The refugees as a rule spend lavishly, pay the highest rents and patronize the best night spots.

President Getulio Vargas threw open the doors of Brazil to thousands of refugees following the example set by the United States and other American republics. They were granted freedom to enter commercial and industrial activities of the country and were allowed to dispose of any funds they had transferred to Brazil when they applied for an immigrant visa. Many entered the country as permanent aliens.

FRUIT PEDDLERS RIOT OVER TAX IN ROME; STORM FOOD OFFICES

ROME, July 24 (AP).—Shades of pre-Fascist days came to life this morning as Rome had its first riot. The municipal food bureau was stormed and damaged by thousands of fruit vendors who had gone on strike to protest against the enforcement of a tax on sales of fruits and vegetables.

Cesare de Simon, the newly appointed director, had pledged himself to suspend collection of the tax pending a new decision, but the crowd boarded trucks, formed a noisy procession and rode thru the city from the markets to the office of the food bureau on the Via Carducci.

Gathering before its offices they shouted "death to Giacomini," [former director of markets] and then stormed the building. Furniture was smashed and files of documents were thrown out of windows. The police arrested some of the ring leaders, who were promptly freed by the crowd.

Asks Ammunition to Kill Watermelon Trespassers

Ponca City, Okla., July 24 (AP).—A grim faced farmer who appeared at a hardware store for his ration of shotgun ammunition admitted it was the first time he had bought shells. On the office of price administration form, under purpose for which the ammunition was needed, he wrote: "To kill people out of my watermelon patch."

Court Stays Army Eviction of a Civilian

Philadelphia, Pa., July 24 [Special].—Federal District Judge J. Cullen Ganey ruled today that the army has no power to force citizens to move from their homes in the absence of evidence that they have committed acts of disloyalty.

In a 13 page opinion countermanding an army order which would have ejected Karl Scherzberg, 56, from the eastern defense command for the duration of the war, the judge asserted "the constitutional rights and liberties of citizens cannot be violated even in war time, especially when there is no apparent danger of invasion of our shores by the enemy."

Scherzberg, a German born naturalized American, was ordered to leave the area July 28, 1943, on the grounds he was potentially dangerous to the war effort. Execution of the order, which was issued by Lt. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, then commander of the eastern defense command, was stayed by the appeal to the District court.

Similar to Schueller Case.

Judge Ganey commented that the case of Scherzberg was similar in principle to that of Mrs. Olga Schueller, in which he ruled nearly a year ago that the army had exceeded its powers in issuing an eviction order.

"The evidence against Scherzberg of a strong admiration for Hitler and his political philosophy and his connection with German groups was stronger than that given against Mrs. Schueller," Judge Ganey said, "but the legal principles remain the same."

He asserted there was no evidence Scherzberg committed any act of disloyalty, espionage, or sabotage and said, "for that reason, the army cannot legally force him to move."

Constitution Still Governs.

In all exclusion cases, the judge asserted the question arises, "In what instances and under what circumstances, if any, can congress and the executive in the prosecution of the power of waging war infringe the constitutional guaranties of individuals?" Citizens, he indicated, remain under the protection of the Constitution, and emphasized that something more than a suspicion of a tendency to disloyalty must be shown to justify exclusion.

Scherzberg served in the German army in World War I. and came to this country after its close. In 1939, on the last of several visits to Germany he took his two sons, now 18 and 20, there and left them in school with $20,000 to pay for their education. At a hearing before Judge Ganey several months ago, Scherzberg said since Pearl Harbor he has wanted the United States to win the war.

GERMAN FRONT SPLIT BY REDS' WARSAW DRIVE

Battle Nears Nazis' Last River Line.

LONDON, July 25 [Tuesday] (AP).—Russian troops in a series of heavy blows yesterday split the battered German armies in Poland by capturing Lublin, railway center; toppled Lukow, only 60 miles southeast of Warsaw, and crossed the San river in the south in a direct drive on German Silesia.

The Russians marched westward at a pace better than a mile an hour, slashing German resistance centers frontally and by-passing numerous strongholds in wide flanking movements on Warsaw.

The Russians were within 25 miles of the Wisla river, last axis defense line before Germany.

Escape Railway Is Cut.

By capturing Lublin, a city of 120,000 population in peace time and in the geographic center of old Poland, the Russians split the German armies of the north and south on the east side of the Wisla and San rivers; by taking Lukow, the troops of Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's 1st White Russian army severed the German escape railway from Brest Litovsk, where Berlin said soviet units had broken into the city. Rokossovsky's troops in some sectors were said to have driven 40 miles yesterday.

Siedlce, only 50 miles east of Warsaw and 20 miles north of Lukow, was given up under pressure of the soviet steamroller, Berlin said. It is 365 air miles from Berlin.

With the crossing of the San river the Russians were about 150 miles from German Silesia and were striking westward toward Krakow on the road to Germany. The San was reached on a 50 mile front from Jaroslaw northward, and Berlin said Jaroslaw had been abandoned.

Lwow Appears Near Fall.

The German garrison in Lwow, 60 miles east of Jaroslaw and Poland's third largest city, apparently was on its last legs, as Berlin said the Russians had broken into that stronghold. Southwest of Lwow the Russians leaped the Dnestr river and captured a town 14 miles north of Stanislawow, which bars their path to Carpathian mountain passes.

Marshal Joseph Stalin announced the fall of Lublin and a bulletin said the Russian armies had swept thru 1,381 towns and villages.

At the northern end of the front the Russians seized Poddubye, northwest of Pskov and almost on the Latvian border; took 60 towns in an advance toward Estonia and 80 near Daugavpils, and expanded wedges toward Riga and Kaunas.

A German broadcast said soviet troops in the Iasi [Jassy] sector of Romania were preparing to attack.

Nazi Losses Put at 539,890.

A special Moscow bulletin said the Germans had lost 539,890 troops killed or captured since the soviet summer offensive began on June 23. These casualties were inflicted by four Russian armies, and there are at least seven hurling back the Germans on an 800-mile front from the Baltic to the Carpathian mountains, Moscow said.

The captives taken during this period included 22 German generals, Moscow stated.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

The broadcast German war bulletin said: "In Galicia and west of the upper Bug river, numerous soviet attacks, supported by tanks and battle planes, were repulsed in embittered fighting. Only in a few sectors did enemy assault formations gain further ground.

"Heavy fighting in the town of Lwow is going on. The garrison of Lublin held its own against repeated enemy attacks. Between Brest Litovsk and Grodno, as well as northeast of Kaunas, enemy break-thru attempts were frustrated. In several sectors the Bolsheviks, having entered the German lines, were thrown back in counter-attacks."

Ex-Count Cost Me 3 Million, Says Barbara

Los Angeles, Cal., July 24 [Special].—Dime Store Heiress Barbara Hutton Grant disclosed today in a suit seeking custody of her son that she had given the boy's father, Court Haugwitz-Reventlow, former Danish count, nearly 3 million dollars—half when he married her and the other half to get rid of him by divorce.

Her complaint stated that Reventlow exercised an "almost hypnotic influence" over her and had her "under such domination that he believed he could later acquire her fortune, or a substantial part of it."

His recent flight to Canada with their son, Lance, 9, was a maneuver, she charged, to harass her in the hope of obtaining large sums of money for the boy's return.

Strong Desire for Money.

Mrs. Grant, now the wife of Film Actor Cary Grant, asserted that after her marriage to the count in 1935 she transferred to his bank account $1,477,697. As a price to obtain his consent to a divorce in 1941, she said, she established for him a trust fund of the same amount.

In substantiation of her contention that Reventlow is not a fit custodian of their son, she alleged that "the desire for money and the accumulation of wealth without work . . . is paramount" with him to the exclusion of other ideas and sentiments.

She also charged that Reventlow is given to violent fits of temper, and "has treated Lance harshly and unkindly and has, on divers occasions, without fault or provocation of said infant, assaulted him, knocked him down, called him vile names in the presence and hearing of school companions and others."

Were to Share Custody.

Under a separation agreement the parents entered into in London in 1938, Mrs. Grant and Reventlow were to share Lance's custody. The boy was to have been turned over to the heiress July 1 for the start of her six month custody but a day earlier Reventlow's attorney announced that the boy had been taken to Canada by his father.

Mrs. Grant's suit seeks to modify the separation agreement to give her permanent custody of the child.

Reventlow, a native of Germany, became a naturalized Danish citizen and eventually a nobleman in the country in which his family had large holdings. After coming to the United States, he renounced his Danish citizenship and became an American citizen.

SENDING OF WIRE FROM F. D. R. TO TRUMAN UPHELD

New York, July 24 (AP).—J. L. Egan, vice president of Western Union, today upheld his company's acceptance of President Roosevelt's congratulatory telegram to Sen. Truman on the grounds that "presumably it constituted an exception" to an official ban on such messages.

The telegram congratulated Truman on becoming Democratic Vice Presidential nominee.

"If the President had the authority to authorize issuance of the ban he has the authority to modify, alter or rescind it," Egan said in a statement.

The ban against congratulatory telegrams was established March 6, 1942, by a Presidential order delegating powers to the board of war communications.

Egan said the telegram originally was dispatched to the Chicago convention by a company operator in Washington without the knowledge of any supervisory employe after it had been received over a private wire from the White House.

Western Union refused to send a similar telegram from Wendell L. Willkie congratulating Gov. Dewey on his designation as the Republican Presidential candidate several weeks ago.

GAIN 1½ MILES; TAKE PART OF TINIAN AIRFIELD

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ. Pearl Harbor, July 24 (AP).—American advances of almost a mile on newly invaded Tinian Island and a mile and a half on Guam were reported by Adm. Chester W. Nimitz today. On Tinian the Yanks captured the western end of the 1,500 yard air strip on the northern tip of the island, while on Guam the Japs on Orote peninsula, site of the island's main airfield, were completely cut off.

The American assault forces which conquered Saipan, three miles to the north, landed on Tinian Sunday, on the northwest coast adjacent to the Ushi point airfield.

"A firm beachhead has been secured by troops of the 2d and 4th marine divisions," said Nimitz. "Our forces control approximately 2½ miles of coast line, extending from a point 2,500 yards south of Ushi Point to a point 1,200 yards north of Faibus San Hilo Point.

Casualties Are Light.

"During July 23 enemy resistance was confined largely to machinegun and rifle fire. Our casualties thru July 23 were light. The situation is considered well in hand.

The marines approached to within less than a mile of Agana town and extended their beachhead inland a mile and a half, the deepest penetration yet made. This force is operating in the northern sector, on the west-central coast.

To the south, the 1st marines and units of the 77th infantry division hemmed in an unknown number of Japanese on the Orote peninsula. The only possibility of escape for the trapped enemy was by barges or other small craft. Virtually all the enemy's available shipping had been knocked out and American warships were lying off shore for continuing bombardments in support of the ground thrust.

Defenses Destroyed.

The Yank-held southern sector on the western coast of Guam extended three miles almost straight inland from the northern edge of Orote peninsula and then angled back to the coast at a point three and a half miles below the peninsula.

Virtually all the defenses of the entrapped segment of Guam's garrison, except mortars, rifles, grenades, and bayonets, were believed destroyed by bombardment.

The exact gains made in the southern sector up to last night were not reported, except for the operation isolating the Orote peninsula. Action otherwise was described as a straightening of lines.

Resistance Is Strong.

The 3d marines to the north were meeting increasingly strong resistance. No details of the fighting there were reported except Nimitz's statement that "strong enemy opposition continues despite heavy casualties inflicted by our ground troops and intense air and naval bombardment."

The northern beachhead extends almost four miles northeast from the mouth of the Sasa river to Adelup point, and a mile and a half inland at the deepest penetration.

Bomb Bota and Ponape.

Adm. Nimitz reported widespread air attacks by American bombers. Carrier planes hit Rota Island, immediately north of Guam, blasted Ponape in the Carolines, and struck against Shimushu, in the northern Kuriles.

Nimitz announced that Lt. Gen. Holland F. Smith has been promoted from commander of the 5th amphibious corps to commanding general, fleet marine forces of the Pacific, a new position. Presumably, This was a reward for his role in directing Saipan's conquest.

REBEL LEADERS ESCAPE NAZIS, LONDON HEARS

2 Bombing Victims Die; Paris Chief Wounded.

Tell of Great Purge

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

BASEL, Switzerland, July 24.—Since Wednesday morning, one day before the assassination attempt on Hitler, wehrmacht officers from the rank of field marshal down to that of major have been undergoing a purge whose magnitude is only beginning to emerge in reports from unimpeachable quarters in the reich. On Friday four ousted field marshals whose identities are in doubt were executed by firing squads at Graues Haus jail in Vienna. Since then, officers who have escaped the Gestapo have been trying to reach other countries.

LONDON, July 24 (AP).—The Nazis still ruled Germany tonight under the iron hand of the Gestapo, advices from the reich's frontiers declared, and the purge had wiped out only a few of the leaders of the army conspirators determined to liquidate Adolf Hitler and his regime.

Gen. Von Stuelpnagel.

A report to the Associated Press said the only member of a "high committee of opposition" who had been caught was the executed Col. Gen. Ludwig Beck, who had been warned of arrest and was taken by accident.

Heinrich Himmler, Gestapo head, "doesn't even know who the members of the committee are," this account said, altho the committee, embracing Catholic and Evangelical church representatives, as well as the military, was said to have existed for more than half a year.

New Decrees Coming.

The Transocean news agency in a broadcast from Berlin said there were indications that "a great number of new decrees, some of them cutting deep into our everyday life, may be expected soon." It added, "We shall become a people of fighters in the most literal sense."

The German radio at Paris said "terrorists" had seriously injured Gen. Otto von Stuelpnagel, military administrator for occupied France. The attack was said to have occurred on Friday while he was on a tour of eastern France.

Hitler set out to Nazify his army completely as the Berlin radio announced that the bomb that was set off in an attempt to kill him had taken the lives of two high ranking officers. They were Col. Gen. Guenther Korten, chief of the air force general staff, and Maj. Gen. Heinze Brandt, first officer in the army general staff's operative section.

Previously the Nazis had announced the death of Hitler's double, Heinrich Bergner, whose name first was given as Berger.

Army Adopts Party Salute.

The Nazi salute, with a "Heil Hitler" where appropriate, was ordered for all German armed forces as a substitute for the usual military gesture.

Prussian commanders on the western front continued to be junked in favor of graduates of the party school.

The latest such replacement to appear is Gen. Josef Dietrich, identified by allied supreme headquarters as a Hitler-Himmler stooge and Russian-designated Kharkov war criminal. He was given command of an SS panzer corps.

Von Kluge appointed Gen. Paul Hausser to the command of the 7th army on the Normandy front, the first SS man ever to be intrusted with an army, according to information reaching London.

A broadcast by ABSIE, American transmitter in London, said Swiss dispatches reported that Hitler had called a conference for tomorrow to select new generals for the Russian and Baltic fronts. A later ABSIE broadcast said that Gen. Lindemann, commander of the German Baltic armies, was reported under arrest.

Himmler to Show No Mercy.

German troops were told over the military radio that Himmler would show no mercy toward those violating laws of the reich.

The German DNB agency declared that allied hopes for a split between the generals were "in vain," and the German army radio said "a small group of treacherous German generals who now have been exterminated" had hoped to win a concession from the allies.

Britain's foreign secretary, Anthony Eden, dealt with that hope today. He said experienced German generals "have seen the writing on the wall," but described Hitler as a "link in a chain of German war lords."

"This time we must make quite certain that chain is finally broken," he said in an address to the Anglo-Netherlands society.

A lag in recruiting and supply was acknowledged by the Nazi newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter, but it was blamed on the "hindering and sabotaging" of the revolting generals. This account said the appointment of Himmler to head the home army would remedy the situation.

Berlin denied a curfew had been established there. A Spanish correspondent's dispatch from the capital said he saw little sign of revolt.

YANKS TELL HOW IT FEELS TO HAVE A ROBOT DROP IN

Is Like a Wild Engine Loose in Home.

LONDON, July 24 (AP).—Two Associated Press war correspondents in London have found out how it feels to be uncomfortably close to an exploding robot bomb.

Judson O'Quinn, formerly of the Associated Press New Orleans bureau, and W. W. Hercher, former Chicago bureau member, who shared a London apartment, heard the buzzbomb roar over their roof and strike a building 75 yards away.

They heard the bomb approach in the still of the night.

Hercher, who was just back from France, asked: "Is that a buzz-bomb?" O'Quinn, who had heard dozens of them fall, replied, "Hell, yes!"

Like a Locomotive in Room.

This is their story:

"We hit the rug in a dead heat and there we lay, with eyes big as saucers.

"The roar of the flying bomb seemed like a Diesel locomotive pounding down a track thru the living room.

"The sound was magnified until the whole house quaked. Then a comparative silence descended, with the explosion on the top of the building rather muffled by the all-pervading crash of falling debris and glass, like someone shaking a Christmas tree.

"Pieces of our French windows sailed around the room and hunks of ceiling beat a tattoo on our backs. The blast cleaned our chimneys, depositing five inches of soot in front of our fireplace. About an acre of glass was blown into our apartment. Never since we moved in had the place got so thoro a dusting."

Defense Workers Speedy.

O'Quinn and Hercher said civil defense workers were on the job before they had pulled on enough clothes to get into the glass-carpeted street. Fire engines, ambulances, rescue squads and a tea-wagon manned by steel-helmeted nurses beat them to the scene of the blast. From them they learned two persons had been killed and several injured.

Some Gibraltar refugees streamed from shattered doors and windows of a building nearby babbling a torrent of Spanish. Many were carrying children wrapped in blankets.

DYNAMITE TRUCK AFIRE, DRIVER STAYS WITH IT

Bakersfield, Cal., July 24 (AP).—When a truck laden with 1,500 pounds of dynamite caught fire today, the driver stayed at the wheel until he was able to maneuver his dangerous cargo into a field well off the highway.

Passing motorists went to his help but the driver, Lynn Stackler, Lindsay, Cal., shouted them off. After he made his way to safety, the explosive let loose with a roar heard over a radius of 10 miles.

No one was hurt, reported Roy Galyen, state highway patrol captain. But parts of the disintegrated truck were found more than a quarter of a mile away.

COL. SUMMERS NAMED TO TAKE GEN. DAVIS' POST

Col. Iverson B. Summers, commanding officer of Fort Custer, Mich., yesterday was named chief of staff of the 6th service command, replacing Brig. Gen. John F. Davis. The appointment is effective Aug 1.

Col. Summers, whose home is in Missouri, was director of the prisoner of war division of the provost marshal general's office in Washington, D. C., from May 29, 1943, until Feb. 16, 1944, when he took command of Fort Custer.

ILLINOISAN GETS NAVY CROSS AND TWO GOLD STARS

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, July 24 (AP).—Lt. Comdr. Slade D. Cutter, 32, who was reared near Oswego, Ill., today received the navy cross with two gold stars—the first time in the war that Adm. Chester W. Nimitz has pinned these three awards on one man in one ceremony. They are equivalent to three navy crosses.

Comdr. Cutter, a former football star and intercollegiate boxing champion, is a submarine officer. He was rewarded for sinking 18 Japanese ships, totaling more than 103,000 tons, and damaging others, including a submarine, aggregating 5,400 tons or more.

While pinning the awards on Comdr. Cutter, the admiral, a submarine man himself, said:

"It doesn't rain—it pours. I doubt if his record has been equaled many times, and I doubt if it ever has been surpassed."

MARINE FLYER DUE HOME FROM PACIFIC TO WED

Lt Edward F. Ganschow, 24, of 5907 Oconto av., a navigator-bombardier with a marine corps photographic squadron which surveyed Japanese positions in the Marianas before the invasion, will arrive home this morning on a 30 day leave.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Ganschow, announced Lt. Ganschow would marry Miss Dolores Clifford, 1028 S. Washington av., Park Ridge, on Aug. 12. His father is a detective at the Jefferson Park station.

Lt. Ganschow flew on more than 100 combat missions to photograph enemy strongholds in the Solomons, New Britain and the Admiralty, Marshall, and Marianas islands. A graduate of Carl Schurz High school, Lt. Ganschow enlisted Dec. 8, 1941.

AMERICANS LOSE WEDGE AS NAZI FRONT STIFFENS

BULLETIN.

SUPREME HDQ. ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, July 25 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Breaking a four day lull on the Normandy front, British and Canadian troops opened a new drive south and slightly east of Caen early today along the Falaise road. Gen. Montgomery's headquarters announcement said the attack was made on a wide front against German positions astride the road and added that heavy fighting is going on.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, July 25 [Tuesday].—There was a lull on nearly the whole of the 100 mile Normandy front yesterday, with the exception of two minor actions. It was the quietest 24 hours in the 48 day history of the invasion.

One German counter-attack cost the Americans the village of Seves by forcing the Yanks to withdraw their wedge across the river Seves, where they had created a narrow bridgehead two miles north of Periers. This slight retirement to their strong positions 2½ miles north of Periers was not considered significant.

Eight miles east of Caen, the British pushed into the western part of Troarn, Dives river strong point, struck stiff resistance, and withdrew to the railway station just west of the town.

Take 15 Prisoners in Raids.

The British in a raid fought briefly at the German held crossroads at Le Bon Repos, about a mile northwest of Esquay. They captured 15 prisoners and killed a number of Germans.

British batteries engaged German tanks and troop carriers south of Maltot.

[The German agency DNB said Lt. Gen. Miles C. Dempsey had landed reenforcements for his 2d British army and appeared to have concluded preparations for a new large scale offensive from positions east and south of Caen. Southwest of Caen the Germans acknowledged loss of strategic Maltot, but claimed possession of dominant "Crucifix Hill" 113, north of Evrecy. Official allied accounts on Sunday said the hill still was firmly in allied hands.]

Air Operations Restricted.

Thick clouds over the Normandy battlefront restricted tactical air operations for a time. But as the weather improved during the late afternoon light bombers attacked enemy troop and rail movements from east of the Seine river to the battle area.

By the end of the day, the planes had dropped hundreds of tons of bombs on German communications, railways and bridges behind the front. The Germans, sending up heavier air opposition than recently, lost 11 planes. Four allied planes failed to return.

Correspondents from the beachhead last night were writing stories which sought to explain the apparent stalemate and the possibilities of an allied breakthru in the Caen area.

Call It a "Break-In."

The term "break-thru," they said, in this instance has only a limited meaning. Perhaps the phrase "break-in" could be used more properly to describe the action of Gen. Montgomery's troops last week in following up the dumping of 7 to 8,000 tons of bombs on Caen.

It was admitted that altho the German defense perimeter around Caen had been broken, the enemy's armor had not been.

Two reasons are advanced for the halt of the allied forward thrust. First was the inability of specialized equipment to get thru the Caen bottleneck swiftly enough to capitalize on the devastation caused by the bombing. Second was the strong anti-tank defenses set up by the Germans in an arc on the high ground around the perimeter of the attack.

Claim Toll of 593 Nazi Tanks.

ON THE ORNE RIVER FRONT, Normandy, July 24 (AP).—Field Marshal Rommel has lost 593 tanks knocked out of action on the British front since D-Day and 250 of these are known definitely to have been destroyed, a British staff officer said tonight.

5,000 ROBOTS IN 5½ WEEKS SENT AGAINST BRITISH

Cost Germans 650,000 Gallons of Gas.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 24.—Five thousand flying bombs have been fired over southern England since the Nazis started using this new weapon five and a half weeks ago, air experts estimated today. This, they said, cost the Germans—who are believed to be beginning to feel the pinch of a gasoline shortage, 650,000 gallons of gasoline.

These figures are based on Prime Minister Churchill's statement in the house of commons July 6 in which he disclosed that the average number of winged bombs launched every 24 hours had been between 100 and 150 and the fuel capacity in each bomb was 130 gallons.

Not all of the estimated 5,000 bombs fell on England, since many of them were shot down.

Coastal Town Hit.

Despite frequent heavy poundings of the launching sites in northern France by allied air forces, lulls southern England has experienced since the first attack have been of short duration. Practically every so-called lull is interrupted by isolated missiles, usually followed by an intensification of this type of bombardment.

The air ministry reported one such lull this morning.

One of the incidents reported today occurred when a flying bomb was hit over the sea and glided several miles, crashing on an English coastal village, causing damage to a number of dwellings. There were no casualties. In the same district another village was damaged when a raider crashed there after having been hit by an R. A. F. fighter. Four were injured.

Mothers Lack Homes.

Not a single offer of accommodations for evacuee mothers and their babies when they leave an emergency maternity home in Hexham, Northumberland, has so far been received by the district rural council. This was despite an urgent appeal made to householders to take in 30 mothers and their babies upon their discharge from the hospital.

New requisitioning plans to provide accommodations for evacuee mothers with large families will soon be put into effect by the health ministry, it was announced today. "Certain large houses and hostels will be taken over in addition to some premises released by the army authorities," the ministry said.

Authorities are also emphasizing the importance of householders keeping their nearest warden's post informed regarding the movements and whereabouts of members of their families to facilitate investigations when dwellings are hit by flying bombs.

Bomb Near Parliament.

One of the bombs fell recently just across the Thames river from the houses of parliament, it was disclosed officially. The bomb hit an empty wing of the St. Thomas hospital. All 24 patients in a nearby ward escaped injury. St. Thomas was bombed first more than three years ago by German planes.

R. A. F. Lancasters blasted robot bomb installations in France for the third time in 24 hours.

The Stockholm newspaper Aftonbladet said the Nazis now are producing the winged projectiles at a rate of more than 4,000 per day, in preparation for what the newspaper called the "second phase" of Hitler's revenge bombing.

Secret Investigation

Washington, July 24 (AP).—The naval board of inquiry into circumstances surrounding the Japanese surprise attack on Pearl Harbor formally began its work today. The board held an organization meeting to plan procedure a week ago, deciding then that its proceedings would not be public. The president of the court, Adm. Orin G. Murfin, and the two members, Adm. Edward C. Kalbfus and Vice Adm. Adolphus Andrews, all retired, were sworn in by the judge advocate of the board, Comdr. Harold Biesemeier.

15 ARMY FLYERS ARE MISSING OFF NORTH CAROLINA

Pope Field, N. C., July 24 (AP).—Three C-47 transport planes and 15 men comprising their crews today officially were reported missing off the North Carolina coast by the commanding officer of this army air base at which the men and planes were stationed.

The planes, on an over water training flight, were last heard from Friday night. Since then extensive search for the men and planes has been conducted by army, navy, and Coast Guard installations, but was terminated tonight, the announcement said, with exhaustion of all hope of finding them.

The missing men included 2d Lt. Donald W. Copeland, Council Bluffs, Ia., and 2d Lt. Milton J. Verburg, Holland, Mich.

2 Navy Flyers Killed.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 24 (AP).—Names of two men who died in the crash of a naval training plane near here today were announced by the Wold-Chamberlain naval base tonight as Lt. James V. Quinn, 29, New Rochelle, N. Y., and Seaman 1st Class Willis E. Hundley, 19, Columbus, O.

BRITISH PLANES UNLOAD BOMBS ON STUTTGART

LONDON, July 25 [Tuesday]—(AP).—The R. A. F. delivered another heavy blow to Germany during the night, a large force of bombers carrying out a powerful raid on Stuttgart while Mosquitos again attacked battered Berlin. Other British planes struck simultaneously at German flying bomb sites in northern France.

It was the R. A. F.'s second successive heavy night assault on the Reich, a large force of heavy bombers having unloaded a great weight of explosives on the naval base of Kiel Sunday night.

Other Yank heavies, escorted by Lightning and Mustang fighters, swung into southern France, hitting airfields at Valence, La Tresorerie, and Les Chanoines. Four troop concentrations were hit in Yugoslavia.

The R. A. F. hit Kiel with nearly 3,000 tons of high explosives and incendiary bombs. It was there that sailors mutinied as Germany collapsed in 1918.

3 JAP ATTACKS ON GUINEA RIVER LINE REPULSED

ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, July 25 [Tuesday] (AP).—American artillery and rifle fire turned back three desperate Japanese attacks along the Driniumor river front in New Guinea, headquarters announced today.

The Japanese attacked Saturday and Sunday. The few isolated units which managed to infiltrate the American lines are being wiped out, the announcement said. Enemy casualties are running into the thousands.

A spokesman for Gen. MacArthur said the counted dead in the Wewak sector even before the last attacks began totaled 1,474. An estimated 45,000 Japanese, trapped between Australian forces along the Sepik river on the east and Americans at Aitape on the west, are attempting to drive thru the American block into Dutch New Guinea.

Japs Dissipate Strength.

Gen. MacArthur's bulletin said:

"The enemy made another attempt to breach the Driniumor river line in frontal assaults combined with flank envelopment from the south. The main attacks broke down under our artillery fire; footholds gained by the infiltration of isolated detachments are being liquidated in local counter-attacks now in progress; the fighting is sharp.

"In these successive assaults on narrow frontages, in a column of companies, over a period of days the enemy shows an apparent inability to deliver a concentrated effort with his combined forces. His piecemeal attacks result in localized combat in which he is rapidly dissipating his strength. In his rear every bivouac and supply point has been pounded by air bombardment and his carrier lines absorbing the bulk of his service elements have been strafed incessantly.

Foe Fights Starvation.

"The relentless interdiction of our light naval force has destroyed the bulk of his barges and reduced his truck traffic along the coastal road to inappreciable volume. Prisoners of war give a vivid picture of deterioration on the line of communications to Wewak and the starvation level of his supplies forward. His casualties already run into the thousands and his fight for survival is becoming more acute."

MacArthur's planes continued their support of American landing operations in the Marianas, by hammering Palau, Yap and Woleai in the Carolines. Two of eight intercepting enemy planes were destroyed at Yap.

Other bombers sank two supply luggers off western Vogelkop, the peninsula on the extreme western tip of Dutch New Guinea.

THERE'S HUNTING ON TINIAN ASIDE FROM THE JAPS

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The "hunting" on Tinian Island, invaded by United States marines, should be good in more ways than one. The leathernecks, now busy hunting Japs, probably will turn to animal hunting later on.

Tinian, with an area of about 20 square miles, is known for its natural beauty and as the home of great herds of wild cattle. For 50 years Tinian supplied cured beef to other islands in the Marianas chain, which extends 500 miles north and south.

Tinian also is noted for its prehistoric ruins—a double row of truncated masonry pyramids.

French Source Reports Vichy Isolated by Maquis

LONDON, July 24 (AP).—An authoritative French source said today that Vichy had been completely isolated, with all roads, railroads and telephone lines into the collaborationist capital cut by Maquis [guerrilla] forces. This source conceded the isolation was essentially a harassing operation and probably was only temporary.

2,000 BED ROME HOSPITAL RUN BY STAFF FROM N. U.

Majority of Doctors and Nurses Chicagoans.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, July 13 [By mail].—The story was told today how the Northwestern university army medical unit created a general hospital on the outskirts of Rome equal in size to the Cook County hospital, and had it in operation within five days.

Housed in a huge abandoned Italian barracks and surrounding buildings, it is the largest general hospital here.

Originally, explained Col. John H. Sturgeon, the director, the Northwestern unit was supposed to take over the Rome tuberculosis sanitarium for a general hospital. After the city fell, however, it was discovered that the sanitarium was filled and had a waiting list of 600 Romans—one of the results of privation endured under Nazi occupation.

"There was nothing to do but find another plant," said Col. Sturgeon, who graduated from Northwestern university medical school in time to serve with the army medical corps thru the last war and has been in the army ever since. "We found the barracks, and it has suited our purposes admirably."

Civilians Move Mines.

Of course, he continued, there was the matter of booby traps and mines, but in this Italian civilians were a help. They had removed most before the nurses and doctors began to move in. Then there was the matter of assembling civilian help. For this an Italian lieutenant colonel, found wandering on the premises, came in handy, and he has continued to serve as major domo of the charwomen and laborers hired from the local talent.

The unit lost no time in following up the Fifth army advance, records show. The city fell June 4 and by June 12, doctors, nurses, corpsmen and other members had arrived with their scores of truck loads of equipment and supplies, including beds, bedding, laboratory and medical paraphernalia and operating room equipment. Five days after they began to move into the buildings, said Col. Sturgeon, they had their first 300 patients, and within the first seven days an excellent X-ray and diagnostic laboratory was beginning to turn out photographs and reports under the direction of Lt. Col. Earl R. Crowder, 620 Barton av., Evanston, formerly of the Evanston hospital.

Today the hospital, north of the Tiber on a picturesque country road, is in full operation with a normal capacity of 2,000 beds and a possible maxium of 2,500. The plant covers 80 acres.

Many Are Well Known.

The unit includes officer and enlisted personnel largely from the Chicago area, who have served together thru the African and Italian campaigns. There are 73 medical and administrative officers, 166 nurses and 656 enlisted men besides physio-therapists, Red Cross workers and dieticians. Many are well known in Chicago medical circles.

Chief of medicine is Lt. Col. Marion Barker, 303 E. Superior st., Chicago, formerly of Passavant hospital. Lt. Col. Michael L. Mason, 916 Castlewood terr., Chicago, is chief of surgery, and his assistant is Maj. Harvey S. Allen, 2920 Pine Grove av., Chicago, both also of Passavant. Heading a special section devoted to treatment of mental exhaustion cases is Maj. Benjamin Boshes, 4900 Drexel blvd., another former Passavant staff member.

Before the move from Naples to Rome Col. Barker and Maj. Richard B. Capps, 1215 E. 56th st., Chicago, formerly of St. Luke's hospital, conducted special research into liver disease and jaundice.

Tribune Nurse There.

The chief nurse is Maj. Katherine Baltz, 6047 University av., of the Passavant staff. One of her assistants is Capt. Margaret Lacey, 29 E. Division st., Chicago, former Tribune chief nurse. Serving with Capt. Lacey is her sister, Lt. Ida, who was married July 8 to Lt. Martin A. Akerblon of Jersey City, N. J., in St. Paul's Episcopal church, Rome.

POLISH COUNCIL DEMANDS SLICE OF GERMAN SOIL

MOSCOW, July 24 (AP).—The newly established National Council of Poland declared in a manifesto announced today that the Polish government in London is an "impostrous, incompetent authority," and called for "restoration to the motherland" of East Prussia and other portions of eastern Germany.

In the manifesto, dated July 22 at Chelm, Poland, liberated Saturday by the Red army, the council explained it had set itself up as the organ of executive power.

Establishment of the council was interpreted in Moscow to mean that, so far as the soviet union is concerned, the Polish government in London no longer represents Poland.

Demand Part of Germany.

Calling for Poles to join the Polish army to "take vengeance upon the Germans," the manifesto said:

"Rise to the struggle for greatness of Poland, for restoration to the motherland of old Polish Pomorze and Silesia, for eastern Prussia, for a wide outlet to the sea, and for Polish frontier posts on the other!"

[An Oder river frontier would move the pre-war Polish-German boundary westward to Breslau and Stettin and would include in Poland all of East Prussia, most of Pomerania and part of Brandenburg.]

The manifesto said the national council was composed of "representatives of democratic parties, Socialists, members of the Polish Workers' party and other organizations. The supremacy of the national council of Poland has been recognized by Polish organizations abroad and in the first place by the Union of Polish Patriots in the U. S. S. R. and the army which it has formed."

"Hindered Struggle."

The council declared the London "emigre" government's authority was based "upon the unlawful fascist constitution of April, 1935," and that the London government had "hindered the struggle against Hitlerite occupationists." The council said it had named the liberation committee in conformity with the constitution of March 17, 1921, and that main provisions of this constitution would remain valid until convocation of an elected constituent assembly.

Urge Alliance with Reds.

"The eastern border," said the manifesto, "should be a line of neighborly friendship, not a barrier between us and our neighbors; it should be regulated according to the principle: Polish lands to Poland, while Ukrainian, White Russian, and Lithuanian territories should be included in the soviet Ukraine, soviet White Russia, and soviet Lithuania, respectively.

"A firm alliance with the soviet union and Czechoslovakia is the basic principle of the Polish foreign policy."

The council, in a decree dated Warsaw, July, 21, said the council was temporarily given executive powers for "safeguarding the independence of and reëstablishing the Polish state."

President and leader of the committee, who also will serve as foreign secretary, will be Edward Boleslav Osubka-Moraviki. The committee announced the state would be located in "liberated territory."

Names Army Leaders.

Another decree, dated July 22 at Warsaw, ordered the army fighting against the Germans in Poland and the present Polish army fighting with the Red army to be unified under Gen. Mikgail Rolia Schinerski, chief of national defense. The decree stipulated, however, this would not interfere with the Red army's present direction over the Polish army.

[The Polish government in London, recognized by the United States and Great Britain but no longer by Moscow, labeled formation of the liberation committee "an attempt by a handful of usurpers to impose on the Polish nation a political leadership which is at variance with the overwhelming majority." The committee, said the government statement, was composed of persons "mostly completely unknown to the Polish people, who represent nobody except a small communist group without any influence."]

CHINESE BATTLE JAPS WHO BREAK INTO HENGYANG

CHUNGKING, China, July 24 (AP).—Japanese units penetrated the southwestern outskirts of encircled Hengyang in Human province yesterday and both sides suffered heavy losses in the bitter battle which ensued, the Chinese high command announced tonight.

On all sides, the defenders of the Canton-Hankow railway city were engaged in heavy fighting. The high command claimed "our positions were safe" after repeated Japanese counter-attacks. North and northwest of the city, a bulletin said, Chinese troops took several important villages.

Push on in India.

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDG., Kandy, Ceylon, July 24 (AP).—British troops advancing southward along the Tiddim road in the frontier sector of northeastern India in pursuit of retreating Japanese forces have now pushed into the fringes of the Kuki hills east of the Imphal plain, an allied bulletin said today. Little resistance has been encountered in the advance, the bulletin said.

GERMANS BURN FRENCH SIDE OF BORDER VILLAGE

BERN, Switzerland, July 24 (AP).—The French section of the village of St. Gingolph straddling the border with Switzerland was burned to the ground yesterday by Nazis in retaliation for a raid by French patriots, and 350 elderly men, women and children fled across the border to Swiss soil.

Several civilians were summarily shot. A number of persons were arrested. The Nazis moved in quickly in motor vehicles and turned flame throwers on homes and near-by farms.

[A dispatch in the Geneva newspaper La Suisse, reaching the office of war information, said that "women and children threw themselves into the mountain stream separating the Swiss village from the French in order to gain Swiss soil." This account said several fugitives were fired upon and seriously wounded by Nazi troopers.]

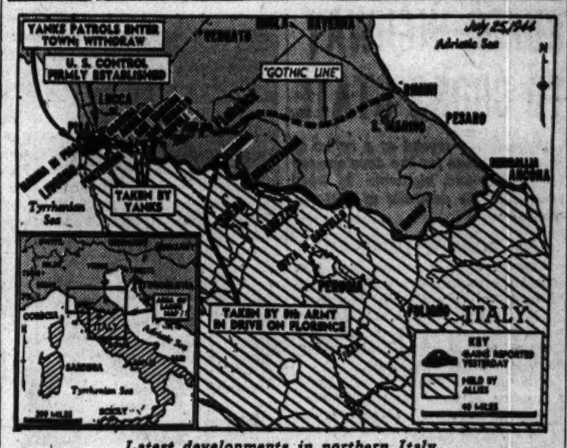
Yanks Advance on Italian Front



Latest developments in northern Italy.

YANKS TAKE FIRM GRIP ON BANK OF ARNO INSIDE PISA

Extend Front Inland Toward Florence.

ROME, July 24 (AP).—The end of the first year of Italy's revolt against fascism found American troops firmly established tonight along the southern bank of the Arno river between Florence and Pisa and preparing to assault the "Gothic line" guarding the one-third of Italy still in enemy hands.

Doughboys already had fought their way thru all that portion of the historic city of Pisa which lies south of the Arno and were swiftly annihilating the few enemy pockets of resistance remaining east of the city. Advance American elements crossed the Arno canal and occupied Cascina, nine miles east of Pisa.

12 Miles from Florence.

Florence, great inland communications center and shrine of the arts, was almost within the grasp of other 5th army forces slugging northward along highway No. 2 from Poggibonsi. Latest field reports placed this column in the village of Strada, only 12 miles from the outskirts of Florence.

[Monday's German war bulletin said the Americans made "major attacks against our rear guards north of Livorno" and the guards withdrew to the north bank of the Arno. The Germans said the fighting was "particularly grim in the area north of Poggibonsi, where our troops frustrated all enemy attacks, inflicting heavy losses."]

Approximately half the 42 miles of the Arno between Florence and Pisa was held by Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's forces, with the Nazis strongly entrenched on high ground rising from the northern banks of the twisting stream. There was no report of allied troops having crossed the river at any point.

Hurl Shells Into Livorno.

German long range guns planted on commanding heights north and northeast of Pisa continued to hurl big shells into Livorno [Leghorn], in an effort to prevent allied reconstruction of shattered port facilities. Heavy fire also was laid against American forces in Pontedera, 12 miles east of Pisa, presumably to prevent a massing of troops for a thrust across the Arno at that point.

Arno valley towns seized in yesterday's Yank advance included San Romano, Angelica, and San Miniato, the latter five miles southwest of Empoli.

The Nazis made a strong counter-attack at San Miniato, using a number of self-propelled guns, but were thrown back hard. An American patrol entered Marina di Pisa at the mouth of the Arno just west of Pisa, found the town unoccupied and withdrew.

British forces made only slight advances in the Arezzo sector near the center of the battleline but took Terranuova in fighting three miles beyond Citta di Castello in the upper Tiber valley, killing some 120 Germans in the latter push.

HOTEL CLERK SWINDLED.

Ethel Hennessey, clerk at the Maryland hotel, 900 Rush st., reported to police yesterday that she was shortchanged $30 by a customer who asked change for a $50 bill and then confused her by passing bills back and forth.

ALLIED BOMBERS AID TITO'S PARTISANS ON 3 YUGOSLAV SECTORS

LONDON, July 24 (AP).—With allied Liberators giving a helping hand by bombing German troop concentrations in southern Yugoslavia, Partisan forces have engaged in the heaviest fighting in weeks on three sectors—Bosnia, Serbia and Montenegro—a bulletin by Marshal Josip [Tito] Broz said tonight.

Partisan forces captured Tesanj, an enemy stronghold in central Bosnia, where the enemy's 6th Ustashi regiment was routed and suffered heavy losses in addition to 250 taken prisoners, said the bulletin.

Bitter fighting in the Kopaonik area of Serbia continued for the fifth day, said the war bulletin, and so far an enemy Serbian division has lost 800 in dead, wounded and prisoners. "Violent battles" also were reported with a German SS division in the valley of the upper Lim in Montenegro.

KING OF BRITAIN IN ITALY; WILL INSPECT FRONTS

ROME, July 24 (AP).—King George VI. of England, in the olive green uniform of a field marshal, arrived in Italy by plane today on an inspection tour which will carry him to forward battle fronts approaching Pisa, Florence, and Rimini. The trip from Britain was broken by one three hour halt.

Gen. Henry Maitland Wilson, Mediterranean theater commander; John Cunningham, allied naval commander in this theater; Harold MacMillen, British minister to the French committee in Algiers; and Air Vice Marshal G. B. A. Baker greeted the king, who stood under a wing of his plane for five minutes chatting. With him were his secretary; his equerry; Group Capt. E. H. Fielden, captain of the king's aircraft; a bodyguard; and two valets.

Wing Comdr. Henry Collins, the pilot, said the king spent about 20 minutes in the cockpit before retiring last night. He was interested particularly in the automatic pilot. Collins flew in over the Volcano Vesuvius.

BUSY CANADIANS EYE LEAN DAYS OF PEACE TIME

Plan Now for Stress of Unemployment.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Canada, July 24.—In the midst of war time prosperity, Canada is preparing a program to cope with post-war unemployment.

It includes a 10 year housing expansion plan and heavy participation in supplying goods thru the united nations rehabilitation and relief administration all aimed at maintaining the national income at $7,500,000,000, which is twice the pre-war level.

The Canadians do not ship huge quantities of food overseas as we do but, nevertheless, have more food rationing regulations. The visitor notices that immediately in the restaurants and hotels. He can get only one cup of coffee or tea in the morning for breakafst and sugar is doled out by the spoonful, not more than two per person.

Food Prices Are Lower.

On the other hand food seems to be cheaper than in Washington, New York, or Chicago, judged by hasty comparison. A good meal in a decent place costs 50 to 60 cents and a more elaborate one, a dollar, where the same thing could cost at least $1.50 or $1.75 across the border in a comparable place.

American accents are heard abundantly around Montreal now, mostly the accents of the eastern states. Tourist entertainment is not now what it was in pre-war days, but the visitor still is made much of and can enjoy himself.

Occasional American visitors to Montreal are Communist and CIO speakers. They get scant welcome here and on occasion have been deported back across the frontier.

The provinces have their own system of liquor rationing. In bars here hard liquor is obtainable by the drink from 12 noon to 1:30 p. m. and from 5:30 to 10 p. m. Each Canadian can purchase one 26 ounce bottle of liquor per month. To obtain it one goes to a liquor store and pays a dollar for a permit, which is valid for two months' purchases. At the next window, he pays $3 for a bottle of rye or gin.

Travel Restrictions Eased.

Until recently, war time security regulations made it difficult for Canadians to go to the United States. But now Canadians, or British subjects domiciled in Canada, can enter the United States for visits of 29 days or less without a passport, visa, or border crossing card. They are allowed $150 of American exchange for pleasure travel.

An example is presented of how the Ottawa agreements and imperial preference arrangements within the commonwealth work to the detriment of trade between Canada and the United States. Quebec has a largely French-Canadian population which in normal times, drinks table wines. Before the war a certain quantity of wine was obtained cheaply from France. But for years there has been none. Because of the preference arrangements promoted by the London government only commonwealth wines can be found in Canada. They are expensive because they come from Australia or South Africa. A bottle costs as much as $3 whereas across the border in New York state an excellent wine would cost about one-third as much. But no New York vineyard product can be had in Canada because of the "Buy Empire" policy.

French Widely Spoken.

In Quebec French is most widely spoken and here in Montreal it is about fifty-fifty. French speaking Canadians and those who speak English do not get on well together and their differences have been increased by the war, it seems.

A French Canadian with whom I talked last week declared the French element here was more Canadian than the English.

"We are rooted in the soil," he said. "We are first of all Canadians. That is why we don't want to go overseas to fight in some one else's quarrel. We believe the English speaking Canadians here in many instances give their first loyalty to England and their second to Canada."

Incidentally Gen. Charles de Gaulle was received indifferently in Canada. I observed his visit to Quebec, the heart of French Canada. The mayor had asked the townspeople to display flags. But there were practically none on the houses and only a few appeared on the official buildings.

Letter Exposes Prejudice.

It is significant, I was told in Montreal, that the antagonism between the English and the French speaking Canadians now finds such open expression. The following parts of a letter which appeared in a Montreal paper last week give a picture of things:

"Sir—You will find swastikas painted or chalked on a number of walls in the very heart of Montreal. The other day while passing on Vitre st., near a newspaper office I saw a swastika painted on the front of the building. . . . For several months there was a large inscription in an alley leading from St. Catherine st. proclaiming "Vive Petain." . . . During the referendum campaign boys plastered automobiles with "Votez Non" [Vote No] stickers. I saw them do it." . . . Canadien de l'est.

ILLINOIS PLANS SUPER-HIGHWAY TO CROSS STATE

[This is the second of a series of stories on plans for the development of Chicagoland highways to keep pace with the demands of post-war traffic.]

BY ROBERT HOWARD.

After the war, Illinois will construct the middle west's first superhighway to cross a state. It will be U. S. 66, the heavily traveled 285 mile diagonal route leading from Chicago past Joliet to Bloomington, Springfield, and St. Louis.

The old two lane U. S. 66, almost a casualty of war time truck traffic, is now being rebuilt at the request of the federal government. By late 1945, the new two lane pavement will be completed, Wesley W. Polk, Illinois' chief highway engineer, said yesterday.

New Pavement Built in Sections.

"The improvements consist of a 24 foot pavement, built alongside but separated from the old pavement by a parkway," said Polk. "Traffic thus is able to use the old pavement while the new is under construction. As fast as the new sections are completed, the old are abandoned except for short stretches needed for local service. After the war, the abandoned pavement will be reconstructed, thereby converting the highway to a four lane divided type."

The post-war work on U. S. 66 is included in the 10 year road and street modernization plan sponsored by Gov. Green so that metropolitan Chicago can be assured of adequate highway gateways.

Program Looks to Future.

Polk, former city engineer for Evanston, and other engineers are designing U. S. 66 as the model for post-war highway construction, so that automobiles of the future can travel safely and nonstop at express speeds. Similar construction is being planned on other routes for shorter distances, and all work is laid out so that a present two lane highway, if overtaxed in the future, can be converted into a super-road.

Planners such as Robert Kingery, general manager of the Chicago Regional Planning association, have fixed standards that a super-highway must meet. Virtually all are in the blueprints for U. S. 66.

Plan Smooth Traffic Flow.

North and south traffic lanes will be divided by a parkway, except for short stretches here and there. Cloverleaf grade separations will make stop signs, stop and go lights, and left hand turns unnecessary. Under a new law, adjoining landowners will have only limited access to the expressway, an added factor for safety. Country roads will be closed wherever possible.

Planned for U. S. 66 are belt lines to carry traffic around Dwight and Pontiac. Belt lines already exist at Bloomington, Lincoln, and Springfield, and the routing of the road through Plainfield was itself a belt line project to keep thru traffic out of the Joliet business district.

Some Sections Now 4 Laned.

On some sections, U. S. 66 already is a four lane highway. The current work, started in 1943, was authorized by the federal public roads administration when the pavement, pounded by big trucks hauling overloads of war materials, started to break up.

When Chicago cashes in on the long deferred plans for super-highways to take congestion from its own streets, U. S. 66 will connect with the southwest route and enter the city along the abandoned Illinois and Michigan canal, instead of bucking traffic on Ogden av. and thru the west side streets.

Boon for Peorians.

Peoria motorists, who now reach Chicago by any of several routes on either side of the Illinois river, in the future will go eastward to enter U. S. 66 at Chenoa, state engineers said. For their benefit, U. S. 24 is to be relocated, going due west from Cruger to a projected new bridge at upper Peoria, which has an early priority on the state program.

West of Peoria, from Bartonville to Canton, the state plans a 24 mile stretch of divided four lane highway on route 9.

State plans, however, call for new pavement on most of the road between Quincy and Hannibal, Mo., to Springfield, a main east-west artery across Illinois. From Springfield, due east to the south of Decatur, avoiding what is now one of the most congested roads in the state, other plans contemplate a 43 mile relocation of U. S. 36. Then it would be possible to drive from Springfield to Indiana with only a few turns.

Contract Trouble

OLIVIA DE HAVILLAND.

Los Angeles, July 24 (AP).—Warner Brothers' studio, carrying to Appellate court a Superior court decision abrogating Olivia de Havilland's contract, alleged today that the film star on many occasions refused to work, "declining to appear in photoplays she did not deem suitable to her stature as an actress."

The studio asserted she refused to fulfil the obligations of her contract and worked only about six and a half years of the specified seven.

She was suspended by Warners in March, 1943, after declining a role in the film, "Animal Kingdom." She sued and a Superior court held she was no longer bound by the contract.

TRIANGLE TOLL: ONE WIFE GONE, SECOND BURIED

Mrs. Phyllis Loncher.

Mrs. Phyllis Loncher, 18, yesterday left the little village of Hampshire, in Kane county, for her home in West Virginia, and Mrs. Ada Fisher, 27, was buried in Hampshire. This was the aftermath of a tragedy in which both young women figured.

Mrs. Loncher moved to Hampshire five weeks ago with her infant son, George Jr., to be near her husband, Corp. George Loncher, a soldier assigned to guard German war prisoners. She met Harold Fisher, Ada's husband. A friendship developed.

Last Saturday, Mrs. Loncher was riding with Fisher in his car when Mrs. Fisher drove up in another car. In trying to hail her husband, Mrs. Fisher fell to the pavement, and was killed. A coroner's jury pronounced her death accidental. State's Atty. Charles G. Seidel, however, berated both Fisher and Mrs. Loncher.

SPELLMAN SAYS HE DIDN'T TALK PEACE TO POPE

ROME, Italy, July 24 (AP).—Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York made a formal denial today that his visit to Pope Pius XII. had anything to do with possible peace overtures by the Vatican. He issued a statement thru a spokesman after learning of reports published in America that he had discussed a papal peace plan with the pope yesterday. Archbishop Spellman repeatedly has said the purpose of his trip was to visit soldiers. He did not come directly to Rome but stopped off in North Africa to see soldiers and the work of Catholic chaplains. Vatican quarters likewise denied that a peace plan was the subject of Bishop Spellman's conversations with the pope or that the pope was expected to come forward with a peace plan.

HEARINGS ON AIR LINES PURCHASE STARTED BY CAB

BY FRANK STURDY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 24.—Plans for regular trans-Atlantic passenger flights from Chicago and other inland cities of the United States were described by officials of American Airlines today at the opening of the civil aeronautics board's hearings of the American Airlines' application for the purchase of a controling interest in American Export Airlines.

The Export line, now flying commercial routes to England and Africa across the North and South Atlantic, at present is the only transoceanic competitor of Pan American Airways, dominant American company in the international field, with 82,000 miles of routes thruout the world. Most of the other large lines have filed applications for transoceanic routes.

American Export Airlines was founded in 1937 as a subsidiary of American Export Lines, a steamship company. In January, 1943, the CAB ordered that the air line be separated from the ship line. An agreement then was made for American Airlines to acquire control of Export's air subsidiary. This agreement is the subject of the hearing.

Luxury Service Forecast.

Ralph Damon, vice president of American Airlines, testified that the outlook at present is for the use of Douglas DC 6 planes on the trans-Atlantic course. This type is a civil version of the DC 4, a four engined, tricycle geared, long range aircraft now used by the army air forces as the C 54 Skymaster.

Damon gave no hint of the type of passenger accommodations to be offered, but luxurious service is a certainty, probably with sleeper arrangements. Crossings will be made at much greater speeds than those now made by Pan American and American Export. The DC 4 cruises at over 200 miles an hour, the flying boats at 140 and 160.

The same type plane will be used in long domestic flights, Damon said, with the result that integration of the functions of American Airlines and American Export would result in economies and better passenger service. He estimated that $600,000 a year would be saved thru combined use of maintenance and meteorological facilities and other equipment.

Await CAB Program.

Cross-examined by Pan American's attorney, Damon said precise studies of traffic potentials and costs had not been made because the CAB has not defined its post-war program for international routes. He said all of Airlines' forecasting had been done on the assumption of a schedule of three trans-Atlantic round trips a day eight months of the year, and two round trips a day the remaining four months.

Questions of customs examinations, quarantine, and other matters concerned with ports of entry, important to Chicago if it is to be a starting point of flights to Europe, cannot be determined now, he said. The line's proposed route shows Boston as the coastal jumping off point.

If American Airlines is successful in its effort to buy control of the Export company, it is expected to adhere to the route shown in Export's pending applications for its own trans-Atlantic route.

These applications show Chicago as the starting point of a great circle route thru Newfoundland to England, France, the Mediterranean, and the near east. It also has an application for a route to South America and Africa with New York as the starting point.

Seniority Rights Unsettled.

Seniority rights of pilots and other organized employes of the American Air Lines and American Export could be settled among the employe groups, Damon said in answer to questions by an attorney for the Air Line Pilots' association. American Air Lines, Damon said, would accept any arrangement agreed upon by the employes.

A. N. Kemp, president of American Air Lines, described the purchase negotiations, which he said were begun in January, 1943, and terminated with American Air Lines' offer to buy a 51.4 per cent interest in Export for 3 million dollars.

SOLDIER ROUTS RIVAL AND HAS WIFE ARRESTED

Mrs. Louise Barclay, 28, of 8410 Green Bay av., was arrested on a disorderly conduct charge made yesterday by her husband, Pvt. Alexander Barclay, 30, who asserted he discovered her with another soldier when he arrived unexpectedly from Camp Wolters, Tex. Pvt. Barclay told police he routed the soldier with a hammer, then beat his wife, and blackened both her eyes. Police said Mrs. Barclay served 10 days in the Bridewell after her arrest on May 23 on a charge of neglecting their three young children.

What else could he do? Those are the only trees on his property.

VETS DENOUNCE 'PAMPERING' OF WAR PRISONERS

Parties for Italians Stir Protests.

Boston, Mass., July 24 [Special].—The "pampering and coddling" of Italian war prisoners by army authorities and civilians was criticized today by the 101st Infantry Veterans' association in a resolution sent to the war department.

Even while the resolution was being prepared a group of Italian war prisoners from Camp McKay, in the Dorchester district of Boston, were guests of a club in suburban Somerville which entertained them with a picnic and a ball game.

"These prisoners should receive only such rights and courtesies as are provided under international law," the World war veterans' resolution declared. "Some of them killed and maimed our soldiers. Their axis partners have murdered and tortured their prisoners of war.

New Vets Agree.

"They have received courtesies almost equal to those rendered dignitaries of friendly nations. Could these conditions exist in Germany or Italy? They have been coddled and pampered by citizens as well as army authorities."

Thomas Barry of Boston, state commander of the Allied Veterans of World War II., announced that his organization, which he said numbered 60,000 members, is in accord with the resolution.

Objects to "Hero" Role.

Rep. Welchel [R., O.], a veteran of the World war, protested to the war department July 15 about a civic celebration for Italian prisoners of war planned to be held in Sandusky, O., under army auspices. He declared Ohio citizens are becoming incensed at the pampering of prisoners.

"What do you mean," his telegram to the war department asked, "by parading around, finely outfitting, especially entertaining, and hauling in army trucks to Cleveland, Toledo, and other northern Ohio cities Italian prisoners and calling them United States soldiers?"

Church Serves Dinner.

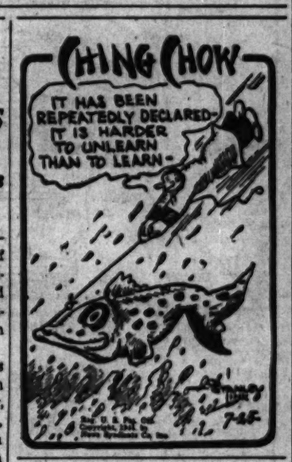
Portland, Ore., July 24 (AP).—Italian prisoners of war, serving as a quartermaster unit at Vancouver barracks, Wash., were guests here yesterday at a spaghetti dinner served by the St. Philip-Neri Roman Catholic church.

Col. Robert L. Allen, commander of the Portland port of embarkation, who is in charge of the Italians, commented:

"Such outings are in conformity with war department policy. The availability of these Italians for work has been a considerable factor in releasing workers for essential war tasks in the critical shortage of man power."

Mt. Carmel Flyer in U. S. After Sinking 5 Jap Ships

San Diego, Cal., July 24 (AP).—Marine First Lt. Paul Fullop, 23, of Mt. Carmel, Ill., has returned from the South Pacific for leave and reassignment after "skip-bombing" five Japanese cargo ships to the bottom. The torpedo bomber pilot was awarded the distinguished flying cross for his first sinking, a 500 foot vessel.



FEARS POST-WAR DIVORCES MAY TOP MARRIAGES

Los Angeles, Cal., July 24 (AP).—A soaring divorce rate in Los Angeles may indicate a trend, in some sections of the nation at least, toward more divorces than marriages after the war, Dr. Paul Popenoe, director of the American Institute of Family Relations, said today. To curb the trend, he urged expansion of high school courses and adult education on marriage and family living.

Lecturing at the University of California in Los Angeles, Dr. Popenoe said Los Angeles has a divorce rate half again as high as that of Reno, Nev., despite a California restriction of one year's wait between interlocutory and final decrees.

"The divorce rate in Los Angeles last year was 74 per cent," he said. "In 1945, if partial demobilization brings many service men back to face their hasty war marriages, there most likely will be more divorces than marriages here."

200 RAIL CARS LOST BECAUSE OF RIVETERS STRIKE

Almost 200 steel railroad freight cars, needed by the army and navy for transportation of war materials, have been lost because of a strike of 125 riveters in the Michigan City, Ind., plant of the Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing company, a company official said yesterday. The strike started July 14. Last Friday the production of steel cars was completely shut down because of the strike, it was stated.

The strikers are members of the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of the American Federation of Labor. The men left their jobs because they refused to produce the freight cars at the 1942 rate of production. They said it was "too much work."

The strike compelled the company to shut down the plant, causing several hundred other employes to be laid off.

Lt. Arvey's Bride

MRS. ERWIN D. ARVEY.

Lt. Erwin D. [Buddy] Arvey, son of Lt. Col. Jacob Arvey, former 24th ward alderman, was looking for an apartment for his bride yesterday afternoon—but not meeting with much success. She is Macie Marie Ainsworth Ettinger Moran Manville Arvey, otherwise Sunny Ainsworth, 20, blonde Texas show girl, model, and seventh ex-wife of Tommy Manville, the white haired marrying millionaire.

The couple was married Saturday in South Haven, Mich., where the five day waiting period required by Michigan law was waived. They are staying at the Seneca hotel while Arvey completes a terminal leave from the army, which will release him Aug. 10. He met his bride two years ago in New York before her marriage to Manville.

Arvey, 27, won the silver star for gallantry in Sicily for attacking a pair of tanks with a jeep and a tommy gun. Later he won two oak leaf clusters and the Purple Heart in the landings at Salerno, Italy. Months in English and United States hospitals followed. In April, on sick leave, he renewed his acquaintance with Sunny which had been kept alive by letter writing.

Lt. Col. Jacob Arvey, who has never seen Sunny, is on duty with the judge advocate general's department in New Guinea. His wife, Edith, lives at the Belden-Stratford hotel, 2300 Lincoln Park West.

Buddy told reporters he had "forgiven and forgotten" the Manville incident in Sunny's life.

Tintinger, 32, an infantryman, was killed in France June 24, just 12 days after he had written his wife, Bernice, from England that he was eager to see action. Tintinger entered the army a year ago. A brother, Michael, is in the seabees. The second Aurora casualty is Pvt. Donald Flaherty, 24, a paratrooper, reported missing in action in France. He enlisted in the regular army in 1939, and became a paratrooper last December. His wife, Kathleen, and a 3 year old son live in Des Moines, Ia. His mother, Mrs. Elmer Flaherty, lives at 714 Front st., Aurora.

Wants $50,000

LORRAINE MILLER.

Hollywood, Cal., July 24 [Special].—Samuel Goldwyn, motion picture producer, today was made the defendant in a $50,000 damage suit filed by Miss Lorraine Miller, actress, in Superior court. The action is based on the alleged mislabeling of a still picture.

The petition stated the plaintiff posed for a still picture at the Goldwyn studio on Dec. 15, 1943; that when the picture appeared in the finished product it was labeled "Diana Mumby, Samuel Goldwyn's most cuddlesome blonde."

Miss Miller charges that the picture was given wide circulation among the fighting forces and elsewhere and caused great confusion among picture people as there is a real Diana Mumby, also an actress.

25,000 COUNTY SOLDIERS ASK STATE BALLOT

Board Votes $35,000 to Facilitate Work.

Democratic charges that soldiers might be reluctant to vote under the service men's ballot law were shaken yesterday, when two recording agencies disclosed that 25,000 applications for ballots had been received from Cook county residents and the county board appropriate $35,000 for expenses incurred in assisting them.

George McCollom of the county clerk's office, which controls election machinery in the suburban area, said that to date there had been about 10,000 applications for soldier ballots. In the board of election commissioners' office, which handles voting in the city, Atty. John Daly said that the office total is about 15,300.

Applications Held for Deadline.

Under the state law the election board and the county clerk should not receive applications until 100 days before election—July 31—but they began last April to receive and file all such requests.

The only firm deadline for mailing the state ballots is 5 days before election and experts said that this probably would apply to all service voters in the United States. They also said there probably would not be any ballots sent out unless they could be marked and returned by election day. Soldiers abroad would thus find their deadline depending on the mail situation.

Most Applicants Overseas.

Both County Clerk Flynn and the election board have announced that any soldier who wants to vote can do so, and that eligibles may write individual letters or use the standard army forms in their requests. The great majority of applicants so far are serving outside the United States.

The county board also made extra appropriations of $80,000 for the county treasurer's office and $20,000 for the county board of tax appeals. County Treasurer Schlaeger informed the board that his present staff is inadequate to handle the collection of taxes and that some of the employes in this work would have to be dismissed unless funds were made available.

Treasurer Needs Help.

In the 1944 budget, approved last February, cuts from the treasurer's pay roll amounted to about $60,000. Schlaeger has said it was impossible to get competent temporary help for the peak tax paying period with the money appropriated.

The tax appeals board is always busiest after a quadrennial year, when all real estate is reappraised. John Toman, member of the board, said it appeared there would be about 50,000 cases to be heard, some 15,000 to 17,000 less than four years ago. The change to a full assessment basis by Assessor Clark has complicated the board's taxes.

Tax Hearings Next Week.

Assessment complaints can be filed with the board thru Aug. 31. Toman said the board would hold night sessions beginning next week, and would handle hundreds of cases a day.

The county board allowed the bureau of welfare $10,000 with which to hire extra help during the next four months to aid in collecting fees from hospital and clinical patients who are unable to pay or are relief clients. Commissioner Frank Bobrytzke estimated that the additional employes would increase receipts by $5,000 a month.

2 GRANTED LEAVE TO INTERVENE IN SOLDIER'S VOTE

Federal Judge William J. Campbell yesterday granted Atty. Francis Heisler leave to intervene in a suit filed on behalf of three soldiers to compel Gov. Green to certify the so-called bobtail federal ballot for service men overseas. Heisler represents two other soldiers, Staff Sgt. Erwin Kondrat and Pvt. Walter A. Deans, former president and business agent of local 291, United Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Employes of America, CIO. They believe they will be out of the country at election time. Asst. Atty. Gen. William C. Wines said that he had conferred with Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett and that no objection to Heisler's action would be offered. Judge Campbell today will hear arguments on the attorney general's motion to dismiss the suit against the governor on grounds that the federal court lacks jurisdiction in the matter.

BUMPER CROPS HINGE ON BREAK IN LONG DROUTH

Relief Is Vital in Two Weeks, Says Experts.

Dry in East, Too

New York, July 24 [Special].—The prolonged dry weather has caused serious losses to farmers in the agricultural regions near the city, a survey disclosed today. The potato crop has been the worst sufferer but other vegetables and fruits have also been hit. In New Jersey the potato yield has been cut approximately 40 per cent since July 1 by the drouth.

BY GAIL COMPTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lansing, Mich., July 24.—The midwest will harvest an enormous crop this year—the eighth consecutive bumper year—if relief from the drouth comes within the next two weeks, a tour of the corn belt discloses.

Acreages of corn, oats, soybeans, and wheat are at record levels in Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Indiana, and Michigan, and the crops look promising. There is an excellent chance that the peak production of last year will be equaled or exceeded, farm experts declare.

The great determining factor is the drouth, which in some sections of the corn belt is stretching into its third month. Most parts of the midwest have been without adequate rain for a month and a half.

Corn at Critical Stage.

The corn is at its critical stage with tassels coming out and new ears appearing. Soybeans are starting to fill and need rain urgently. Pastures are dry and many dairy farmers are dishing into their first cutting of hay to bolster milk production.

Every state except Iowa expects a substantial increase in its production of corn. A wet spring and delayed planting has slowed the Iowa corn crop, but with favorable weather from now on there is a good chance it will reach last year's high.

Greater Oats Crop Expected.

Altho the oats crop is not as good because of the drouth it still will exceed last year's production, the survey reveals. The winter wheat crop has been one of the largest in more than a century.

The nation will need the harvest of the midwest, farm experts say. Altho severe reductions have been made in the number of hogs, also in poultry numbers, there still is a tremendous number of animals on farms this year.

Feed reserves are dangerously low and the corn belt is living from hand to mouth. The new corn crop can come none too soon to replenish depleted supplies, experts said.

CHICAGO PLANT TO GUIDE NATION ON AID TO VETS

A Chicago pharmaceutical manufacturing company will become a government proving ground to help solve the problem of rehabilitating disabled war veterans.

The plant, owned by George Barr, 31, a chemist who lost his leg in an automobile accident several years ago, has 152 employes, 127 of which are physically handicapped. In spite of this, the Barr company has won the army-navy award for outstanding war production with a record from 17 to 22 per cent above the average production in the pharmaceutical industry.

The army is preparing a visual presentation on the plant's advantages—high morale, superior production, and dependable employes—as an object lesson to other employers thruout the country. Time study projects and motion pictures will show the possibilities and problems involved in hiring handicapped persons.

Wages at the Barr plant, located at 1130 W. 37th st., are the same as prevailing scale for unafflicted workers. They plan to go into postwar production with their complete staff, and to give job preferences to disabled service men.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

July 24, 1944.

DANVILLE, Ill.—Illinois faces one of the greatest crop years in its history with a record acreage set for harvest. Overcoming obstacles of a wet spring, delayed planting, and extensive chinch bug damage, the state is headed for a banner year, if the present drouth is relieved soon.

The corn crop is expected to reach 429 million bushels, a harvest exceeded in only three others years since 1866, said A. J. Surratt, senior agricultural statistician for the state. More than nine million acres have been planted to corn, compared with 8½ million last year.

Oats a Disappointment.

Chinch bugs have harmed the fields, causing some acreage loss, especially in the southern counties, but in the main stands are good and prospects are excellent, Surrat asserted.

The only real disappointment so far has come in oats. The anticipated yield dropped from 113 million bushels last year to 101 million this year, as the drouth struck when the crop was filling. Wheat yields were expected to reach an average of 21 bushels per acre, which is the third highest yield on record. Acreage for harvest is 23 per cent over that of last year.

Rain Urgently Needed.

Nearly all crops were in good condition at the beginning of the month, with average, or above, harvest prospects. The danger of chinch bugs is over at the moment, as the insects are flying now, but they will constitute a real menace in August when the second brood emerges. Rains now would greatly reduce their numbers, Surratt explained.

The drouth must be relieved soon or crops will start a heavy decline; only ample subsoil moisture has prevented this so far, Surratt said. Some corn is starting to fire and pastures are brown, resulting in a shortage of green feed. This is bothering dairymen. Early planted corn and soybeans still are holding up well with late planted crops suffering most from lack of rain.

Hay Is Up, Soybeans Down.

Soybean acreage is down 2 per cent from a year ago. Planting was late, and there are many spotty fields among the almost 2½ million acres sown. Hay production is 10 per cent over that of last year, and the state is expected to put up 3.7 million tons of forage.

The long spell of dry weather has put the farmers back on schedule to make the best of a tight labor situation. The late spring and the early maturity of small grains, because of dry, hot weather, crowded almost six weeks work into the month of June, Surratt said, and farmers were hard put to get the job done.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

A COMMON gardening error at this time of the year is that of replanting garden rows without properly reworking the soil before seeding. Just as it is necessary to spade the ground to a depth of six to nine inches before seeding in the spring, it also is important that the topsoil be thoroly spaded and raked before reseeding the final crops.

An implement that saves considerable time in working the ground in late July and early August is a mattock, which can be used as a substitute spade. The mattock [an axe with a horizontal rather than a vertical blade] can be driven into soil to break up the planting space in less than half the time needed for complete spading. The soil should be thoroly raked after the spade or mattock has been used.

One major difference between spring seeding and late summer planting practice is that of preparing the seed furrow. Seeds can be planted in very shallow furrows near the surface in the spring, but after midsummer drouth periods there is little natural moisture in the topsoil and it is necessary to make the furrows two inches deep and then moisten thoroly for seeding.

U. S. FARM LAND SALE ATTACKED AS PROFITEERING

Illiopolis, Ill., July 24 (AP).—A former owner of Sangamon county farm land condemned and purchased three years ago by the federal government for an ordnance plant near Illiopolis said today that some of the unused land is being offered for sale at $7.50 to $10 more per acre than the government paid for it. He said former owners plan to protest the price.

Will L. Clayton, surplus property officer of the office of war mobilization, has advised United States Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.] that about 4,000 acres on 30 former farms in the Illiopolis area have been offered for resale before Aug. 15 to former owners "at the valuation which independent appraisers have placed upon them."

About 20,000 acres was purchased originally, the bulk of it at bare land values ranging from $150 to $180 per acre, Edwin Bay, Sangamon county farm adviser estimated.

122 GIRLS, WOMEN, AND BOYS LEAVE CITY TO ASSIST FARMERS

A total of 122 boys, girls, and women left Chicago yesterday to help Illinois farmers beat the man power shortage.

Fifty-five girls, 14 to 16 years old, left by truck for Lisle, Ill., to detassel hybrid seed corn for Corn Belt Seed Growers, Inc. They will be housed in the Sacred Heart academy, south of Lisle.

Twenty-seven women, members of the women's land army of the United States crop corps, left by train for De Kalb, where they will detassel corn for the De Kalb Agricultural association. Other groups of Chicago women and girls are detasseling corn at Champaign and El Paso.

Forty Chicago boys, 14 to 16, left by bus to harvest onion crops in southern Cook county. They will stay at the Thornton Victory Farm Volunteer camp.

SENIORITY PLAN FOR RETURNING VETS DRAWN UP

V.F.W., CIO, and AFL Reach Agreement.

Washington, D. C., July 24 (AP).—The CIO and the AFL have agreed with the Veterans of Foreign Wars to grant job seniority rights to returning veterans on a basis of one month's seniority for each month spent in the fighting forces after Sept. 1, 1940.

The agreement is embodied in a statement of general policy on postwar relations between labor and veterans announced tonight by the V. F. W.'s national commander, Carl J. Schoeninger of Detroit. Leaders of each union sat in on the conferences.

Tho the declaration of policy is not binding on individual unions in the AFL and the CIO, it will be recommended to them. Labor and V. F. W. representatives expressed confidence that it will be adopted fully.

Regulate Charges.

In addition to the seniority formula, the agreement provides that qualified veterans will be entitled to union membership at pre-war initiation charges and at current dues rates. It affirms labor's right to organize and bargain collectively, and asserts that a disabled veteran, unable to hold his old job, should be given consideration for other work by his former employer.

The seniority formula, applicable in local unions where work assignments are based on an employe's length of service, covers men who never have held a job prior to entering service and those who had worked, but had not belonged to unions.

Legion Absent at Parley.

Thus it would be possible for a man who learned a trade in the navy or army to enter a union job with full work credit for the period of his military service after Sept. 1, 1940.

Omar B. Ketchum, legislative representative of the V. F. W., said the American Legion had been invited to participate in the conferences, but reported it was unable to do so. The United Mine Workers, railroad brotherhoods, and other independent unions did not take part, but Ketchum said they probably would be asked to adopt the same policies.

WLB Voids Wage Boost for White Collar Workers

San Francisco, Cal., July 24 [Special].—An increase of $15 a month in the stabilized wage rates for "white collar" workers in the San Francisco and Los Angeles areas, announced in May by the tenth regional war labor board, was rescinded today by the national WLB. The regional board's action, which would have permitted wage increases for 194,000 clerical and office employes, "clearly violates" instructions, the national board said.

HOW BOSS RULE AND ROOSEVELT NAMED TRUMAN

came when Truman, together with Sen. Bennett Champ Clark, got the young St. Louis boss appointed commissioner of internal revenue.

Truman Proposes Hannegan.

In the senate Truman was always a hard worker and he tackled the job of investigating the conduct of the war with characteristic vigor. Soon the Roosevelt administration was writhing under the exposures of waste, inefficiency, and corruption. The White House became exceedingly respectful toward Truman and when last winter he proposed Hannegan for chairman of the Democratic national committee, the senator had no difficulty demonstrating that his friend was the very man for the job.

Along in March Truman began to entertain visions of the Vice Presidency and soon was accused of pulling his punches in the war investigation. He issued a statement, circulated by the secretary of the senate, saying that our "wise and experienced" war leadership should be continued. Three Republican members of the Truman committee, Senators Brewster [Me.], Burton [O.], and Ball [Minn.], immediately accused the Missouri senator of playing politics to gain the favor of Mr. Roosevelt. The findings of the Truman committee, they said, "are strongly at variance with those expressed by Sen. Truman in his statement."

Report Against Wallace.

Hannegan sedulously nurtured his friend's chances for the Vice Presidential nomination. As national chairman he surveyed the country politically and reported to Mr. Roosevelt that Vice President Wallace could not be renominated; that with the conservative Democrats violently opposed to him Wallace would be a millstone around the President's fourth term candidacy.

The big city bosses reached Chicago well in advance of the convention. In addition to Hannegan of St. Louis there were Mayor Kelly of Chicago, Mayor Hague of Jersey City, Ed [Paving Blocks] Flynn of New York's Bronx, the Tammany contingent and Frank Kelly of Brooklyn. Then there was a mysterious stranger presenting himself for membership in their lodge: Boss Sidney Hillman of the needle trades, chairman of the communist dominated CIO political action committee, and not even a Democrat, being head of the communist controled American Labor party.

Hillman, a Russian born Horatio Alger hero who had risen from an $8 a week pants cutter to the presidency of the Amalgamated Clothing workers, was established in a luxurious suite in the Ambassador East hotel, pulling wires, pushing the Democrats around and otherwise qualifying as a big city boss, like Mayors Hague and Kelly.

Bosses Divided at First.

The city bosses were divided at first. Hillman was for Wallace. Hague, Flynn and the Kellys were for Jimmie Byrnes of South Carolina, war mobilization director and "assistant President." So was Mr. Roosevelt. Hannegan was for Truman, but lying low till the coast was clear. Hillman quickly put Byrnes out. He was still for Wallace first and Supreme Court Justice Douglas second, but indicated he would compromise on Truman, who had never voted against the New Deal except to override the President's tax bill veto.

Then the other city bosses switched to Truman. In the meantime, Hannegan and Mayor Kelly had seen the President when his train stopped in the Chicago railroad yards en route to the west coast the Saturday before the convention met. Mr. Roosevelt told them what he was going to say in his letter ditching Wallace. Hannegan told the press about the letter Sunday and had it made public Monday night. That finished Mr. Wallace.

Gets President in Line.

Then Hannegan got the President in line for Truman. He reported Tuesday night that he had talked with Mr. Roosevelt who had said: "I would be happy to have Sen. Truman run with me and feel that he would add real strength to the ticket." Incensed and indignant, Sen. Guffey of Pennsylvania, Wallace lieutenant, challenged Hannegan on Wednesday to prove that he had any such message from the President.

Hannegan accepted the challenge and Thursday night displayed a letter on White House stationery signed by the President and dated the day before, July 19. The letter said:

"You have written me about Harry Truman and Bill Douglas [of the supreme court]. I should of course be very glad to run with either of them and believe that either one of them would bring real strength to the ticket."

Later in a telephone conversation the President told Hannegan in forceful, if inelegant, language to get busy and nominate Truman. The city bosses fell in line and when Wallace was on the skids Boss Hillman fell in line and the south fell in line and Boss Hannegan had succeeded in his long and patient maneuvers to land his friend Truman on the ticket.

INTERNED JAPS AT TULE LAKE ON HUNGER STRIKE

Klamath Falls, Ore., July 24 (AP).—Fourteen Japanese-Americans confined as recalcitrants in the Tule Lake, Cal., segregation center, are on the fifth day of a hunger strike, the war relocation authority disclosed here today.

W. R. Best, project director, said spokesmen for the group advised they were determined to refrain from eating until released from the isolation area, which held 350 persons shortly after disorders at the center last November.

Altho the men have insisted they are not eating, Best explained the stockade kitchen contains food available to them if they want it.

"I cannot forgive myself for not trying your KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN many years ago. My constipation kept me busy digging in for money to pay for laxatives. I tried every one I could find, but got only slight relief. I have been eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN for three weeks now, and am as regular as can be!" Mrs. Thomas Lewis, 805½ Fourth Avenue, N., St. Petersburg, Fla.

Scientists say one common cause of constipation is lack of sufficient "cellulosic" elements in the diet! But Nature has made KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN one of her most effective sources of these important elements! They help the friendly colonic flora fluff up and prepare the colonic contents for easy, natural evacuation. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is not a purgative! Doesn't "sweep you out"! It's a gentle-acting, "regulating" food!

If you have constipation of this type, eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly with milk and fruit, or mixed with other cereals. Drink plenty of water. See if you, too, don't get real help! Insist on genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

4TH TERM FOES SET UP WAYS TO FIGHT NEW DEAL

Democrats Propose to Rid Party of Reds.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Communist influence at the Democratic convention has put more power into the anti-fourth term movement of the American Democratic National committee, leaders of the committee said yesterday.

John J. O'Connor of New York, chairman of the executive committee of the anti-New Deal organization, telephoned his plan for increased action from Washington to headquarters here. Gleason L. Archer, national chairman, said that half of the states have units of the movement and the others will have by Nov. 7.

"We are intent upon one job—the destruction of the New Deal and its Communistic allies," Dr. Archer said. "We insist upon the slogan 'America for Americans,' without allien control in our domestic or foreign affairs."

Tells Promises of Help.

O'Connor reported that since the convention he has had conferences with scores of delegates and with at least a dozen Democratic national committeemen who share his feelings "and will coöperate."

"The 1944 convention was the wake of the Democratic party," he said. "It is not the institution that it was when Americans ran it. What we are doing is directed toward setting up a new Democratic party by 1948."

The committee's campaign against the New Dealers will employ methods needed to comply with various state election laws, he said.

He disclosed the following points of the committee's plan:

1. In those southern states where Presidential electors are already determined not to continue the New Deal probably no new setup will be necessary.

Plan to Set Up Ticket.

2. In other southern states the plan calls for setting up a Democratic ticket with its own Presidential electors to be elected over those of the New Deal.

3. In about 10 northern states, including New York, it is proposed to take Dewey and Bricker and their electors as the American Democratic candidates.

4. In some other northern states like Minnesota the American Democrats will support a Dewey-Bricker "All Party" ticket.

5. In many states like Pennsylvania the American Democratic headquarters will campaign under the title "Democrats for Dewey."

The Peoria law office of John E. Cassidy, who was Democratic attorney general under the late Gov. Horner, yesterday distributed printed copies of a speech he made in Ottawa on Memorial day.

"Fitting Homage to Heroes."

Cassidy said the "only fitting homage to overseas heroes is to act with unhesitating courage toward the restoration of a government that obeys the spirit of the Constitution."

"I shall always insist they made their sacrifice to defend and perpetuate the principles of liberty that are declared in the Constitution of the United States and our beloved state of Illinois," he said. "And for this conviction I will always fight with all my strength and with complete abandon for personal consequences."

In Peoria, Cassidy said his law partners were distributing his speech. Altho it expresses his convictions, it was not conceived for any political purpose, he said.

NEW DEAL MAY LIQUIDATE FLY IN 4TH TERM DRIVE

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 24.—The New Deal administration today was reported to have begun a drive to suppress until after the November election all congressional investigations that may disclose evidence damaging to President Roosevelt's fourth term campaign.

James L. Fly.

Chairman James L. Fly of the federal communications commission is listed as the first to be escorted to the chopping block. A deal has been reported on Capitol hill whereby Fly will resign before the middle of August in return for a cessation of inquiries into FCC activities by a special house committee.

Like Vice President Wallace, Fly is to be liquidated for the good of the party and Mr. Roosevelt. He is slated either for another government post or for temporary retirement to the private practice of law.

No Interim Probe Report.

Chairman Lea [D., Cal.] of the house committee probing FCC activities declined to comment on the report that his group may consider its work done if Fly should resign. He remarked significantly, however, that no interim report would be filed on the testimony taken to date. When the FCC last month finished its defense against charges that it had reduced the radio world to subjection by terroristic methods, committee members had said that an interim report would be filed.

The resignation of Committee Counsel Eugene L. Garey was forced last February thru threats of department of justice prosecution of his law partner. The minority members of the committee, Rep. Wigglesworth [R., Mass.] and Rep. Miller [R., Mo.], charged that the ouster was brought about "by those whose sordid activities cannot stand the piercing searchlight of an honest investigation."

Shortly before Garey's resignation, the three majority members, led by Lea, had held a meeting at which the minority was absent and had voted to suspend hearings into the sale of New York radio station WMCA under pressure alleged to have originated in the White House. This move was made after Donald Flamm, the former owner, had testified he was coerced into selling the station in 1941 to Edward J. Noble, former undersecretary of commerce to Harry Hopkins and now chairman of the board of the Blue network.

Truth Suppression Charged.

In connection with Fly's resignation, it was recalled that Speaker Sam Rayburn on the eve of the first FCC hearings in July, 1943, promised Rep. Cox [D., Ga.], then chairman of the investigating group, that Fly would be kicked out if Cox would call off the investigation. Cox refused.

Since then, in the words of Wigglesworth, the investigation has met with "constant obstruction, intimidation, and underhanded tactics in what appears to be a desperate effort to hamstring the work of the committee and to suppress the truth."

"What is the President afraid of?" he asked the house a few weeks ago. "What can there be that is so wrongful and damaging as to lead to this obstruction, intimidation, and political coercion or blackmail?"

Whitewash Probable.

If the deal involving Fly's resignation goes thru, the minority members admitted, they will be powerless to stop a whitewash. In addition to Lea, the committee is ruled by Rep. Hart [D., N. J.], from Boss Frank Hague's district, and Rep. Magnuson [D., Wash.], Democratic nominee for the seat of Sen. Bone [D., Wash.], who retires with this congress to accept a federal judgeship.

The investigation, it was noted, thus far has saved the taxpayers $21,159,357. On the basis of evidence it gathered, the appropriations committees of both houses lopped off that amount from FCC funds.

"No, you can't wear them home! Remember the last time; daddy couldn't tell your new shoes from your old ones!"

TEXAS NEGROES STAGE PRECINCT POLITICAL RALLY

Houston, Tex., July 24 (AP).—In what a Democratic party official described as the first such actions ever taken by Negroes in the south, one group of Negro voters in Harris county organized a Democratic precinct convention here Saturday and another elected Negro delegates to the county convention July 29.

Chairman M. L. O. Andrews of the Harris county Democratic executive committee said today that he believed the precinct 25 convention, called by E. H. Harrison, a Negro union official and vice president of the Third Ward Civic club, was the first ever organized in the south by Negroes.

With three whites and 50 to 60 Negroes attending, the convention elected Harrison temporary chairman. It named a white woman, Miss Lottie Wallis, precinct election judge, to cast the precinct's one vote at the Democratic county convention.

"Does this mean that the Democratic party is open to Negroes?" Andrews was asked.

"This means that as a result of the Supreme court ruling [opening Democratic primaries to Negro voters] political parties haven't got the right to say who can be a member," Andrews replied. "Churches and clubs can exclude individuals from membership if they desire, but the Supreme court says political parties cannot do so."

With Negroes voting for the first time in a Texas Democratic primary, precinct 25 rolled up its heaviest vote in history, Miss Wallis said. Four hundred votes were tallied compared with 16 cast by all white voters in the 1942 primary election.

Andrews said the precinct had from 25 to 50 qualified white voters and about 1,000 Negro voters. Of about 55,000 votes cast in the county, 2,627 Negroes voted, Andrews said.

In the precinct 48 convention, 19 whites and 10 Negroes were elected delegates to the county convention, Andrews said.

WHOLESALE STORK LEAVES 49 BOAS AND GUANACO IN PARK ZOO

The population of Lincoln park zoo increased 50 over the week-end, with the birth of 49 boa constrictors and a South American guanaco, Floyd Young, zoo director, reported yesterday. All are doing well. The litter of 49 boas, whose mother came from a Central American forest, was a record for the zoo, altho in natural surroundings boas usually have 60 young at a time. The zoo doesn't want all the babies, but hopes to be able to trade them for other species to fill out the park collection. The guanaco is a tan colored, hoofed beast, resembling a llama or alpaca. The new baby is worth several hundred dollars.

DEWEY-BRICKER CLUBS PLANNED THRUOUT STATE

Aims at Getting Votes of Independents.

Springfield, Ill., July 24 [Special].—Dewey-Bricker clubs will be organized in every county in a drive for votes of independents and anti-New Deal Democrats, Republican State Chairman John F. Tyrrell said today after a meeting of Republican organization leaders.

"There will be countless thousands of Americans who want to help save their republic by electing the Dewey-Bricker ticket, but who do not desire formal affiliation with a political party," Tyrrell said. "Therefore, the Dewey-Bricker clubs will not be connected with the regular organization.

"In addition, there are thousands of disgusted Democrats who are thru with the New Deal but for sentimental reasons do not care to hook up with the Republican party. These also will find an outlet for their energy in the Dewey-Bricker clubs."

Meet Brownell Aug. 5.

Downstate members of the state central committee and the complete executive committee of the Republican County Chairmen's association met wtih Tyrrell. He submitted ideas sifted from hours of conversation between Gov. Green and the other state candidates a week ago.

These unit leaders and many others from downstate and Cook county will meet Herbert Brownell, new G.O.P. national chairman, in the Tower room of the Stevens hotel Aug. 5.

Brownell is expected to be in Chicago from Aug. 4 thru the 6th for conferences with midwest leaders.

Tyrrell also said that county-by-county campaigns will be waged to carry home the truth about the soldier vote issue. Pamphlets will be distributed explaining the legislative battles in congress and the Illinois general assembly, he said.

Ballots to Be Shown.

"A feature of the pamphlets will be facsimiles of the ballot used in the county, showing candidates running for county, state, and national office, and in contrast, the federal blank ballot bob-tailed to permit voting on national candidates only," he said.

Applications for the Illinois soldier ballot will be distributed house-to-house, he said, for forwarding to servicemen.

Motor caravans will open the fall campaign Sept. 5. There will be two and possibly three caravans of state candidates touring downstate during September. Thereafter downstate campaigning will be carried on chiefly by speakers from national G.O.P. headquarters, Tyrrell said.

State candidates will spend all of October in Cook county, according to present plans.

DEWEY TO BE ELECTED WITH AID OF LABOR, BROWNELL DECLARES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 24.—The votes of labor will help elect Gov. Dewey of New York President of the United States next November, Herbert Brownell Jr., chairman of the Republican natioanal committee, said today at a press conference during his first visit as chairman to the party's national headquarters in Washington.

Brownell said reports from industrial areas, particularly the coal mining states of Illinois, Ohio, and Pennsylvania, indicate a heavy swing to the ticket headed by Gov. Dewey and Gov. Bricker of Ohio, Vice Presidential candidate.

Many members of CIO unions have pledged support to the Republican ticket, Brownell reported, despite efforts of the CIO political action committee to further the fourth term ambitions of President Roosevelt.

COMPLETE JOB, IS PLEA OF FIFTH WAR LOAN CHIEF

Residents of Chicago and Cook county still have an unfinished fifth war loan responsibility, even tho the goal of $894,014,000 has been exceeded by nearly 23 per cent, Philip R. Clarke, city-county war bond drive chairman, said yesterday. He spoke at a rally which included a State st. parade starting Roundup week in the bond drive, which ends July 31.

Clarke said the city-county quota—larger than the goal of 19 states and Alaska combined—was topped only thru large corporate sales, and that sales to individuals amounted to only 217 million dollars, or approximately 60 million dollars short of the quota. Reminding his audience that Chicago has never fulfilled its individual bond quotas, Clarke asked the store employes, who attended a rally at State and Madison sts. to pledge themselves to sell $100 in war bonds each during the final week of the drive.

The Roundup week parade comprised soldiers, some wearing captured German uniforms, and combat vehicles moving between rows of colored smoke pots used in chemical warfare.

CITY TOLD IT CAN CLOSE TUNNEL ON LA SALLE ST.

Ald. Bowler [25th], chairman of the finance committee of the city council, was advised by the law department yesterday that the city has a legal right to close the entrance to the LaSalle st. street car tunnel that extends under the river from Randolph to Hubbard sts.

The finance committee will ask that $35,000 be diverted from Illinois motor fuel tax receipts to close and pave the tunnel portal on LaSalle st.

Since subway construction was started, the tunnel has not been used. Southbound Lincoln-Rosehill cars, which formerly used it, have been rerouted down Wells st. The tunnel was opened to cable cars in 1886, and rebuilt at a lower level in 1904 after it was declared an obstruction to navigation on the river. In the opinion yesterday, the city legal department said the tunnel is city property.

GROWERS LASH TOBACCO CEILING AS 'BROKEN VOW'

Call on New Deal to Heed Platform.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 24.—Southern tobacco farmers, denouncing the action of New Deal bureaus in placing new low ceiling prices on tobacco, said tonight that unless the ceilings are changed they will know that the Democratic platform pledge of wage equality of farmers with industrial labor "was made in the spirit of gross insincerity."

The statement was released by Harry Wingate, president of the Georgia Farm Bureau federation and chairman of a group of 30 representatives of farm organizations, state agriculture commissions and warehousemen that demanded relief in a session with representatives of the OPA and the Credit Commodity corporation. The group represented tobacco growers of the solid south states of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida.

Little Short of Insult.

"It is little short of an insult to the intelligence of the farmers of this nation to, in the face of the pledge in the party platform at Chicago last week, keep prices on farm products at a level which would insure the farmer an equal hourly wage with the industrial worker and then, before the ink is dry on this promise, announce a ceiling on a very important product of the farmer at a level that would not give him 50 per cent of the hourly wage of the average industrial worker," the statement said.

"Unless the pledge is recognized in fixing prices on tobacco as well as all other farm products the farmers will have to know that this pledge was made in a spirit of gross insincerity."

Contained in Letter.

The accusation was contained in a letter addressed to Chester Bowles, head of OPA; Marvin Jones, war food administrator; Fred M. Vinson, war time economic stabilizer; J. B. Hutson, president of the Credit Commodity corporation, and E. F. Ragland, head of the tobacco section of OPA.

Those who signed the letter included Harry Caldwell, master of the North Carolina state group; Tom Linder, Georgia commissioner of agriculture; J. Roy Jones, South Carolina commissioner of agriculture; Sinclair Wells, Florida assistant commissioner of agriculture; Paul Sanders, editor of the Southern Planter and representing the Virginia State grange, and Claude Whitehead, president of the Virginia Tobacco Growers' association.

Talked Turkey.

Wingate said that OPA fixed a 41 cent per pound average price on the 1943 crop and shortly before the sales season ended reduced the ceiling to 38 cents. Now, he says, OPA is planning to set the ceiling at 39 cents.

"We are demanding a 41 cent price," he said. "That reduction to 38 cents at the tail end of the season last year was made just so OPA this year could put the price at 39 cents and say they were raising ceilings.

"We've been trying to get along with these fellows, but this time we talked turkey. I think we'll get action, one way or another, in 24 hours."

Mail Handler Held to Jury on $900 Burglary Charge

John Tonozine, 35, of 1643 Adams st., a mail handler, was held to the grand jury by Judge Francis Borrelli in Felony court yesterday on a charge of robbing a machinery company at 1681 W. Ogden av. Part of the $900 loot was found in the basement of Tonozine's apartment house, police said. Tonozine pleaded not guilty.

Communist Secretary Gives Backing to F. D. R.

Jersey City, N. J., July 24 [Special].—Joseph Fischer, executive secretary of the Communist Political association, today pledged that group's support of President Roosevelt in his quest for a fourth term. The association is successor to the American Communist party, which recently announced its dissolution.

REP. ASHCRAFT ABANDONS RACE FOR ASSEMBLY

Alan E. Ashcraft Jr. of Evanston yesterday sent a letter to Secretary of State Rowe declining his renomination for a third term as state representative for the 6th district, which includes Rogers Park and most of Evanston.

Rep. Ashcraft won renomination in the April 11 Republican primary. Recently he was appointed a master in chancery o. the Circuit court and then indicated that he might retire from the general assembly.

Ashcraft's successor as a teammate for Rep. Stanley C. Armstrong in the Nov. 7 run-off against two Democrats will be named tomorrow night at a meeting in 50th ward headquarters. Authority to fill the vacancy is vested in the elected G. O. P. senatorial committeemen: Ernest Forsberg, Fred Sparling, and Louise M. Ross. Russell Arrington of Evanston was reported to stand a good chance of getting the nomination.

$12,980,000 MADE COMMUNITY AND WAR FUND GOAL

The goal for this year's community and war fund drive in metropolitan Chicago was fixed at $12,980,000 yesterday by the fund directors, meeting at 111 W. Washington st. Last year's goal was $12,806,000 and $11,900,000 was raised.

The community and war fund represents the national war fund in Cook, Lake, and Du Page counties, and raises money for the U. S. O., United Seamen's service, war prisoners' aid, and the allied relief programs. In Chicago the fund also raises money for the 187 agencies of the community fund and the agencies of the Jewish welfare fund.

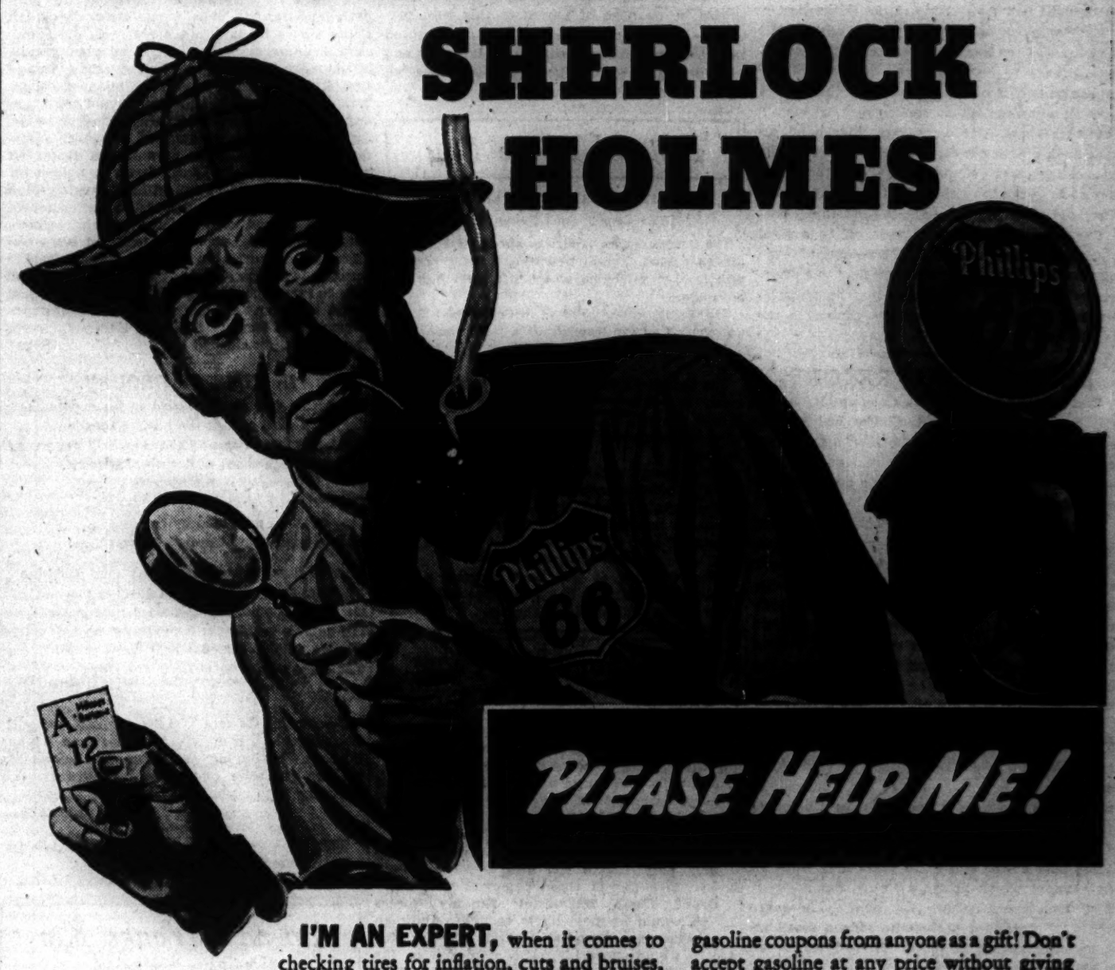
I'm a terrible SHERLOCK HOLMES



I'M AN EXPERT, when it comes to checking tires for inflation, cuts and bruises, and re-capping . . . and I'm even more of an expert at lubricating cars, of any age and make, right from front bumper to tail-light.

But when it comes to catching counterfeit gasoline ration coupons, I'm a washout! Believe me, every service station man in the country tries, because it is his patriotic duty. We know that oceans of oil are needed to win the war, and we know that unless the black market in gasoline is broken, there may not be enough to go 'round.

So, help me and help yourself and your Uncle Sam, by endorsing the face of every coupon in your possession. Don't take any gasoline coupons from anyone as a gift! Don't accept gasoline at any price without giving up coupons! And use the legal gasoline you buy for essential driving only!

I have asked you to help me; in return, I'll be glad to help you. Bring your car in any time for the many Tire-Saving and Car-Saving services I offer. Some are free, and some carry a small charge for materials and labor. But they are a big aid in making your car and your tires last longer and go further.

FOURTH TERM PURGES.

It might add something to the respectability if not the dignity of an election in war time if Mr. Roosevelt and his fourth termers would quit trying to cry in their beer. The tenant is after a renewal of his lease with all that's in him. If he had to go back to the home on the Hudson his reluctance would not be hypocritical and the sadness would not be phony. The return to the old manse would be a living death. The White House tenant knows it. The idea that Churchill and Stalin might be meeting without him next year must take the shape of a nightmare. The most overriding ambition that's ever been in the White House is prepared to masquerade in any disguise necessary to avoid the disaster.

His statement that the war is too tragic to allow him "to run in the usual, political partisan sense" and that he will not make speeches except to give information and "correct any misrepresentations" is four years old. That was a third term dodge. It meant nothing then and means nothing now. Obviously any argument against the fourth term or any proper description of the other three is a misrepresentation. Possibly we've miscounted them.

The candidate is running as the commander in chief. It has been understood heretofore that the people elected their chief executive as a civil official. They knew he was, as chief executive, head of the armed forces but they were never conscious that they were voting for a military authority. Mr. Roosevelt's pose is to stand aloof from politics and his past and be wreathed in the smoke of battle.

By emphasis on his military role he seeks to use the war to cancel out discussion of what is supposed to be the dead past. The rubbing out of Henry Wallace was a part of this maneuver carried out with political trickery which sacrificed all the alleged principles of the New Deal. Mr. Roosevelt got rid of his teammate because the nomination would hurt the ticket. Henry is often thought to be slaphappy and something terrible to think of in the White House, even considering. But the Iowa boy is everything in every respect pretended by the New Deal in three terms and he isn't yellow. He proved that when he stood up in the convention with his place at stake and increased the opposition to him by saying that the poll tax must go. When he was ditched his violent CIO supporters quickly came to terms with his successor on the ticket, having done Henry all the damage their rowdyism could do.

Mr. Roosevelt made Henry Wallace his secretary of agriculture to administer the AAA. Wallace did it. He has been pursued ever since by the ghosts of 8 million little pigs. He was the New Deal. He lived it, believed it, and acted it. He wrote its books and majored in prophecy. He was the body and soul of the Atlantic Charter. Everything that Mr. Roosevelt professed to think Henry Wallace thought. Four years ago the chief so well regarded his secretary of agriculture that he jammed him down the gullets of the third term convocation to make him the second in command. Henry didn't change. He went about the earth preaching the doctrines he thought had their origin in the White House.

Mr. Roosevelt was afraid of Mr. Wallace. Mr. Wallace was too much of everything Mr. Roosevelt intends to forget for the duration of the campaign and, if he can, revive later. He feared that his alter ego, an outspoken prophet, would cost him votes. He went into underhand arrangements with the old political hacks and jobbers of the party, including Ed [I-love-that-man] Kelly—to purge the ticket of a too candid friend. They did their job by methods they enjoy.

The fourth term campaign is off to a good start in trickery, humbug, and deception. And nothing Mr. Roosevelt says from now to November will have any bearing on what he proposes to do if he should be allowed to remain in the White House.

BOND BUYING RECORD.

The 5th war loan drive in Cook county under the direction of Philip R. Clarke has already broken all records. The quota was about 100 million dollars less than a billion dollars, and sales amount to a hundred million over a billion dollars.

The batting average for the whole community as of last Saturday was 122.23 per cent of par, but the treasury doesn't figure performance quite that way. There is one quota for corporations and another for individuals. The companies have bought far more than was asked of them. Individuals have done less than was expected. Each group has to go over the top if this community is to be among those which in the midst of war did all that was asked of it.

The objective this week is 62 million dollars. That is not an impossible goal. People here have 864 million dollars in their savings banks accounts, 143 in postal savings, and hundreds of millions in bed ticks and other unsafe hideouts for cash. Some of the people who have only "E" bonds which pay all the interest in one lump sum at the end of 10 years may want an investment which brings a return immediately. For them there is the "G" bond. There are the "C" notes for those who seek a small return while saving for taxes. There is an investment for every need.

THE BEST PROTECTION.

Denial of civil rights in Great Britain, on the plea of war time necessity, came in for more criticism in parliament last week, but at the conclusion of the debate the act was renewed that permits the government to take such actions, as well as to impose such economic controls as rationing. Government spokesmen in the house of commons argued that even after Hitler is finished it will be necessary to throw British subjects into jail without trial in order to prosecute the war against Japan successfully.

British politicians can hardly be said to be more tyrannous by nature than their American counterparts. Indeed, the government of Great Britain has never found it necessary to make itself the open ally of a political group dedicated to the destruction of all liberty, as Mr. Roosevelt has in this country.

Yet in the United States civil liberties have, in all but a few instances, survived assaults on them excused by the cry of war time necessity. The Supreme court has held that a man may not be sent to jail for criticizing the administration, even tho his criticism consists of sentiments abhorred by liberty loving citizens. The attempt to continue oppressive military rule in Hawaii after the need for it had ceased has met courageous and partially successful rebukes by the federal court of the territory. Freedom of the press, of religion, and of speech have been sustained by numerous war time actions of courts and grand juries.

In Great Britain subjects may be jailed for years without trial, and even without adequate public explanation of the charges against them, because there is no written constitution to forbid it. The practices can be, and are, authorized by a legislative assembly whose members have kept themselves in office without reelection for nine years because there is no written constitutional provision for regular elections.

Men in power will always be able to find reasons why they should oppress and stifle their critics and opponents. The best protection against such abuse of authority is the rule of a written constitution which those in power are powerless to alter.

A SOUND TAX PLAN.

Mr. Beardsley Ruml and Mr. H. Christian Sonne have written a report for the National Planning association recommending the abolition of the corporate income tax and the reduction of the maximum of the federal personal income tax to 50 per cent.

To call these suggestions valuable is to understate the matter. In truth, unless some such proposals, and especially the proposal regarding corporate taxes, are adopted, the business and industry of this country are certain to become stagnant. Taxes on corporations are now so high that new ventures, especially by new companies, are not only discouraged but prevented. No one can hope to profit from business expansion and innovation. If a venture succeeds, the government takes most of the income; if there is a loss, the investors bear it. That makes the odds against a new venture overwhelming. The result must be fewer jobs and a needlessly low standard of living.

For the moment, the effects of the present scale of taxation are masked by the government's enormous investments in war plants and its orders for goods. Once the fighting stops the nation must again rely upon private capital for jobs and goods. If there is to be plenty of both, people must be encouraged to risk their money in business.

To that extent, there can be no quarrel with Mr. Ruml and Mr. Sonne. When they talk about balancing the federal budget only after the so-called national income reaches 140 billions, and after 55 million people have 40 hours of work a week, the gentlemen are on less firm ground. The report says that once such an agreed goal has been reached the treasury must begin to repay the debt. The scheme sounds fine until it is remembered that nobody knows whether the goal can be reached or whether it can be reached without incurring so much additional debt that repayment will become impossible without advancing the national income by another 10 or 15 billions.

A more sensible approach would accept the probability that the huge increase in the nation's savings that has taken place in recent years, and the equally huge accumulation of unsatisfied wants would make a prosperous nation in the years just following the war. That happened after the last war when there was widespread prosperity from 1919 to 1929 except for a brief interlude in 1920 and '21. During that decade taxes were lowered and a substantial share of the national debt was redeemed.

There was no pump priming then and there should be no need of any after this war, provided the people of the country are assured that the government will resist inflation and will adopt a tax policy along the lines suggested by Mr. Ruml and Mr. Sonne.

Editorial of the Day

COMPLIMENTING THE TRIBUNE.

[Pike County [Ill.] Republican.]

The London Times [which is almost as British as the New York Times] unwittingly the other day paid high editorial compliment to a great American newspaper.

The British editor referred to Col. Robert R. McCormick's CHICAGO TRIBUNE as a leader among the "stern and unbending defenders of the 'spirit of '76.'"

The British paper did not intend it as a compliment. It was intended as a slur. It was intended to slur the millions of loyal Americans who look upon our Declaration of Independence as a priceless heritage.

THE TRIBUNE might fittingly display the British editor's unwitting compliment at its mast-head.

What greater tribute could be paid an American newspaper than to say it is a "stern and unbending defender of the 'spirit of '76'?"

What we need at this time, suggests a paragrapher, is propaganda to convince flies that humans carry germs.—Illinois State Journal.

Mrs. T. H. writes: "I recently married a soldier. He has been providing a family allowance as alimony for his former wife, and $22 has been deducted from his salary for that. Will it be possible for me to receive any allowance and how much?"

As your husband's present legal wife, you are entitled to the full allowance of $50 a month, despite the fact it is necessary for him to pay alimony to a former wife. Your husband's contribution will continue to be $22 a month.

Mrs. J. T. writes: "My husband has been AWOL for more than three months. He is now in confinement awaiting trial. Will my family allowance be continued?"

No. The allowance is discontinued after three months when a soldier is AWOL until disposition of his case is made.

FOXHOLE VIEW OF PISA.

Seymour Korman of THE TRIBUNE and other correspondents were enjoying, in yesterday's dispatches, a fine but hazardous view of the Leaning Tower of Pisa, which every sane person in the world hopes will continue to stand not more than 15 feet out of plumb. This column has already told its story and foretold its danger, and will now remark that there are other objects in Pisa to worry about.

• • •

Pisan architecture, which ran to a zebra style of black and white stripes in marble work, has four remarkable achievements: the Duomo or cathedral, its adjacent campanile of bell tower, which has been teetering for centuries; its accompanying baptistery; and its Campo Santo or burial ground. This unique group of structures is in the northwest corner of the town, a location which favors chances of survival.

• • •

The Campo Santo is an elaborate enclosure of a cemetery formed of 53 shiploads of earth that came from the scene of the Crucifixion. [No wonder Mount Calvary seems a mere hummock now.] The building is a quadrangular corridor, 414 feet long and 171 feet broad, whose walls are decorated with frescoes by masters. It contains an impressive collection of ancient Roman sculpture and many fine monuments to departed Pisans.

• • •

The men of Pisa were a great race during the middle ages and the Renaissance, when the Duomo and nine lesser churches were built. They had a navy and fought for maritime power with Genoa. They had armies and carried on bitter-end, losing wars with more powerful Florence. They founded a distinguished university, begat numerous artists [four of them named Pisano], and contributed to the immortals of science the astronomer Galileo.

THE SWIMMING HOLE.

He walked along the quiet river road,
Content to feel the clean wind in his hair,
And thought of home and how there used to be
A swimming hole along this bank somewhere.
Around the bend he saw its gleam and ran
Tossing his clothes aside, a boy again,
And when he came up shouting from his dive,
He saw that all about were laughing men.
Lithe bodies flashed from slender willow trees,
The air was bright with friendly jest and call,
He joined a group in merry, carefree play,
Paused, grinning, by a lad who led them all.
"I've never felt so well, so much alive,
Nor met," he marveled, "such warm friendliness,
I feel I've known the fellows all my life,
Because we all like swimming holes, I guess."
The other smiled, "That helps of course. You see,
We killed each other yesterday," he said.
"Now we must learn our common brotherhood,
To live in peace, we whom the world call dead."

Geology of a Man's Pocketbook.

A man is quick to criticize a woman about the amount and character of the junk she carries around in her purse. But . . . the keys, pipe, cigar lighter, pen, pencils, billfold, papers, etc., which he stuffs into his pockets every morning are essential to the efficient conduct of his business. O, yeah? Let's take a peek into that accordionlike repository he calls a billfold:

Draft registration certificate, voter's identification card, social security number, driver's license, state and city automobile licenses, stub of safety sticker, A and B mileage rations, tire inspection record, air travel card, accident insurance identification, membership cards of three clubs and four associations, credit cards for seven hotels and one department store. [These are fairly important, granted; but let's stir a little deeper.]

Ancient Pullman stub, equally ancient hat check [why he came home bareheaded one morning], prescription for cough sirup, no longer used; card listing emulsion speeds of film and flash bulb ratings, shoe repair claim check [so that's where it was], old press card, older musicians' union card, four dog-eared photographs of Hal when 3 years of age, library card—vintage 1929, little red book containing telephone numbers [wonder if Mignonette would still answer?], stubs of two used theater tickets, recipe for eggnog, three guaranteed hangover remedies, Minnesota fishing license, win ticket [it didn't] on Kentucky Derby favorite, tickets for six raffles [they didn't win, either], identification cards for nine extinct speakeasies, two crumpled I. O. U.s, carbon copy of letter to congressman, postcard from A Looper, photostat of birth certificate, three wrinkled 2 cent stamps, assortment of 14 business cards—two or three of which may be remembered, five slightly soiled personal cards, two blank checks, another check stamped "insufficient funds." [O, well, Henry Jr. keeps the bill section cleaned out!]

IN TIME OF DROUTH.

The blades of corn are furled in blind defense
Against a wind of fire; the locust's tongue
Still burns from famine when the world was young,
And tree frogs chant of drouth experience.
There is no water in the wayside spring;
The little leaves are falling, one by one,
Lost offerings unheeded by the sun,
And no man living can do anything.

Gnarled hands are shading weary eyes that scan
The sky; the farmer does not kneel to pray;
His status has not changed since time began—
His humble gestures still sublimely say:
[Beside a field that once held living grain]
The crops need rain, O Lord, the crops need rain!

FUNGUS INFECTIONS WITHIN THE MOUTH.

THERE is no such thing as an absolutely clean mouth. We allow too many polluted articles to invade the area. If we could view thru the microscope the scrapings from the fur on the tongue of the average adult, we would encounter microbes, plant fungi [including yeasts], spiral-like organisms, as well as bits of food in various stages of decomposition.

Nothing can be accomplished by attempting to sterilize the oral cavity. It just can't be done. But we can reduce the number of germs and other interlopers which are likely to injure the sensitive tissues about the teeth and the lining membranes.

Thus we utilize gargles, mouth washes, and dentifrices. In this manner, we prevent the growth of millions of noxious "bugs." Hence absorption of their toxic products is forestalled. A mild antiseptic rinse is a hygienic measure of prime importance. Certainly the parts should be cleansed thoroly after each meal. Only in this way can we keep down the figurative weeds which otherwise will flourish.

Yeasts and molds are among our most annoying conditions. They exist everywhere, even in the most immaculate homes. They have a fashion of settling within every cavity and orifice of the body. Some of us may wonder why we have itching, scaling ear canals. The chances are that a yeastlike fungus has established its abode within the channels where it may destroy the cuticle and be responsible for a discharge. We should recall that these parasites can infect the tonsils. When squeezed, the crypts may exude foul smelling cheese-like masses.

One thing that makes parasitic plants difficult to eradicate is the fact that they produce spores which, in turn, are quite resistant to treatment. So long as they are on the surface, they do no harm. This explains why they can be washed away so readily with gargles. But if permitted to remain for a few hours, they may find their way into epithelial cells. An infection then ensues. Deeper and deeper layers are reached until a beautiful culture bed is established for streptococci or other vicious organisms.

We can look upon these botanical forms as adventurers and explorers. They love to travel. If the sputum of every patient with a chronic cough could be studied carefully, a few would show the presence of a type of yeast known as "monilia." It is not a far cry from a throat irritation to bronchitis, even involvement of the lungs. Now and then tuberculosis will be suspected when the real trouble is one or more of these unwelcome visitors.

Sore gums always call for investigation. If the margins have become swollen and rolled away slightly from the teeth, we have an ideal situation for the formation of a pus pocket. Here the rôle of one per cent gentian violet solution comes to the fore. It acts almost as a specific. If Vincent's organisms are present, the combination of this dye with salvarsan has been employed.

America Gets Around.

Reminiscent of Quentin Reynolds' remarks to the Democratic convention about American outposts on foreign soil were the wrappings in a package which a Chicago woman received from her husband, an army captain in India:

An elephant bell was swathed in the New York Times.

The Los Angeles Evening Herald and Express protected a carved teakwood jewel box.

The Hindustan Standard wrapped bracelets made of sealing wax and bits of glass.

Chinese sandals, custom made, were wrapped in copies of the captain's home town paper. The Walnut [Ia.] Bureau.

Siwash Is Still at It.

Remember Siwash the duck, the mascot of the marines at Tarawa, who gamely fought a Jap rooster at the Betio beach, guzzled Jap beer, and then ended up laying eggs? Our Siwash editor, Mrs. Dorothy Rash, reports that she has just received word from Corp. Francis J. Fagan of the marines that Siwash is fine and put up a terrific fight at Saipan. This department fully agrees with Mrs. Rash's concluding words: "We sure hope Corp. Fagan brings Siwash back to Chicago when he returns home, which we sure hope won't be long now."

Cats as Cats Can.

A lot of men out at the University of Chicago are called cats these days and admit it. They are attending the army's civil affairs training school there [CATS], and eventually will administer occupied territory in the far east. Just thought you might like to know they have a theme song which puts to proper use a familiar melody from the "Mikado" of Gilbert and Sullivan. It goes like this:

Rejoice, O East! Rejoice, O Asia!
Out of the middle west, out of the middle class,
Comes the salvation of the orient.
Bepaunched, bejowled, mounted upon a large behind,
Out of the middle west, out of the middle class,
Comes the salvation of the orient.

The chorus is:

For we're going to govern Japan, tra-la,
Our torsos are bulky,
Our faces are sulky,
Our language is not worth a damn, tra-la,
Our policy's CATS as CATS can, tra-la.

In Retrospect.

Any so courageous as to sit thru all the Vice Presidential nominating speeches at the recent Democratic convention must have noticed what we did; that by midafternoon any speech could have been repeated and no one would have known it. Mr. J. C. B. Ehringhaus [pronounced erringhouse], a delegate from North Carolina and our candidate for Democratic nomenclature honors, summed the day's work up neatly when he seconded some one's nomination with the declamation: "The state which has no candidate for the Vice Presidency today is indeed a rarity!" During the day we ran into two esoteric souls from the University of Chicago who not only listened to each speech but analyzed it. They found that all 30 or 40, or maybe there were more, fell easily into three categories. First was the "the man who" speech. Next was the "these are critical times" speech. Last of all came the "our trust for the future" speech. All had a common bond, however. Each speaker hailed his candidate as "that great liberal," apparently ascribing to his man the principles of Mr. Wallace but not quite wanting to say so. No, all had two bonds in common. The other bond was the extreme inattention of their auditors.

HE READ IT IN ENGLAND.

Alexandria, Va., July 10.—I felt very much better today to learn of your protest to Lord Beaverbrook concerning an overly critical dispatch of Chicago's night spots, etc., by his correspondent, C. V. R. Thompson—and not because I am a Chicago citizen, as I'm not—but rather as an American citizen.

A very short time ago while overseas in the British Isles, I happened to pick up one of Beaverbrook's papers in the lounge of an officers' club, and there in large headlines Thompson made all the assertions you protested. I think that particular article of Thompson's did more to mess up an evening than anything else. Talking to other American persons I found that the article did not give them a very good opinion of the Britishers. Luckily, they were in the isles, had some good British friends, and tried to overlook the article. As a result of that particular article we had a particularly messy evening arguing with a couple of Britishers about all the fine things in America, the advantages of being an American, etc. To sum it all up, the article gave the British the wrong idea of how everything was at home, as if America was just lying down doing nothing for the war; that all we do is spend our time bathing at the beaches, sitting at the bars drinking, and just having a "merry ole time," all day, every day, year in, year out, while the "poor" Britisher was working and slaving into the wee hours of the morning at some aircraft factory.

My personal opinion is that Mr. Beaverbrook could do much more towards creating greater unity and friendship between our nation and the British by calling Mr. Thompson back where he belongs, better yet, to the British army, as I believe he'd do much better there than anywhere else. Beaverbrook could use a much more capable correspondent.

Your protest did me much good. I'm glad to see some one at home "on the ball," watching out for writers like Mr. Thompson, who do more to create ill will between the allied nations than good will. GEO. J. PASQUALE.

THERE ARE 13,000,000 OF THEM.

Chicago, July 12.—What has become of the income tax refunds? Most of the people in the lower tax brackets need this money very much as quite a few of the refunds were for hospital and medical expense.

If you are a day behind in paying they want to give you 10 years, but they take their time in repaying hard earned money that is needed for necessities. GEO. WALKER.

NO ONE TRUSTS THEM.

Pontiac, Ill., July 20.—I am unable to understand why so many people criticize Eleanor Roosevelt's statement, "I don't even trust our own country." This is the only sound statement I ever knew her to make. The whole world knows that no nation can be trusted while it is ruled by Communists. W. R. C.

THE NEW DEAL REMEDY.

HE SOUNDS LIKE THEIR MAN.

Kewanee, Ill., July 20.—Could you tell me why Gov. Kerr referred to Talleyrand as a great democratic hero who dared to stand against the tyranny of the Bourbons? Surely Keynoter Kerr knew that his hero, Talleyrand, is known in history as one of the cleverest political crooks France ever had.

Mr. Kerr's ideal was clever enough to support the Bourbons until their ship was sinking. He then joined the next political tide to save his own head. We see this man supporting the several revolutionary groups, then Napoleon, then back to the Bourbons, never true to any one group beyond his own political advantage.

It was he who said, "Language was given in order to conceal thought." Surely Keynoter Kerr knew his history when he used Talleyrand's name as an ideal for the Democrat delegates to follow—then what did he mean?

ALLITERATIVE CHRONOLOGY.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 20.—I listened and laughed with Kerr, the keynoter. If we hardened with Harding, cooled with Coolidge and hungered with Hoover, it was because we went to war with Wilson and beggared ourselves for Britain.

He might have added that we have been running with Roosevelt from emergency to emergency up to a crisis for Churchill. I, personally would like to be delivered by Dewey. L. E. D.

MRS. ROOSEVELT'S DISTRUST.

Chicago, July 13.—Mrs. Roosevelt has been in Washington for nearly 12 years, a sufficient length of time to become thoroly acquainted with the many broken promises, trickery, deceit, etc., which the Benedict Arnolds of Washington have given to the country. She can hardly be criticized for not trusting the gang which has brought these conditions upon us. J. P. K.

"THE DEVIL HE HAS."

Joliet, Ill., July 10.—I read why Mr. G. V. Hart is for Mr. Roosevelt. Undoubtedly Mr. Hart surely has no one very dear to him fighting on "foreign" soil or buried there. I have both, so I cannot compare a depression with a war. Neither can I relish prosperity due to a war. Maybe he knows the devil he has, but so do I, and I want no part of him. JUDY PATSORIS.

Troth of Jean Armstrong Is Made Known

BY JUDITH CASS.

Of particular interest is the announcement that Mr. and Mrs. Horace White Armstrong of Winnetka are making today of the engagement of their daughter, Jean, to Edwin Corle of the army, son of Dr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Corle of Los Angeles. The wedding will take place in September, when Pvt. Corle hopes to get a furlough from his duties with the rehabilitation branch of the army. He is stationed in Miami Beach.

Miss Armstrong, a well known golfer and tennis player, is one of the north shore's most popular and attractive young women. She made her debut several seasons ago and has been active in the Chicago Junior league. She is a graduate of Dobbs Ferry and of Smith college. Pvt. Corle is a graduate of the University of California at Los Angeles and of the Yale university graduate school.

Miss Armstrong's brother, Frank H. Armstrong II., and his wife returned to Chicago from Los Angeles about a year ago and are living in Winnetka. The Armstrongs' younger daughter, Mrs. Beaudelio Contreras, is living in Mexico City, designing pottery and silver jewelry.

Debutante News.

Three young women who have grown up together in Glencoe will share a simple debut party during the Christmas holidays at the Skokie Country club. They are Miss Elizabeth Weir, Miss Margaret Carson, and Miss Gay Tuttle. All were graduated last month from New Trier High school.

Miss Weir, who always is called Betsy, is the daughter of the Norman D. Weirs. She and her mother and Miss Carson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pirie Carson, have been devoting two days a week to volunteer work at the Presbyterian hospital, at which Mrs. Weir serves as a nurses' aid and the two buds as "war secretaries."

Miss Tuttle, daughter of the William F. Tuttles, and the two other girls will leave Aug. 1 for a three weeks' holiday at Estes Park in Colorado before scattering to eastern schools this fall. Miss Weir will enter Vassar Sept. 1, Miss Carson will attend Bradford Junior college, and Miss Tuttle will enter Wells. Miss Weir has a brother, Norman Jr., who left Princeton after a year's study and is on duty as a private in the army at Camp Crowder, Mo. Miss Carson's brothers, Samuel Jr. and Frederick Rolland Carson, are junior grade lieutenants in the navy. Samuel is serving in the naval air corps. His brother is overseas.

Wedding News.

August 5 is the date tentatively set for the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Brundred and Robert Hixon Glore of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Glore of Lake Forest. The ceremony will take place in Kansas City, Mo., home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Ford Brundred, provided that the bridegroom receives a furlough from his duties at Camp Crowder at that time. The entire Glore family will go to Kansas City for the event. The Glores' daughter, Mrs. Kellogg Beach, and her baby, have returned to Lake Forest, now that Sgt. Beach has gone overseas.

Emil Wetten's bride of June 26, the former Frances Starr Donaldson, will be welcomed to Chicago this week. Mr. Wetten and the widow of the late R. Golden Donaldson of Washington were married quietly in Alexandria, Va., and had a short wedding trip in the east. The new Mrs. Wetten, who began her stage career under the direction of the late David Belasco, was seen here recently in the role of the mother in "Claudia." Mr. Wetten, whose first wife was the late Louise Walton Wetten, has one son, Walton Wetten.

Altho Pvt. Richard Davis McKinsey will not be here from Camp Crowder, Mo., until Saturday, when he and Miss Dorothy Evelyn Robbins of Cambridge, Mass., will be married, his fiancée arrived yesterday to be the guest of honor at a whirl of parties planned by his mother, Mrs. James O. McKinsey, and her friends. Miss Marilou Heilman is giving a buffet supper for Miss Robbins tonight. Tomorrow evening Mrs. McKinsey will be assisted by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Robert McKinsey, in giving an at home party in the former's Lake Shore dr. home. Mrs. Violet Sundbloom of Wilmette will entertain at cocktails Thursday, and there will be a family party Friday evening in the Mayfair room.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Fowell of Richland Center, Wis., announce the marriage June 19 of their daughter, La Vina Elizabeth, to Ensign William H. Harris, son of Mrs. Lydia Harris of Lake Forest. The ceremony was read by the bridegroom's grandfather, the Rev. Max F. Zutz, in the chapel on the campus of Lake Forest college, of which Ensign Harris is a graduate. He received his commission a few hours before the wedding from the naval reserve school at Northwestern university. When Ensign Harris leaves for active duty, his bride, an ensign in the WAVES, will return to her post at Great Lakes.

The marriage of Miss Dolores June Asimont, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Le Roy Asimont of N. Lorel av., to Lt. Robert G. Ringer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Z. Ringer of Union av., will take place at 6:30 p. m. Aug. 1 in the Austin Presbyterian church, with a reception following in the Central Plaza hotel. Lt. Ringer and his bride will live in Enid, Okla., near the army air field at which he is stationed.

Shyness at Party Isn't Serious

This youngster's timidity doesn't mean she can't get along with children socially, Mrs. Bevans says in her current article, which also discusses ways to deal with problem. [TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

Little Coaxing May Eliminate Fears of Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

If your experience with young children and parties has been anything like mine, you've found that shyness is something to be reckoned with on these festive occasions. And while it may distress or embarrass you when your child acts so, it isn't serious and it doesn't mean that he will never be able to get along with children socially. Sometimes it's just a phase your own child goes thru; sometimes an incident you don't know of has created a sort of social fear or shyness. While older children sometimes experience this emotion, it is, as a rule, only the little ones who show it—in shrinking or tears.

If you will retain a sense of proportion when party-shyness begins to appear, you will deal with it more comfortably for all concerned.

So, I need hardly say that a child who is shy at a party should not be forced to engage upon the perilous blindfolded venture which is to terminate in pinning a tail on a donkey, or in grabbing another child in blind man's buff.

A little coaxing is enough. Then let the child alone. Sometimes it is only a first party which produces this almost panicky refusal to take part, and a few experiences will cure it. In any case, a child, let alone, may have a good time, since some really enjoy looking on.

Occasionally a child won't want even to start out for a party. In this situation, plan to go with one or two other mothers and their children. But if even this doesn't work, give up party going for the time being.

If you feel that this "retreat" should be overcome, or if you think children's parties are simply necessary in childhood, and, incidentally, adore giving them, try inviting only a few children of the age of yours, who are intimate friends. This familiarity usually disposes completely of shyness. Then bigger affairs can be embarked upon later.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Mrs. G. Corson Ellis, chairman of the Central Information bureau, OCD, 209 W. Jackson blvd., is offering an unusual opportunity to high school girls to assist in the bureau's war work and at the same time improve their typing skill.

Students of typing who are not in a position to take permanent jobs, because they will be returning to school in September, are urged by Mrs. Ellis to devote some of their leisure to working as volunteers in the bureau's office, which handles hundreds of inquiries daily from Chicagoans who want answers to questions regarding the war, the government, and volunteer agencies in war work. The junior typists, Mrs. Ellis emphasizes, need not be experts, and the work will give them the chance to develop speed.

Hours at the bureau are 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., but typists may devote only as many hours as they wish each week. There is no training course. Volunteers may call the bureau, Wabash 5500, or apply in person.

Mrs. Walter J. Kelly, volunteer director of grease and tin can salvage for the Chicago area OCD and chairman of women's activities for the war production board in this district, will address the writers' group of the morale division of OCD at its monthly meeting at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in headquarters, 23 N. Wacker dr.

"The Tin Can Is in a Foxhole" will be the subject of Mrs. Kelly's talk to the writers, who contribute manuscripts to neighborhood newspapers as their volunteer effort in behalf of the prosecution of the war.

George Fleming, head of the morale division, has assigned the writers, both men and women, to create articles designed to maintain morale in the families of casualties.

Miss Louise M. Comstock, chairman of the authors' group, invites writers to join the unit.

A Dutch treat supper at 7 p. m. tomorrow at Montrose beach is the next social event on the calendar of the Chicago Service Men's Wives' club. Members will meet at pit No. 12 at the beach, where they will roast wieners and have a swimming party. Mrs. Lucille Mayer invites prospective members to attend the party. More than 100 women now belong to the club. Wives of all men in service are eligible to join.

North Avenue Nursery Benefit Set for Aug. 29

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

The youthful board of directors of the North Avenue Day Nursery, which has a long list of varied and successful benefit parties behind it, is planning to repeat a cocktail party and hat fashion show it gave last September at Marshall Field & Co., on Tuesday, Aug. 29. Fall fashions in hats will be shown starting at 5 p. m., a late hour arranged so that husbands and beaux of board members may be present.

The only charge for the party will be $5 a couple for admission. Refreshments will be free. Mrs. Abner J. Stilwell is serving as general chairman of the benefit, with Mrs. Jere Patterson as her co-chairman, and Mrs. F. Strother Cary Jr., as ticket chairman. Mrs. Stilwell entertained at cocktails yesterday afternoon to announce plans for the benefit.

Missing from this year's benefit committee will be Mrs. Kevin McLoughlin, the former Lucy Harrison, who is in the east with Lt. McLoughlin of the navy; Miss Barbara Buchanan, who is away for the summer, and Mrs. DeWitt Buchanan Jr., who also is with her navy husband. They were invaluable workers. Two new helpers who have been of much service to the nursery are Mrs. Donald A. K. Brown, the former Mary Ryerson, and Miss Marilyn Morse. The nursery owes its new stoker to Miss Morse, who turned a Christmas check over to the institution instead of buying herself a handsome present.

Miss Morse, Mrs. Patterson, and Mrs. Cary were among those at yesterday's meeting. Mrs. Samuel A. Culbertson II., Mrs. Herbert Stratford, Mrs. Sidney S. Gorham, Mrs. Robert N. McKenna, Mrs. John Q. Adams Jr., president of the nursery board; Mrs. E. Cummings Parker, and Mrs. Ralph Applegate were others present.

The nursery, which is at 2023 Pierce av., has undergone several improvements recently. A large, new sandbox, new swings, a new fence, and freshly sown grass seed will add to the children's enjoyment.

About three-fourths of the parents of the nursery school children are war plant workers, and the fathers of most of the others are in the service. The nursery is open from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m. and takes care of pre-school age youngsters.

On the Record

By Claudia Cassidy

Pianists at Work.

Even in the lush days of record plenty, a new set by Artur Rubinstein rated as treasure. Now, with the once steady stream of new releases reduced to a trickle, Mr. Rubinstein's slender album of music by Villa-Lobos stirs a positive quiver of excitement. Just two records [Victor M-970], they hold the doll family miniatures, "A Pról do Bébé," and the brief skirmish of another early work, "Joy in the Garden," folklore from the floral suite. The Brazilian composer so honors Rubinstein that he once did his piano portrait, and no wonder. The Polish virtuoso brings his music deftly to life, capturing the textures of the doll characters and the rowdy savagery of Punch, acknowledging their make believe scale but understanding the difference between the witty and the trivial. Fortunately for the collector, the recording reproduces the true piano tone.

Artur Rubinstein.

Columbia has a batch of piano records, too, including a reissue of Robert Casadesus' velvety performance of Schubert's Sonata No. 9, in A major [X-236; two 12-inch records]. This is soft, lustrous playing in the finest Schubert style, and eight of the 12 Ländler of opus 171 fill the final side. There also is a Rudolph Serkin single of the Bach Toccata and Fugue in E minor [Peters' edition, Vol. 4, No. 3], which some times sounds almost angry and sometimes like an expert pianist doing exercises, and there is a green label record of Addinsell's flamboyant Warsaw Concerto, taken from the sound track of "Suicide Squadron," played by the London Symphony with Muir Mathieson conducting. The pianist isn't identified, but he charges frenziedly thru the fray.

Wagner by Reiner.

Fritz Wagner knows his Wagnerian opera as well as his Strauss, and Columbia has made up an album of some of his performances with the Pittsburgh Symphony [M-549; four 12 inch records]. It holds the preludes to "Die Meistersinger" and the first and third acts of "Lohengrin," the forest murmurs from "Siegfried," and the "Ride of the Valkyries," from "Die Walküre." They have authority and brilliance.

Szigeti's Debussy.

Columbia also sends out Joseph Szigeti's performance, with Andor Földes at the piano, of Debussy's last composition, the Sonata No. 3 for Violin and Piano [X-242; two 12-inch records]. This is the dark, febrile work of a dying man, more contrived than spontaneous, but by no means dull. The performance is adequate but not as good as it might be were the violin tone less acrid under pressure. The last side holds "Clair de Lune" in the Roelens arrangement.

Request Number.

An avid collector has a request to make, one the record companies could easily fill. He wants an album of songs American soldiers sang in France in World War I., and he thinks a lot of people would want it now that so many of those same soldiers have sons fighting on French soil.

Nautical Garb Adds to Fun of a Sailing Trip

BY REA SEEGER.

All the lucky people within playing distance of water can enjoy that popular summer sport—sailing. A trip on the water, leaving behind the heat of a steamy city, brings almost indescribable relief, and wearing the right clothes for the occasion adds to the fun. In a sports shop filled with the correct apparel for all enthusiastic sportswomen are sea going clothes for everything from paddling a canoe down a river to the swank stuff for yacht trips.

You'll find water repellent materials in strong colors, rusty red and marine blue, as well as the classic whites. Slacks, fitted with masculine precision and simplicity, can easily be teamed with striped thin wool sweaters with short sleeves, or with sailor blouses of the same material. Flannel jackets have brass buttons, deep pockets, and the regulation pea-jacket blue tone and straight silhouette. Heavy wool top coats lined with scarlet or plaids complete such an outfit for the occasional rainy cold day or for the times you are caught in a squall.

Sweaters of various weights come in the usual marine blue, white, and reds, some striped, but the smartest are the solid shades. Snug fitting berets, and dinks cut after the pattern of regulation navy sailor caps, and the French sailor berets fit down over the headline and look ship-shape and decorative in sun, wind, or rain. A few oil skin slacks and blouses can be found, but the supplies are scanty. All the flannels and woolens are processed, however, so as to be water repellent and are guaranteed not to shrink. Even the denim affairs stand up successfully thru rough weather all summer long.

Thru the Looking Glass

A masculine reader, to whom we say "thank you kindly, sir," for praise of our crusade for neater and more appropriate dress for women in this too, too casual era, writes: "You have not mentioned one thing, which I think you should bring out, but good. How about the office worker who would be more attractive if she knew how to dress. . . . In my office there are several of these and there is, to my knowledge, no polite way of telling them that if they give a little thought to the matter they would be much better looking."

There are just two kinds of women who "know how to dress." First, there are the really lucky ones, born with good taste and a sound instinct for line and color and simplicity. Then, there are the women who know they don't have it and work to attain it. They really work to develop their color sense, they observe the smart woman intelligently, and they learn to think about dress as they would about any other problem of theirs that calls for sensible solution.

Then there are the women who don't know they don't know how to dress well. Sometimes they are smug about it, such as a florid lassie we know who clutters her person with jewels, feathers, laces, and fantastic furbelows and who looks at the woman dressed with simplicity as a poor, tasteless idiot with no knack for style. Sometimes, tho they know their taste is wrong but don't know what to do about it.

There is no flat rule—and there shouldn't be, we suppose. Certainly it's every woman's privilege to exercise her own choice in line and color. But if there were one rule that the seekers after style should follow we'd make it, "Dress simply." Go easy on all the extra touches and concentrate on plain, basic lines. Resist the temptation to buy the fancy thing, whether it be dress, shoe, pocketbook, or piece of jewelry. It's better, every time, to be severely dressed rather than overdressed.

Charlie Chan Carries On in 'Black Magic'

"BLACK MAGIC."

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

KIND: Typical of murder mysteries featuring Charlie Chan, Chinese detective, which character was created by the late Earl Derr Biggers.

ACTING: Sidney Toler never will fit the role as did the late Warner Oland, but he tries not too unsuccessfully to emulate his predecessor. Usually there is a Chan offspring to complicate matters for Pop thru ebullience, enthusiasm, and inexperience. This time Chan's university educated daughter contributes her penny's worth.

DIALOG: Corny.

STORY: The husband of a woman medium is murdered during a seance. . . . Later the seeress herself steps off [literally] into the unknown. . . . Charlie unveils the identity of the killer.

DIRECTION: Sufficient unto the story.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Not much.

See you soon.

Stage Notes

Joyce Franklin and Ann Lee have joined the Selwyn cast of "Ramshackle Inn," in support of Zasu Pitts. Miss Franklin is the new ingenue, replacing Mary Barthelmess, and Miss Lee replaces Margaret Callahan. . . . Allan Jones and his wife, Irene Hervey, will be co-stars of Robert Stolz's new musical comedy, "Happily Ever After." . . . Imogene Carpenter has succeeded June Havoc, who is hospitalized, in the New York cast of "Mexican Hayride."

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 24.—Mervyn Leroy already is talking the same kind of deal with Howard Hughes that Preston Sturges has. It may take some time before it jells. In the meantime, Mervyn has almost a year's work cut out for him. He does "The Robe" for Frank Ross first. . . . Two surprised people were Jimmy Dunn and Gene Tierney when they read they would play in "Waltz Me Around Again, Willie." Nothing to it. . . . Kay Campbell has a story ready for screen with a very interesting background, which is Port Townsend. Its title is "Temper of the Wind."

Many Happy Returns.

George Barbier celebrates his 79th birthday in November, and "Stars Over Manhattan" is his 207th picture. He has served 13 years in our town and 30 years on the stage. George says he's really going to retire after this picture, go back to Philadelphia and live the quiet life. But if I know George, he'll go right on making pictures. . . . Wish I could let you read Lt. Comdr. Bob Montgomery's letter about the invasion. You know he's going to emerge from this war not only as a fine citizen and actor, but an elegant writer. . . . Chamberlain Brown has sent William Farnum the script of a play he'd like Farnum to do on Broadway next fall. . . . Lou Harris's next short, "South of Paradise," includes a song by Ralph Rainger and Leo Robbins. It has just turned up in Paramount's musical library. It's titled, "I Know the Meaning of Aloha." Rainger lost his life in that airplane crash over Palm Springs two years ago, when two planes collided in mid-air.

Turnabout in Make Believe.

Rags Ragland gets the girls in "Anchors Aweigh" and Frankie Sinatra gets none. Rags plays a romantic cop and has a different girl on his arm each time he appears—while Frankie is a lonesome sailor who never gets a girl in his arms. . . . Arthur Treacher just can't get away from buttling, and why should he, when he's so good? But his best buttling is done at the Hollywood Canteen on Tuesday night for the boys. He just finished a major job on Abbott and Costello in "Society," and goes into "High Among the Stars" for Charles Rogers.

Chaperoning Papa.

Barbara Britton and Greg McClure were in the midst of a love scene on "The Great John L." when a two year old girl walked up to them, scowled at Barbara, and said, "I'll tell Mommy on you." Sure it was McClure's little daughter, Terri. . . . Lee Sullivan, Irish tenor from New York, will do most of the singing in that picture, but Linda Darnell does one of Johnny Burke and Jimmy Van Heusen's songs. . . . Joe Kane, who was directing Ann Dvorak and John Wayne in "Flame of the Barbary Coast," became annoyed at Ann's continuous knitting, and said, "Will you please stop? No man is worth that much effort." But she went right back to her needles—and on his birthday, a few weeks later, she handed him a sweater. . . . Lee Trent got together some of the young unknown contract players at RKO, whipped up some routines, and they went out bond selling. They rang up an $8,000,000 sale. The boy must have something to do that. The studio's done nothing for him, so he asked for his release and got it. Now watch his smoke at another studio.

This and That.

Mickey Scott, a discharged service man, had visions of dancing with the glamour girls when he signed for "Hollywood Canteen," but was told to carry a cane and sit at a table—he was playing a wounded soldier. . . . Vivian Della Chiesa made recordings of "Dear Friend," Rogers and Hammerstein song, for fifth war loan drive. The record was sent to a thousand radio stations. . . . The box office champions in army theaters thruout America for the month of June were "Going My Way," "Bathing Beauty," "Double Indemnity" and "This Is the Life."

'One Is Missing' . . . . . By H. Vernor Dixon

(Copyright: 1944: By H. Vernor Dixon.)

AN INCENTIVE.

Ellen was putting on an act, and Jed knew it. Whether thru ignorance, blind faith, or actual courage, he nevertheless admired her for it. He nodded to St. John and Omar. "Let's go."

They hurried above to the deck, without another word. The others had come above to watch them and were standing a bit aft. Jed turned and waved to them and Ellen said, "Good luck." Omar and St. John pushed aside the thorn barrier and hurried toward the cart. Jed started after them. Just as he reached the bow of the schooner, Mae Nolan ran forward and caught his arm.

"Jed."

He turned about and faced her. The top of her head barely came to his shoulders and she had to tilt her head back to look up at him. He could hardly make out her features in the dark. When he looked into her eyes he felt an odd catch in his throat.

Mae breathed, "I——I'd just like to thank you."

Jed was surprised. He stared at her and asked, "What for?"

She still held to his arm, but turned partly away and looked out toward the black gulf. "It's been a peculiar existence," she said. "A normal person would think that any one who had a liking for this sort of thing must be insane. Then I'm not normal."

He smiled. "No one could be in this situation."

"Yes. But that's not what I mean. When we first got here you made it plain that the odds were against us ever living thru it."

"They still are."

"No. I don't think so. I think that, somehow, we'll come out of it. If we do, it will be a different world. That's what I'd like to thank you for. You've changed it for me. It won't do me much good, but at least I have something to live for, something to cherish."

Her eyes came back to his and he said, "The jungle breeds an artificial romance, Miss Nolan. Here it means something. Out of here it quite often becomes laughable."

She shook her head, the bandanna came loose and the thick auburn hair tumbled about her shoulders. She said, "This isn't artificial. I've been around long enough to know the difference. But don't get me wrong. I don't mean to throw myself at you. That's been done by an expert."

He looked over her shoulder toward Ellen Banning, straining to hear what they were saying. He looked back at Mae. "It will cease to be real when you're out of here," he said.

"O, no it won't." She placed both hands on his shoulders, her pajama-clad form close to his. "Look. Come back from that base. I know about your hunch. It's no good. This night, to you, is an ending. But it isn't that way at all. It's just a beginning. Some one told me it takes millions of years for that starlight to reach us. Maybe some of the stars are already dead, not really there at all, but the light is still traveling to us."

Jed looked up and blinked at the stars. Mae watched him and said, "If that's the way it is, then the stars are not so important, after all. But their light is important. We need it. It would be horrible if every night was a black night and we had nothing to look up to. You're something like the light of those stars."

His eyes came back to her and an embarrassed smile tugged at one corner of his mouth. "Sorry. I don't understand."

"But you're something to look up to," she cried. "You and thousands of others like you. Fighters. You shed a light for others and they follow you into dangerous places because they believe in that light. You can't let it go out. Not," she cried, "without fighting to keep it alive."

"I have to go. There's no time for talking any more."

"No. I never could express myself properly, anyway. But will you do me a favor before you go?"

"Sure."

"Will you kiss me good-by?"

He looked into her eyes, then shifted the heavy rifle in his hand and put an arm about her. He leaned down and kissed her and she desperately clung to him for a second, then, with a little gasp, turned and ran down the deck.

Ellen and Riddell waved to him. He half lifted his arm, then turned and jumped from the boat to the springy fibor of the jungle.

Jed led the way around the cove and into a deep jungle trail. St. John and Omar followed, each of them pulling at a handle of the heavy cart. They made not a sound.

A few miles above the cove the trail dipped toward the sea and passed by the wreckage of a dozen shattered tanks. A bit farther on was a burnt native village but he skirted close to them, safe in the darkness.

Just below the patrol base, Jed swung from the trail to another that angled off into the jungle. Jed heard a slithering sound in the darkness and came to a halt. A great python, as big around as a man's waist, slid across the trail a few feet in front of him. He waited until the reptile had gone, then raised his hand and went ahead.

They came to the ridge, from the crest of which St. John had first seen the base, but Jed continued on thru a narrow valley lush with ferns. They crossed thru the geometrically perfect grove of a plantation and thru the trees they could see the lights of a native compound. They got thru the grove as quickly as possible and skirted around the ridge. After another mile the jungle suddenly came to an end and Jed called a halt.

He turned about to St. John and whispered, "We're just north of the base. This is the best point from which to enter it. Fewer sentries over here." He touched Omar's arm and spoke in Malayan: "Stay as close to me as possible and make no sound."

"Yes, Tuan. We now meet our little brothers?"

"Soon."

"Ah-h-h-h, so!"

Jed led the way along the edge of the jungle. In a short time they came upon a red sand beach on the edge of the gulf. They saw forms moving along the beach, a detail of soldiers. They stepped back into the ferns, remaining within their shelter, and followed the curve of the beach. The ferns finally gave way to a tall grove of coconut trees and Jed again called a halt.

He said, "Wait here," and then disappeared.

Jed dropped into a crouch and silently worked along the edge of the grove until he came to a well used trail. He turned along that for the distance of a city block, then stepped behind a tree. Two Japanese soldiers were standing on the trail, talking and smoking. Jed leaned back against the tree, made himself comfortable and patiently waited.

The soldiers talked for 20 minutes or more and then one of them left, slowly walking toward the base. The remaining soldier leaned over to light a cigaret and the flame of the match lit up his face for a brief moment.

Jed stepped from behind the tree, knocked the soldier's helmet over his face and smashed the butt of his rifle against his skull.

WHY lie awake with sunburn torture? Just smooth Noxzema Medicated Cream on your hot sore skin, and let it help you get the sleep you need!

What glorious relief you'll feel when you apply Noxzema—so wonderfully cool, soft and soothing to fiery sunburned skin! And snowy-white Noxzema is greaseless, not sticky—won't stain clothes or bed linen. See how it sinks right into your grateful skin.

For years Noxzema has been a standard treatment for sunburn at the first aid stations at Coney Island, Atlantic City, Miami and many other famous American beaches. Wherever you are this summer, get a jar at any drug counter and see how much it helps you, too! 35¢, 50¢, $1, plus tax.

GASOLINE ALLEY

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

As I have pointed out in this column, a bid is not necessarily good or bad, depending on the player's holding; the position he occupies may be the real criterion. For example:

East, dealer.
East-West, vulnerable.

	NORTH
	♥ J 8 7 4
	♦ J 10 9 7 3
	♣ 2
WEST		EAST
♠ 8 3 2		♠ 5 4
♥ A 10 9 6 5 2		♥ Q 3
♦ none		♦ A K Q 6 5 2
♣ 10 7 6 4		♣ A J 9
	SOUTH
	♥ K
	♦ 8 4
	♣ K Q 8 5 3

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 diamond	1 spade	2 hearts	3 spades
3 diamonds	3 spades	Pass	Pass
4 diamonds	4 spades	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

Nothing terrible happened to the four spade contract [which West had doubled merely to keep his partner from bidding any more diamonds!], but North was not inclined to view the result, a one trick set, with equanimity. In fact, he was rather bitter on the subject of what would have happened to East at four diamonds, doubled. He accurately pointed out that East would have lost two spades, two trumps, and two clubs, thus going down 800.

"But how could I tell that you had all those diamonds?" South asked piteously.

North glared at him. "That's just it," he snapped. "How, indeed, could you tell?—unless you gave me the chance to say so!"

And there, in a nutshell, was the full answer. South bid four spades because he accurately figured out that he either would make that contract or go down an unimportant trick—usually a sound enough basis for a game bid. In this case, however, it was not in South's province to make that sort of decision! The four diamond bid should have been allowed to reach North, and North, the last to speak for his side, would bid four spades if he thought four diamonds might make, or double if he felt so inclined. South's great error was in the position of his bid.

THREE DOCTORS, WOMAN QUIZZED IN BABY INQUIRY

$400 Fee Is Bared in Adoption Case.

Three physicians connected with the Peoples hospital, 255 W. Cermak rd., and a woman who adopted a baby from the institution were questioned yesterday in an investigation by the state's attorney's office into an alleged adoption racket in Chicago. The hospital was closed last Tuesday by city health authorities because of its unsanitary conditions and faulty record keeping.

The woman, Mrs. Betty Rainsford, 30, of 5494 University av., wife of a soldier now overseas, told Assistant State's Atty. Francis McCurrie that she and her husband adopted a baby from the Peoples hospital in 1941.

Doctor Bills Them for $400.

Mrs. Rainsford said her family physician told her she could not bear children and offered to arrange an adoption thru the Peoples hospital. He referred her and her husband to Dr. Dante Cortesi, head of the institution.

After the adoption, she said, her physician presented a bill of $400. She and her husband paid it by borrowing from a loan company. She said she did not know if this bill was solely for medical services or included a payment to the Peoples hospital for the adoption.

Wishes to Keep Baby.

The baby is now three and a half years old. Mrs. Rainsford said she wishes to keep the baby and does not wish to prefer charges.

The three physicians denied knowledge of illegal adoptions. Two said they had delivered only a few children at the Peoples hospital and that all the adoptions in these cases had been arranged thru authorized agents.

FOURTH OF HOME RADIOS FOUND IN NEED OF REPAIR

Washington, D. C., July 24 (AP).—Twenty-eight per cent of all radios in American homes have needed repairs this year, the WPB reported today, and 15 per cent of them won't work at all.

The survey, the first conducted by WPB to learn how badly repairs are needed on household appliances, showed the following percentages out of order:

Electric toasters, electric fans, vacuum cleaners, 7 per cent; electric irons, oil cooking stoves, 6 per cent; wash machines, sewing machines, oil burners, 5 per cent; wood cooking stoves, wood heating stoves, 4 per cent; electric cooking and heating stoves, wood water heaters, 3 per cent; mechanical refrigerators, oil heating stoves, oil water heaters, 2 per cent; gas cooking and heating stoves, gas and electric water heaters, hot air furnaces, hot water boilers, 1 per cent out of order.

Seventy-nine per cent of vacuum cleaner owners who needed repairs reported success in getting them, the best record for any appliance. Thirty per cent success was reported for gas water heaters, the lowest record. For all appliances, success in getting repair work done was reported in 61 per cent of all cases.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

It makes you furious if you suspect that the chicken salad you ordered in a restaurant isn't all chicken, yet you'll stretch the cubes of chicken with leftover roast veal any time, if you're making the salad yourself, and it'll taste just as good as tho it were all chicken!

All chicken or chicken and veal or pork, this kind of salad is a favorite. It's a favorite for Sunday supper for the family, and it's just as popular with larger gatherings.

A stewing chicken, one probably more than a year old, is the kind to select for chicken salad. To cook it, disjoint, wipe the pieces well, cover with water, and add 1½ teaspoons salt. Simmer gently until the meat is tender. This will take probably three hours, altho a tough old hen or rooster might require four hours for tenderizing.

Let the chicken cool in the stock, then cut the meat from the bones in neat dice. The stock may be seasoned and used for chicken soup. If the fowl is fat, a good deal of flavorful cooking fat will rise to the top of the broth when it has cooled, and may be skimmed off. All of the fat may be captured if the broth is chilled overnight. It will solidify and be easy to remove. Chicken fat is excellent in muffins and cakes.

The beauty of chicken salad is that one chicken's meat may be stretched to serve up to 12 persons. Cooked macaroni, diced egg, vegetables may be added to stretch the original three or more cups of cubed chicken which may be obtained from one fowl.

Basic Recipe for Chicken Salad.
[Serves six.]
3 cups diced chicken
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups sliced celery
Mayonnaise to moisten

Combine ingredients and pile into lettuce cups. Salad should be served very cold.

Additions and Variations.

Two diced hard cooked eggs and 2 tablespoons chopped pickle are a favorite addition.

A cup of diced pineapple or orange is an excellent addition, and if you wish to add 2 tablespoons of minced green pepper with the fruit, you'll achieve an interesting flavor combination.

Stretch the salad for more servings by adding 1 to 2 cups cooked macaroni or cooked peas and carrots.

Use diced cold pork or veal for part of the chicken. Or, dice cold ham, salami, or liver sausage and mix with the chicken.

Fill hollowed or petal-cut tomatoes with the salad mixture. A little will go a long way when it stuffs a ripe tomato.

I have a good collection of recipes for chicken salad [including jellied salad] which I shall be happy to send to any interested reader. All I ask is the usual stamped, self-addressed envelope. If you'd like a recipe to serve 50, please specify, and that will be included. Address Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

White Collar GIRL

Some Other Day.

I should write that letter to mother,
But it hasn't been long since I wrote.
I could practice scales for my lesson,
But my mood seems to stifle each note.
My wardrobe could stand thoro mending,
But I guess pins will hold yet awhile.
My hair would look better some new way,
But I'm not one to follow the style.
I just sit and wait for that phone call,
Yet I know he won't call me today.
That old refuge—procrastination—
Lulls him, too, or at least so I say!

CULLIE.

Recognition.

How about some recognition for the private duty nurse? She's the gal who foregoes the excitement of the army, turns her back on an eight hour day in the hospital, seeks no commendation [and gets none] but just keeps putting in 12 hours a day, seven days a week, because she's needed in private nursing and, war or no war, her job is important.

She gets paid well [tho not as well as defense workers]; higher pay, it's true, than her colleagues in the hospital. But she has more expenses—besides her income tax and alumni dues, 10 per cent of her earnings go to a registry. It costs 60 cents to have a uniform laundered, and sometimes the laundry won't take it at all. So, she comes home and launders her own—in her spare time when she's not cleaning her small apartment after 12 hours' work.

If she regards with envy those girls who work 40 hours a week, who can blame her? She doesn't complain, and if her task sometimes grows monotonous or her ingenuity is exhausted or her leisure non-existent, the sincere gratitude of someone whom she has helped thru an illness or sorrow repays her and gives her courage to keep on doing her job.

The Ole' Meanie.

Those typewriter drawings printed in the column are interesting; so much so, in fact, they make me wonder whether they are done on the boss's time.

MEANIE.

Feminine Firsts.

Rufe Pickett, our Rock Island column conductor, says there is one other Boston & Maine locomotive besides "Lily Pons" with a feminine name: "Ye Salem Witch." . . . The first woman member of the Skyhook club, a group of pilots who have made emergency parachute jumps, is Lorraine Zillner of Park Ridge. . . . The first time I've ever heard of a 61 year old twin sister taking over her twin's job is reported in Telephony. The twins are telephone operators in Ohio, and Nona [on the day staff] succeeds Mona [as night operator]. . . . Who is the first woman ever to address a national political convention? Where? When? How? . . . The only woman national officer [they say] of the CIO is Eleanor Nelson, daughter of a Republican ex-senator. . . . The American airlines has created a new title, "Salt and Pepper Queen," to honor Anna Smith, in the food service department. She concocted a device to polish several barrels full of corroded metal salt and pepper shakers. The company gave her an award.

World Service Leader Named by Methodists

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Bishop Titus Lowe, resident bishop of the Indianapolis, Ind., area, yesterday was elected president of the Methodist church commission on world service and finance. The commission met in the La Salle hotel. Other officers elected were Bishop Clare Purcell, Charlotte, N. C., vice president; W. F. McMurry, Paducah, Ky., secretary, and the Rev. Thomas B. Lugg, Decatur, Ill., treasurer. Dr. Lugg succeeds the Rev. Orrin W. Auman of Chicago, who retires after 20 years' service.

Elected as members of the commission's executive committee were the Rev. H. S. De Vore, president of Central college, Fayette, Mo.; the Rev. J. Edgar Skillington, York, Pa.; C. A. Jones, Columbus, O.; Judge H. R. Snavely, Marshall, Ill.; L. W. Wells, Richmond, Va., and J. Ernest Wilkins, 6717 Evans av., representing the central jurisdiction of the Methodist church.

Newly elected members to the commission were the Rev. Floyd Gibson, president of Emory and Henry college, Emory, Va., succeeding Bishop Costen J. Harsell, who was elevated last June to the episcopacy of the Birmingham, Ala., area, and E. E. Collins, Billings, Mont., who succeeds the late A. R. Reeves of the same city.

At the general conference of the Methodist church held last April in Kansas City, Mo., an appeal was issued for an increase of 10 per cent over the $5,898,570 received the previous fiscal year for world service. Per capita receipts for this commission as of May, 1944, were 81 cents, an increase of 9 cents over May 30, 1943.

The commission also received last year $199,483 for the administrative fund, and $789,940 for the Episcopal fund.

DISMISSAL OF 10 'CITIZEN' SUITS IS ASKED BY U.S.

Supreme Court Ruling Is Given as Reason.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 24 [Special].—Dismissal of 10 pending denaturalization cases was asked of Federal Judge F. Ryan Duffy here today by Carl R. Becker, assistant United States district attorney, because, he said, "The Supreme court has defined new rules of evidence applicable to these cases."

[The Supreme court ruling to which Becker referred was the free speech ruling of June 12 when Elmer Hartzel, Chicago auditor, was freed of an espionage charge in writing three pamphlets portraying the war as a "gross betrayal of America" and assailing the President. The court's ruling also restored the citizenship of Carl Wilhelm Baumgartner, Kansas City, who had been accused of unfavorably comparing President Roosevelt with Adolf Hitler.]

Mental Reservations Claimed.

The government had sought to denaturalize the defendants on the grounds that they held mental reservations at the time they were naturalized and had based its cases largely on activities of defendants subsequent to their attaining American citizenship.

Cases for which the government asked dismissals were Martin Biesold, 4058 N. Larkin st., Shorewood, and Fred A. Bockemuni, 2167 S. Layton blvd.; William Carl Greeb, 3245 N. 25th st.; Ludwig Jacobi, 2676 N. 2d st.; Eric William Kaufman, 5514 W. Center st.; Otto Kettner, 125 E. Vine st.; Alfred P. Neumann, 732 N. 17th st.; William Scheiterlein, 4420 N. 56th st.; Mrs. Martha Schmidt, 1448 N. 27th st., and Joseph Wippl, 1000-A W. Cherry st., all of Milwaukee.

Knauer Case Only Conviction.

Of 25 cases instituted by the government, conviction was obtained only in that against Paul Knauer, 3823 W. Sarnow st., vice president of the pro-Nazi German-American Citizens' alliance.

Judge Duffy today granted Knauer a stay of execution in the surrender of his citizenship certificate, pending an appeal of his denaturalization case to the Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago. Knauer's attorney, H. William Ihrig, advised the court that a $250 appeal bond had been filed.

Judge Duffy previously had found seven of the 25 defendants not guilty, while decisions are awaited in two cases. No action has been taken on five other cases.

DEFENSE RAPS DEWEY SMEAR IN SEDITION TRIAL

Washington, D. C., July 24 [Special].—Charges of politics were flung by defense attorneys today when the government read to the jury in the mass sedition trial an attack on Gov. Dewey made in 1939 by Robert Edward Edmondson, one of the defendants.

Under the heading, "Dewey, Presidential Impossibility," Edmondson described Dewey as "the youthful district attorney of New York's Jewish-La Guardia administration—suspiciously ballyhooed in the Jew controled press as a 'racket buster' par excellence and a Republican favorite who denounced anti-semitism as un-American."

Edmundson said he sought to show that Dewey was subject to "Jewish influences."

When two defense attorneys expressed resentment at "any smear on Dewey," Government Prosecutor Joseph W. Burns said the government endeavored to show the defendants were against all political parties.

The Dewey-Edmondson document was one of almost 100 which Judge Edward C. Eicher admitted as evidence after considering defense motions to suppress the papers on the ground federal agents had seized them illegally in raiding German-American bund headquarters.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

THE QUESTION.

What article do you borrow most?

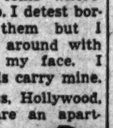
WHERE ASKED.

Hotel Sherman.

THE ANSWERS.

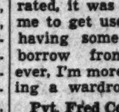
Jean Blundell, model, 4539 Central av., Western Springs—Whenever I need a pen or pencil, I never have one. Every time I borrow a pencil I keep it, but when I want to use it again it's gone. So help me—I never could hang onto them. If I borrow some one's pen, I always return it. But I forget to return pencils.

Ethel Davis, dancing teacher, 1019 N. Dearborn st.—If I bought 10 combs and all of a sudden wanted to use one, I know I wouldn't have it anywhere within my reach. I leave a comb wherever I go. I detest borrowing them but I can't go around with my hair hanging in my face. I should have my friends carry mine.

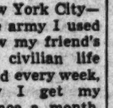


Helen Burke, actress, Hollywood, Calif.—I used to share an apartment with a girl friend of mine. We used to wear each other's dresses and accessories. When we separated, it was hard for me to get used to not having some one to borrow from. However, I'm more practical now in buying a wardrobe.

Pvt. Fred Cohen, New York City—Before I went into the army I used to borrow my friend's cars. In civilian life I was paid every week, but now I get my money once a month. Once in awhile I nick my friends for a small amount until that eventful day rolls around. That is something I seldom did in the old days.



Pat Collins, dancing teacher, 4443 Malden st.—My friends accuse me of being a parasite and a moocher. I'll buy a carton of cigarets [don't ask me where], and take them home, and forget about them. Then I have to count on one of my friends to give me one. If I do buy a pack during the day, I leave it in the studio.



Pvt. Lee Lindenberg, Philadelphia, Pa.—My buddies don't like to part with property, but they are all pretty good guys. I borrow their little black books containing the names of their favorite dates. Those with a large collection don't mind such loans. Some of the phone numbers they've lent me enabled me to avoid lonely hours.

OPA TO FORCE WAR WORKERS TO SHARE THE AUTO

Efforts to compel war plant workers to recruit at least three other workers to share their cars for riding to work will be made by the office of price administration next week, Paul A. H. Shults, acting area director, said yesterday.

Local boards have been instructed to issue only 30 day gasoline rations to cars having less than four riders, including the driver, Shults said, instead of the customary 90 day supply. The new system will be effective Aug. 1.

Those who obtain up to three additional riders will be granted the full three month ration, Shults said, but those who do not will be required to show they failed because of a lack of workers going their way.

OPA announced in Washington it had placed pears under price control, effective today, at shipping points, for the first time. The retail price ceiling, soon effective, will be about 15 cents a pound until Sept. 10 and will rise to about 17 cents by next April, OPA said. In wholesale markets the price control will be effective Aug. 3 in Illinois and Wisconsin and Aug. 8 in all other states wholly east of the Mississippi river.

OPA has appointed a committee of 15 Chicago restaurant men to map a program for carrying out the new national cafe price regulation effective next Monday. They will select the 40 basic food items on which restaurants must post prices.

Domestic gin and vodka will be lowered in price soon, the OPA said, with the former to go down 10 to 15 cents a fifth, and vodka dropping about 35 cents. The OPA in Washington said current retail prices had been found higher than warranted by production costs.

Another brother, Robert, 30, is in the merchant marine.

VICE CONVICTION OF WASHINGTON DANCER VOIDED

Washington, D. C., July 24 [Special].—The United States Court of Appeals in a two to one decision today reversed last year's white slave conviction of Carmen Beach Martin, 30, a rhumba dancer, ruling that the federal Mann act does not apply to transportation of women for immoral purposes within the District of Columbia.

Judge D. Lawrence Groner, who wrote the majority opinion, said local laws punishing prostituion are so complete that they should be used exclusively in cases where transportation does not involve traveling over district boundary lines.

Mrs. Martin was given a one to three year sentence on evidence that she accompanied a prostitute on a four block taxi ride from a house of ill repute to a hotel. The decision is regarded as possibly affecting the validity of convictions obtained early this year in the Hopkins institute white slavery trial.

ROBBERY DEFENDANT CALLED INTO COURT FROM HOSPITAL BED

Altho two physicians, one appointed by the court, testified he was too ill to leave his bed in Garfield Park hospital, Wincel Urban, 48, of 1320 W. 22d st., was ordered into Criminal court yesterday by Judge Harold G. Ward for trial with two others on a charge of robbing the Olsen Transportation company, 2222 S. Western av., of $1,177 on March 6. The physicians told Judge Ward Urban had been stricken either with an acute gall bladder attack or with appendicitis

Urban's co-defendants are Raymond Fischell, 40, and William J. Roche, 33, both of St. Louis.

After Urban entered the courtroom, limping behind his attorney, Harold Levy, Mrs. Mary Applegate, 2121 Milwaukee av., a cashier at the Olson company, identified Fischell as the man who entered the office with his hand in his coat pocket and scooped up the money. Three other employes corroborated her testimony. None identified Urban or Roche.

ADMITS BURNING HAND OF HIS SON, 6, FOR $3 THEFT

To punish his son, Walter Jr., 6, for stealing candy money from his mother's purse, Walter Shalitis Sr., 29, of 5038 Lock st., held one of the child's hands over a gas stove flame until the palm was scorched, he told Deering police last night.

Shalitis, charged with cruelty to a child, was released on $100 bond. He will appear in Domestic Relations court this morning. He said the boy was indifferent when he reprimanded him for the theft of $3 and he held the youngster's hand over the flame "to frighten him."

The boy burned his hand when he moved it, Shalitis said. Mr. and Mrs. Shalitis applied vaseline and a bandage after the punishment Friday; then, as further discipline, the boy was locked in a room. He climbed out thru a window. Police found him at 3 a. m. Saturday at 33d st. and Ashland av. and took him to the County hospital, where his hand was treated for second degree burns.

PRISONER FOUND DEAD IN CELL.

Dennis Burns, 58, of 4078 West End av., was found dead yesterday in a cell at the Fillmore st. police station, where he was held on a disorderly conduct charge.

Passenger Shot to Death, Body Dragged from Car

Nural Smith, 31, of 4424 Wabash av., a Negro, was shot and killed early yesterday on a westbound 43d st. street car by another Negro who boarded the car, shot his victim and then dragged him from the car to the street. The conductor, Emil Strasser, 51, of 5525 S. Richmond st. said Smith boarded the car at Langley av., waving goodby to the same man who killed him a few minutes later. The slayer then pursued the car.

THIS is a picture of an eviction. Remember?

We don't think there will be any more pictures like it. But there might be. Yes, there might be if American families muff this greatest opportunity to put money aside in War Bonds.

Why?

Just this. We're all working now—and making good money—because there's a ready customer for what we make...WAR. He drives a hard bargain, that customer. In return for high wages he takes our sons, and husbands, and brothers, sometimes for keeps.

Families all over America are asking now if WAR is the only buyer big enough to make jobs enough. The answer is no. To have good wages and enough jobs after the war simply means that there must be a peacetime "Customer" equally as big, with equally as much cold cash to spend. But, the only customer big enough is the American working public—you and your neighbor, and his neighbor, and his.

War Bonds today are the soundest, safest, surest way for American working families to have cold cash to spend after the war.

THIS WON'T BE YOUR FAMILY...OR WILL IT?

EVERY War Bond you buy now will be cash in your pocket later on. You'll then be able to buy some of the things you've had to do without—a car, a washing machine, or a new radio.

Nearly 80 cents out of every dollar you will pay for that car, washing machine, or radio will go to people, as wages. Then they will have money. They will be able to buy what you make. You will get paid. And it doesn't even stop there. For as long as people buy, people work. As long as people work, people buy. And if you and enough of your neighbors have that ready cash, there will be no more pictures of evictions or breadlines. No more "Made work". No more handouts. Instead, there will be jobs, bank accounts, security—the America we all want.

WAR BONDS TODAY ARE JOB BONDS TOMORROW

This message is addressed to the nation's Wage Earner Families, the quorum of America, who are furnishing sons for the battlefront; manpower for the nation's factories at war; and who are building now the purchasing power to keep those factories running at war speed in peace.

It is preprinted from the eight magazines of the Macfadden Company, which, together, reach the world's largest number of these families.

Because of its importance to America at large, this message—and others in the series—also appears in some of the nation's leading newspapers.

DYKES SIGNS NEW CONTRACT; SOX LOSE, 11-5

ACTION SPIKES RUMORS THAT PILOT WOULD GO

Agreement Is for 2 More Seasons.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

James J. Dykes, without any advance fanfare, signed a new two year contract an hour before last night's game with the New York Yankees to lead the Chicago White Sox in 1945 and 1946.

The announcement was made by the White Sox president, Mrs. Grace Comiskey, and both she and Manager Dykes expressed themselves as very happy about it all. Dykes, who long since has broken records for continuous service as a Sox skipper, is serving the last hitch in a three year contract with a reported salary of $27,500 per annum. There is no hint whether the figure was raised in the new contract.

Three Coaches to Stay.

It stipulated that Dykes' three coaches would remain. They are Muddy Ruel, Bing Miller, and Mule Haas. Haas and Aj Simmons, along with Dykes, came to the Sox in September, 1942, from the Athletics at a reported purchase price of $150,000. Dykes, who will be 48 years old in November, ended his playing career by appearing in two games in 1939.

It was thought last night's action was speeded by a flow of rumors appearing in the sports pages of New York newspapers predicting this was Dykes' last season as the Sox leader. These rumors had virtually reached the proportions of a campaign, with Jim variously reported as headed for managerships of the Dodgers, Pirates, and Phillies.

There was no theatrical, setup, such as calling in the newspaper men and photographers for the ceremony. In fact, Mrs. Comiskey's announcement was made with little more fuss than a routine note to the press box advising of a moving up or back of a game.

He's Serving 11th Season.

Dykes succeeded Lew Fonseca as Sox manager on May 8, 1934, and is in his 11th season as leader of the Comiskey team. No other Sox manager in the team's 43 year history served more than five seasons.

Under Dykes the Sox have finished in the first division six times, but never higher than third. His best season was 1937 when the Chicago team won 86 and lost 68 games—a performance that might be good enough for a pennant in this war time season. Only Connie Mack of the Athletics and Joe McCarthy of the Yankees outrank Dykes in successive seasons as manager of a big league team.

WAR FUND SALE GROWS

Advance ticket sales for tomorrow night's War Fund game between the White Sox and Washington Senators yesterday neared $10,000, club officials reported. This is the third year each of the American league teams has held a war fund contest. Net proceeds will go to the national war fund and the Red Cross. In the two preceding games, the White Sox have turned in over $66,000.

A series of field events will start at 8 p. m., reminiscent of county fair baseball attractions. There will be foot races between fleet players of the Sox and Senators; accuracy throwing competition, and a wheelbarrow race from second base to home plate, involving Coaches Mule Haas and Bing Miller of the Sox and Nick Altrock of the Senators.

Finding Plate Is the Problem.

Each of the three will be blindfolded, then spun around. Their problem will be to convoy their implements to home plate.

And looked to the east and the west,

That in spite of your humble appealing
I was ruthless and hard from the start.

Has been selfishness, I am confessing

The White Sox last evening revealed for the 13th time this season that they shouldn't be allowed to leave their quarters after sundown. They lost their 13th in 16 nocturnal engagements in Comiskey park, suffering an 11 to 5 drubbing in the final of their five game series with the Yankees.

At that the Chicagoans took the series, three games to two, and still boast a ratio of nine victories to five defeats in 1944 competition with the world champs.

The Yankees were a bit more brutal than they had to be before a pleasant gathering of 20,411 fans, most of them Sox partisans, who are ambitious to see the Chicagoans win at least one more night game this season. They hammered three Sox pitchers, showing little partiality among the starter, Buck Ross; his successor, Joe Haynes, and the inevitable Gordon Maltzberger.

Yanks Rout Ross.

Ross disappeared in the shadows during the course of a five run, six hit blast in the third inning, which included Johnny Lindell's second homer of the series and his ninth of the season. They shortened the range against Haynes, making one double and eight singles. And they bruised Maltzberger with Bud Metheny's 12th homer and Lindell's fourth hit of the game, a triple. George Stirnweiss was a four hit and four run gent. His hits included a triple, a double, and two singles. He also stole two bases.

The Sox did some hitting themselves off Ernie Bonham, not that they alarmed the big right hander to any great extent. They made three hits in the second inning, one in the third, two in the fourth, three in the fifth, and one in the sixth. They were hitless in the last three innings.

Stirnweiss Starts Big Night.

Rapid action started with the opening of the game. Stirnweiss started it with a triple off the right field wall and scored on Metheny's out.

The Sox tied the score in the second before the first of the Yankees' series of double plays choked them off. Ralph Hodgin opened with a single and went to third on Hal Trosky's single. Mike Milosevich dropped Thurman Tucker's pop fly back of second but threw to Oscar Grimes, covering second, to force Trosky, Hodgin scoring. Tom Turner singled off Nick Etten's glove, Tucker taking third. Skeeter Webb sent a short fly to Lindell and Tucker was doubled at the plate.

Yankees Get Rough.

The devastating Yankee third started with Ross' pass to Bonham. Stirnweiss doubled and followed Bonham home on Metheny's single to center. When Tucker threw to the screen, Metheny reached third. He scored on Herschel Martin's fly

Dub Wooten, Oklahoma End, to Play with College All-Stars

BY WILFRID SMITH.

W. C. [Dub] Wooten, co-captain of the 1943 University of Oklahoma football team which won seven of its nine games, will be one of the receivers for All-Star forward passes in the game between the collegians and the Chicago Bears in Dyche stadium Aug. 30. Oklahoma's star end yesterday accepted an invitation to join the All-Stars and he will report at Northwestern university Aug. 12.

The All-Star line also was immeasureably strengthened yesterday when Bill Aldworth, Minnesota tackle, accepted an invitation to play against the champions of the National Football league in the 11th of the series of games sponsored by The Chicago Tribune charities. Aldworth weighs 215 pounds and is 6 feet 4 inches tall. He won two varsity football awards at Minnesota.

Wooten Aggressive End.

Oklahoma was beaten last fall only by Texas and Tulsa and these elevens later were selected for post-season bowl games. Texas tied Randolph field in the Cotton bowl in Dallas, while the Golden Hurricane, for a second consecutive year, was selected to appear in New Orleans' Sugar bowl spectacle. Tulsa was beaten by Georgia Tech's second half rally.

Oklahoma's splendid record last year was due in no small part to Wooten's aggressive play. He attended Amarillo, Tex., High school where he played on the team that won the state football championship in 1940. Matriculating at the University of Oklahoma, he immediately attained stardom when he became eligible in the fall of 1942. Despite his association with players in the Big Six conference, Wooten still believes John Kimbrough, battering full back of Texas A. & M., is the best player he has seen.

Worked Way Thru School.

Wooten worked his way thru the university and received a degree in physical education. He is employed this summer in the oil fields.

While Aldworth's poundage may not quite measure to that of some of the former Minnesota linemen, there is nothing fragile about the big fellow. He doubled in wrestling while an undergraduate and captained the Gophers' team in this sport.

Aldworth's home is in Garden City, N. Y. He studied animal husbandry at Minnesota and received the degree of bachelor of science in agriculture. This explains why he is employed this summer on the Butte ranch near Cullerson, Mont.

Played With Eastern Stars.

Big Bill, as he was familiarly known to his Gopher teammates, was selected as a member of the East eleven which met the western stars in the annual Shrine game in San Francisco at the conclusion of the 1943 season. Among his other accomplishments is the ability to play the clarinet.

Tickets in the $4.40 and $3.30 sections of Dyche stadium still may be purchased for the game Aug. 30. Mail orders should be sent to the All-Star Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower. Tickets also are on sale at The Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn st., and in the lobby of Tribune Tower.

All-Star Roster

THE list of college football players who have accepted invitations to join the All-Stars for the game Aug. 30 in Dyche stadium against the Chicago Bears follows:

Pro-President Title Goes to Foulis, Moon

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Jim Foulis, the angular Ruth Lake professional, and his club president, E. L. Moon, yesterday collaborated to win the annual pro-presidents' reunion conducted by members of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' association for and with their bosses at the Oak Park Country club.

Foulis and Moon led a field of 17 twosomes with a card of 72—66, James winning a medal for himself while his president was presented with a trophy. The championship was determined on a selective drive, alternate shot basis, with half of the combined handicaps of professional and president taking effect.

Tie for Second at 68.

Next in line, with net 68s, was a Skokie team composed of Bob Stupple and O. P. Alford, who had 74—6—68, and the Tom o' Shanter twosome of Bill Gordon and George S. May, who came thru with an 84—16—68. They were followed by Charles [Red] Dennison and President George P. F. Smith of Midlothian. The host combination of Eddie Bush and Walter G. Leininger followed with 76—5—71.

McMahon Individual Star.

The outstanding individual performance of the day was registered by Tom McMahon of Skokie, past president of the C. D. G. A., playing in a threesome with Pvt. Chick Harbert of the Air WAC Recruiting office. Tom stayed even with the long hitting soldier, matching his 37 going out. McMahon finished with a fine 75, but Harbert, thanks to five birdies on the last six holes, came home in 31 for a 68.

Larry Rutherford of Medinah, president of the C. D. G. A., played with Pvt. Harbert and McMahon and finished with a tidy 40 after going out in 46.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 24.—The Cubs were just about ready to announce tonight that they had completed additional arrangements for their early removal from the second division. It was necessary to withhold the good news because the Giants, who had been trailing since the second inning, suddenly let loose with a four-run barrage against Claude Passeau in the eighth to trim the Chicagoans in the series final, 5 to 3, before 10,171 cash patrons.

The upsetting of Passeau, which also reduced the Cubs to an even break in the four games here, was merely a matter of the Giants' taking back what they had given away earlier. The Grimm boys, using a revamped lineup, because of mild injuries suffered yesterday by Dom Dallessandro and Andy Pafko, contributed only six hits against Ewald Pyle.

Passeau Fades In 8th.

Passeau had things just about as he wanted them thru the first seven innings, the only run scored against him being precipitated by an error. But when Thadford Leon Treadway, who had given the Cubs a run to mark his promotion from Jersey City to the Polo Grounds this afternoon, opened the eighth with a single the Chicago veteran apparently had nothing in reserve. Pinch-batter Bruce Sloan singled and after Manager Mel Ott had popped out, Joe Medwick singled in the first of the four decisive runs. Phil Weintraub let go with a two bagger on which two more scored and Ernie Lombardi did the rest with a single.

Ival Goodman hit a fly in the second inning and it should have marked the second out but this was where Treadway immersed the seat of his pants in the grass just as he was about to make the catch and the ball dropped for a three base error. After Don Johnson had been thrown out, Dewey Williams singled Goodman across with the first run.

Cubs Score 2 In Fourth.

Goodman also arranged for the two run scoring developments in the fourth by getting plunked in the ribs by one of Pyle's errant pitches. On the first pitch Johnson punched a two bagger over first base and Williams was purposely walked, filling the bags, with none out. Passeau slapped a long fly to Ott to score Goodman, and Johnson sneaked home while Stan Hack was forcing Williams.

The Giants' lone run until the fourth with Johnson fumbling Weintraub's roller. He was chased home by singles by Lombardi and Kerr and there might have been more if Luby hadn't accommodated with a double play tap to Hughes.

ARLINGTON PARK MUTUEL HANDLE PASSES '43 MARK

Track Has Daily Average of $992,061.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Arlington Park's race meeting at Washington Park went into its sixth week yesterday with an average daily handle of $992,061 on total wagering of $23,051,529, exclusive of The Tribune Charities, Inc.'s, five days for charity which totaled $5,910,982, an average of $1,182,196 a day.

Those figures are notable in that the total handle for the entire 36 days of the 1943 meeting, $22,258,782, already has been surpassed in 25 days and the current session does not close until Thursday of next week. Then the Washington Park portion of the coördinated meeting opens.

Jockey Morrisey Injured.

Yesterday's program drew a ladies' day crowd estimated at 15,500 and many of the customers got in on a $230 daily double, the first part of which was won by Mrs. R. C. Hodge's Hy-Ha at the lucrative price of $30.60. Dunice Dubois was aboard the winner, which won by a length from C. P. Bradley's Bart o' War. Darp Ship was third. Yesterday's mutuel handle was $873,096.

Jockey Willie Morrisey was injured when thrown from his mount, Mrs. L. Bollero's Catchmenow, in the second race, which was won by Mrs. Jake Lowenstein's Remind, ridden by F. A. Smith. Catchmenow tripped on the heels of Epic Lady as the field hit the far turn, threw Morrisey as she went down, but got up and finished the race. Morrisey was taken to St. James' hospital in Chicago Heights, where the extent of his injuries was not immediately learned.

Sir Bim Triumphs.

Don Ameche's Sir Bim, winner of $9,425 this season while still a member of the maiden ranks, scored his first victory yesterday in the third race, a three-quarter mile affair for maiden colt and geldings.

Howard Wells' 7 year old Equifox, ridden by Al Bodiou, won the day's feature, the $4,000 Vander Pool handicap at a mile in which only four horses started. Miss Ethel Hill's War Knight was second and Mill B Stable's Ended third. B. H. Wise's Bushwhacker brought up the rear.

Equifox, a son of the great Equipoise, was just two-fifths of a second off the track record as he flashed by the judges in 1:36 after passing War Knight and Ended in one of his best stretch drives. The winner paid $4.60.

Louis B. Mayer's little filly, Whirlabout has been assigned top weight of 122 pounds for the $15,000 Cleopatra handicap tomorrow. This mile race has drawn 11 entries.

and then Lindell busted out his ninth homer.

Etten singled and Manager Jim Dykes decided a change of pitchers was almost mandatory. He sent in Haynes. Hemsley doubled, scoring Etten. Grimes singled to center, but Hemsley, suffering from a charley horse, stopped at third. Milosevich then hit into a double play started by Webb.

The Sox scored one run in the third on a pass to Haynes, who stole second, went to third on Hemsley's throw in to center field and scored on Leroy Schalk's single.

Champions Continue to Score.

The Yankees added a pair in the fourth on Stirnweiss' single and an interference play in which Turner tipped Metheny's bat, a double steal and Lindell's single.

The Sox scored three runs in the fifth on Grimes' error, doubles by Wally Moses and Schalk and Eddie Carnett's single.

In the sixth, Stirnweiss singled for his fourth hit, stole second and scored on Lindell's single.

Metheny, the first batsman to face Maltzberger, in the eighth, knocked the ball into the right field stand. Lindell tripled with one down and scored on Etten's out.

The Sox this afternoon will open a four game series with Washington. The series will include lamp games tomorrow and Thursday nights. Bill Dietrich will oppose Johnny Niggeling this afternoon.

GARNER HOLDS DAN MERRITT TO MARIGOLD DRAW

Bob Garner of Louisville, who weighed 177½ pounds, held Dan Merritt of Cleveland, 211, to a draw in a fast eight round bout in Marigold outdoor arena last night. Both were knocked down during the course of the battle, Garner in the second and Merritt in the fourth. Garner returned to his feet as Referee Tommy Gilmore counted eight and Merritt arose at nine.

Collins Brown, 1944 Chicagoland Golden Gloves middleweight champion, received a draw in a five round supporting match against Al Clark of Detroit.

FATHER AND SON SEIZED ON BOGUS MONEY CHARGES

Ration Counterfeiting Planned, Says U. S.

Capt. Thomas Callaghan, head of the secret service in Chicago, yesterday disclosed seizure of a printing office on the near south side which he said was equipped to flood Chicago and the middle west with counterfeit $20 bills, as well as gasoline and other rationing coupons.

Also in federal custody were the operators of the shop, a father and son, both expert printers and engravers. They are Lester Higgins, 47, of 4327 Kenmore av., and Clarence, 27, of 947 Irving Park rd.

Both pleaded not guilty when arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on charges of possessing counterfeiting paraphernalia and conspiracy to manufacture counterfeit notes. They waived examination and were held to the federal grand jury in bonds of $7,500 each. It was the elder Higgins' 47th birthday.

Etchings Found in Auto.

The two were arrested Sunday by Town Hall police, who stopped their automobile for routine questioning at Clark and Addison sts.

Behavior of the two aroused the suspicion of the policemen, and a search of the car yielded zinc etchings for printing both the $20 bills and meat rationing coupons.

In the Higgins printing plant at 422 S. Dearborn st. detectives found a press, other plates, and paper for printing the counterfeit money and coupons.

Expert Work Done on Plate.

Capt. Callaghan said that a partially completed zinc plate for the $20 bills was one of the most expert pieces of workmanship he ever encountered; that spurious money printed by the plate would be difficult to detect.

The stocks of paper, Callaghan said, were excellent imitations of genuine currency and coupon paper.

Completed plates for reproduction of A-12 gasoline coupons seized in the print shop were the first to turn up in this district, Callaghan said. Eighteen negatives of various documents also were confiscated.

Revolver in Father's Home.

Detective William Nolan, who with Detectives William Van Stockum and Frank Mudloff arrested the pair, said the Higginses apparently had opened the printing establishment within the last two weeks and had not yet begun counterfeiting operations. A few orders for legitimate business were found in the shop, and additional plates and a loaded revolver were found in the apartment of the elder Higgins.

Nolan said that Clarence Higgins, alias Tony Rico, has served time in a federal prison for auto theft, and also has a record for violations of the narcotics law.

Automobile Crash Fatal; Driver Held as Reckless

Edward F. Eleder, 50, of 5730 S. Sacramento av., a painting and decorating contractor, died yesterday in the Little Company of Mary hospital from injuries received July 12 when his automobile collided with another at 86th st. and Wolcott av. Herman Rebenstorff, 6611 S. Claremont av., driver of the second car, was charged by Gresham police with reckless driving and will appear in Safety court Aug. 25.

The committee, composed of representatives of the eight major air lines using the airport, agreed on the general design of the building at a two day meeting last week, Heino said.

Cost of the construction, which will run from $950,000 to $1,250,000, will be advanced by the air lines, and will be repaid in free rents and landing fees. Title to the terminal will go to the city.

FINANCE EXECUTIVE DENIES HEMANS WAS TOLD TO BUY VOTES

Mason, Mich., July 24 [Special].—George Omacht, general counsel for Associates' Discount corporation, South Bend, Ind., testified today at the trial of 22 defendants charged with a 1939 legislative graft conspiracy, that there was no thought on the part of a group of finance company executives when they hired a lobbyist to look after their interests in the Michigan legislature that any bribes would be paid or funds used corruptly in their behalf.

Omacht, first of five finance executives among the defendants to take the stand, said he attended a meeting of representatives of several independent finance and small loan companies when it was decided to hire Maj. Charles F. Hemans, former Democratic University of Michigan regent, to head the group's lobby at the 1939 session.

Omacht reported nothing was said or intimated to lead Hemans to believe he was authorized to "buy votes." Hemans has testified as a prosecution witness that he was instructed to pay bribes "if necessary."

LUMBER FIRMS' TRUCK DRIVERS GIVE UP STRIKE

A wildcat strike called early yesterday by 300 truck drivers employed by 10 Chicago lumber companies was settled a few hours later when a majority of the drivers returned to the jobs. Frederick W. Turner, attorney for the Lumber Trade Association of Chicago and Cook County, said the men struck because the association refused to grant a 16 cent hourly wage increase.

The employers offered a seven cent an hour increase with two weeks' vacation instead of one week, as the present contract provides. The strikers are members of local 719 of the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

Fred Hutcheson, president of the local, said the strikers wanted the employers to grant their demands immediately instead of allowing the war labor board to make a decision, but they returned to work after union officials arranged further meetings with the employers to effect a settlement of the dispute.

BRIGGS STRIKERS VOTE TO RETURN TO JOBS TODAY

Plant Shut Second Time in Two Days.

Detroit, Mich., July 24 (AP).—Striking employes of Briggs Manufacturing company's outer drive plant voted at a meeting to return to work tomorrow morning, Jess Ferrazza, president of local 212, United Automobile Workers [CIO], announced tonight.

The plant which manufactures ball turrets for bombers was closed today for the second time in two days when approximately 1,500 employes left their jobs in a wage dispute.

The workers returned to the plant this morning after a strike Saturday, having agreed to resume production pending negotiation of their dispute. Ferrazza said today's walkout came after a company refusal to discuss the differences. He said the strike Saturday occurred when 42 job setters received a 9 cents an hour wage cut.

A company spokesman said the job setters struck when they were being transferred from job setting work no longer available.

Hotel Strike Threatened.

Meanwhile, officials of 12 hotel service employes' unions said employes of all major downtown hotels may be called out on strike to enforce demands of 37 elevator operators and 10 engineers who left their jobs at the Hotel Statler last Friday demanding wage increases.

The strike of the elevator operators, affiliated with the AFL Building Service Employes local 155, and the engineers, members of the AFL Operating Engineers union, halted all service to Statler guests when other employes joined the walkout.

The elevator operators are demanding a wage increase of 6 cents an hour and the engineers are asking a 15 per cent increase.

Norge Strikers Vote Return.

Muskegon, Mich., July 24.—(AP).—Strikers in the Norge division plant of Borg-Warner corporation at Muskegon Heights voted at a union meeting today to end their six day walkout at midnight tonight. The strikers are members of the United Auto Workers [AFL].

Seek to End Strike.

Washington, D. C., July 24 (AP).—Union leaders agreed at a war labor board hearing today to do their best to terminate a strike at the Centrifugal Fusing company, Lansing, Mich. The strike started last Wednesday in a dispute over wages and the discharge of an employe nearly two years ago.

Glass Jar Plant Idle.

Muncie, Ind., July 24 (AP).—The Ball Brothers plant, employing 3,500 persons, was idle today in a strike called by the Glass Bottle Blowers' association, AFL, local 147. Ed Hubbard, local president, attributed the strike to a jurisdictional dispute with the Federation of Glass, Ceramic, and Silica Sandworkers of America, CIO, local 93. CIO leaders refused to comment.

Charge Refrigerator Cars Used for Beer Empties

Philadelphia, Pa., July 24 (AP).—The government charged in United States District court today that the Pennsylvania railroad and the Reading company had violated an interstate commerce commission war emergency order of last Jan. 11 forbidding transportation of empty beer containers in type "RS" refrigerator cars and asked penalties of $2,500 each against the carriers. United States Atty. Gerald A. Gleeson said each railroad had violated the order five times. A maximum penalty of $500 is provided upon proof of each violation.

BARE FEDERAL WASTE AS DRAG ON TRUCK LINES

U. S. Units' Misuse of Tires Told.

Wasteful and inefficient use of existing truck tire stocks by the navy, war production board, office of defense transportation, and the office of price administration is compelling the trucking industry to lay up its equipment and interrupt important war production, members of the Central Motor Freight association said yesterday at a meeting in the Medinah club.

Harry Chaddick.

As a temporary expedient Earl Dunne, OPA tire rationing director in the Chicago area, offered relief from the red tape which has balked truckers' efforts to obtain tires by agreeing to relax and simplify application and inventory procedure and issue certificates for tires after approval of only the ODT and army and navy representatives.

Many Trucks Out of Use.

Seven per cent of the public transport trucks in the Chicago area are out of use because of lack of tires and this figure will probably rise to 10 per cent by next month, Harry Chaddick, president of the American Transportation company, said, adding that the navy department had wasted several hundred tires of the type now needed by truckers.

"In one place on the south side the navy has 100 trucks in storage, all equipped with tires," he said. "For about a year these trucks were in an open prairie, and the tires were allowed to deteriorate so that a hole can be poked into them with a lead pencil.

"In a South Bend, Ind., warehouse the WPB is holding 50,000 heavy duty truck tires for use on army trucks which the Studebaker company is producing. It will take a long time for Studebaker to make enough trucks for those tires and I see no reason why a manufacturer should need more than a 30 day supply."

Results of Practices Told.

Chaddick and other speakers said these practices have caused 64 members of the association to tie up 605 vehicles for lack of tires and operate at least 8,848 trucks without spares.

Lack of spares has caused numerous delays ranging from a few hours to several days because tires must be taken off of other vehicles and dispatched from the nearest terminal, the members said. This same shortage makes recapping a problem because the tires being rebuilt cannot be replaced during the interval and the truck has to be laid up for several weeks. Fatal accidents also have increased, it was said.

The truckers said the OPA has placed Chicago district carriers at a disadvantage by requiring involved inventories and the completion of complicated application forms.

Plan "Good on Paper."

"The OPA had a plan that looked good on paper, but in actual practice it practically shut the door on us so far as getting tires is concerned," said John L. Keeshin, president of Keeshin Motor Express company. "It has worked out so that first we have to locate a tire. Then we go to OPA for a certificate. By the time we get back with the certificate the tire is gone."

Chaddick said the ODT is the claiming agent for the motor carriers, but "failed to keep the truckers supplied." He said the ODT, and not OPA, should handle tire rationing and that the transportation agency should be more diligent in protecting truckers' interests.

Harry Gormley, regional ODT director, said the carriers were tardy in supplying information which might have obtained a larger tire allotment for the Chicago area.

Steel Operations Rate Drops as Strike Result

New York, July 24 (AP).—The nation's steel mills will operate at 95.9 per cent of capacity this week to produce 1,717,800 tons of steel, compared with 97.2 per cent a week earlier for 1,741,800 tons, the American Iron and Steel institute reported today. The decline resulted directly from a strike at the Ashland, Ky., plant of the American Rolling Mill company, the institute said.

Chicago Radar Industry Will Mark 1st Year

The Radar-Radio Industries of Chicago, Inc., will celebrate its first anniversary at a meeting of the board of directors in the Stevens hotel Thursday, Leslie F. Muter, president, said yesterday. The organization was not incorporated until last December, but started functioning a year ago.

Muter said the 63 member companies manufacture 50 per cent of the electronics equipment produced in the United States and recently "were called on by both the army and navy to increase output nearly 30 per cent."

"We also have been asked to redouble our engineering efforts in order to make increasingly better products," he added.

Commended by Chiefs.

Muter said he had received commendations from Rear Adm. Claude A. Jones, chief of production and materials for the navy; Ralph A. Bard, navy undersecretary, and Maj. Gen. William Henry Harrison, director of procurement and supply for the signal corps, "praising employes of association members for never having lost a single hour due to a strike or other work stoppage."

"The fact that no member plant has had a strike since long before Pearl Harbor is to the credit of members and leaders of the AFL, the CIO, and four independent unions," Muter said.

Work of Secret Nature.

"The record is remarkable because our industry operates so secretly the workers are denied the public praise that those in almost every other field are given. About 80 per cent of them are women. They work long hours behind closed doors, and their products are needed as urgently for victory as guns and ammunition, but the story of their accomplishments must wait until after the war to be told."

Muter said there are 70,000 employes in member plants and that even with production schedules sharply increased, only 1,000 new workers will be needed.

People and Events

Twelve employes of the Chicago Rapid Transit company, who have been with the company for 45 years or more, were awarded ruby lapel pins yesterday by the trustees. They are David H. Guest Sr., Negro porter and lampman; William Schneider, Frank Randolph, Elmer F. Gulliver, Thomas J. Quinlan, Charles Mansbridge, William Hawthorne, Adolph Daus, Edward A. Battle, Gustav Johnson, William J. Fry, and Charles Heilig.

The promotion of Joseph L. Sheppard to general traffic manager of the Illinois Central railroad was announced yesterday by Roy E. Barr, vice president. Robert A. Trovillion, assistant freight traffic manager, will succeed Sheppard as freight traffic manager in charge of rate matters.

Carl I. Collins, executive vice president, was elected president of Superior Steel corporation to succeed the late Frank R. Frost.

Dr. John A. Keenan has been named executive vice president of Standard Cap & Seal corporation. He formerly was with the Carnation company.

Dr. Walter M. Mitchell was appointed director of research for Mack Trucks, Inc. Before becoming associated with Mack, Mitchell was chief metallurgist for the York Safe & Lock company's ordnance plant.

William H. Hunt has been appointed manager of the Detroit branch warehouse of United States Plywood corporation to succeed the late J. C. Dorman.

Christmas packages for 3,500 employes in the army and navy were ordered yesterday by Standard Oil Company [Indiana].

CHICAGO AREA SECOND IN NATION IN VOLUME OF ORDERS FOR WAR

Of 195 billion dollars in war contracts placed up to the end of May, the Chicago region was awarded $23,066,814,000, the Chicago Association of Commerce reported yesterday on the basis of figures issued by the WPB. Chicago was second only to the New York region, whose contracts totaled $27,839,951,000.

The Detroit region was third, with slightly more than 21 billions. The San Francisco, Cleveland, and Philadelphia areas ranked fourth, fifth, and sixth, respectively.

The cumulative total of prime contracts received by the Chicago metropolitan district, including nearby communities and excluding more distant cities of the region, thru May was $7,828,221,000. These included $7,100,426,000 in supply orders, $99,662,000 for new military facilities, and $628,133,000 in newly constructed war industries. The supply orders included $1,815,425,000 for aircraft and aircraft parts; $2,450,193,000 for ordnance material, and $185,508,000 for ships.

CREAM QUOTAS TO BE REDUCED DURING AUGUST

Quotas limiting August sales of fluid milk, cream, and milk by-products will be the same as for July except for a cream quota reduction, the war food administration announced yesterday.

Dealers will be permitted to sell in August the same amount of fluid milk as in June, 1943; 90 per cent as much milk by-products [chocolate milk, buttermilk, cottage cheese], and 75 per cent as much cream. The July cream quota was 90 per cent. The cream quota represents a return to the limitation prevailing from October, 1943, until the spring flush in milk production this year.

The cream quota reduction reflects a nationally tight butterfat supply, the WFA said. Butter production for the first five months of the year was 80 million pounds short of production a year earlier. Total August milk production, based on current trends, will be about 10 per cent lower than during July, the agency said.

SLUMP IN RYE PUSHES OTHER GRAINS LOWER

Grain futures prices closed lower on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday, with rye leading the decline. The market for rye at the end was down 1? to 1⅞ cents a bushel, the lowest price since mid-June. Wheat declined ⅝ to ⅞ cent, oats ⅝ to ¾ cent, and barley 1¼ to 1½ cents.

The decline was the result of a bearish outlook by traders over week-end European developments. Peace talk was said to be a factor in the selling of rye.

Receive Bids for Addition to War Homes Project

Bids are being taken for 678 more residential units to be built in Princeton Park Homes, 95th st. and Wentworth av., in three sections, Donald O'Toole & Co. announced yesterday. These are in addition to 230 home units finished or nearing completion. The homes, for Negro war workers, will be built in row house groups, to rent from $50 to $56.50.

Report Trust Action Against N.A.S.D. Near

New York, July 24 [Special].—Reports that the department of justice is preparing anti-trust action against the National Association of Securities Dealers, or against one or more large investment banking houses, or against the association and the firms as well, today gained credence in Wall street.

Federal authorities have been preparing a case against the security underwriters almost since the time of the department of justice's appearance in the case of the Public Service Company of Indiana underwriting of December, 1939, it was learned. In that instance, the N. A. S. D. fined many of its members for alleged price cutting in the distribution of the utility's bonds.

Termed Violation of Law.

The department of justice will allege that the investment syndicate practice of maintaining prices on new issues over a certain period of time is in violation of the anti-trust law, it was reported.

This practice, tho not a rule, is the result of 40 years' experience in the distribution of new securities and is intended to protect the distributor of the securities in cases where difficulties in marketing a new issue are encountered.

Says Authority Is Exceeded.

In the Public Service case the securities and exchange commission reviewed six of the fines imposed by the N. A. S. D. under the securities and exchange act, and the department of justice intervened, contending that the association had overstepped its authority.

Early this year the department of justice notified Wall street that it considers the price maintenance clause in underwriting contracts a violation of the Sherman anti-trust act.

UTILITY PLANS BOND OFFERING IN REFINANCING

Philadelphia, Pa., July 24 (AP).—Birmingham [Ala.] Electric company registered today with the securities and exchange commission 10 million dollars of first mortgage bonds due 1974. Proceeds will be applied to redemption of a like amount of Birmingham's 4½ per cent bonds due 1968 at 101 per cent.

Hanchett Manufacturing company, Big Rapids, Mich., registered $450,000 principal amount of series A first mortgage convertible 5½ per cent bonds, maturing serially from 1945 to 1964, to pay off bank loans of about $375,000. The company also registered 45,000 shares of $1 par value common stock, to be reserved for issuance upon conversion of the bonds. P. W. Brooks & Co., New York City, is named as underwriter.

BRITISH PLANS FOR REBUILDING ARE EXHIBITED

Plans for the post-war rebuilding of London, Coventry, and Plymouth, England, were loaned yesterday by H. H. Thomas, British consul in Chicago, to the Metropolitan Housing council's exhibition "Chicago of the Future" on the seventh floor of the Marshall Field & Co. loop store.

Mrs. R. H. Butler of the British information services which sponsored the loan, explained that execution of the plans probably will be financed jointly by the government and local authorities. The ministry of town and country planning, a new war time government branch, headed by W. F. Morrison, will act for the government, she said.

Spiegel Purchases West Coast Credit Store Chain

Spiegel, Inc., has purchased for cash the business of Federal Outfitting company, which operates a chain of 20 retail stores on the west coast, M. J. Spiegel Jr., president and general manager, announced yesterday. The Federal stores specialize in the sale on credit of men's and women's wearing apparel and home furnishings. They will continue to be operated by the present officials, Spiegel said.

STOCK MARKET, THO STRONGER, CLOSES UNEVEN

Turnover Smallest Since June 9.

New York, July 24 (AP).—Some stocks, including certain rails, steels, and motors, enjoyed modest recoveries in today's market, but many leaders continued to decline in the slowest full session for more than six weeks.

After a firm opening gains of fractions to a point or so were reduced. Limited short covering lifted several issues just before the close, but final prices were mixed.

Bidding appeared on the belief the market had been oversold on the expectation reconversion difficulties will follow a quick European victory. Good war news and the signs of growing trouble in Germany which were emphasized by Prime Minister Churchill were considered bullish for the long pull.

Index Gains Slightly.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was up 0.1 at 54.4, its first advance since last Wednesday. Of 907 issues appearing, 380 were up and 312 down. Transfers of 1,005,030 shares compared with 1,430,770 Friday and were the smallest for a five hour session since June 9.

Pepsi-Cola gained 1¼ and Chrysler 1. Lesser improvement was retained by New York Central, Southern Railway, United States Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Montgomery Ward, North American, American Smelting, and International Telephone.

On the Curb Alleghany Ludlum Steel preferred pushed up 12⅞ points on a 10 share transaction, first this year.

SOME RAIL BONDS RALLY.

New York, July 24 (AP).—Bond market activity fell off sharply today and prices closed irregular. Some of the rails lowered by the selling of Friday and Saturday rallied, but the Associated Press rail average was down 0.1 at 90.0. A similar decline was registered by the low yield average. Utility and foreign composites were higher. Transactions totaled $6,813,700, against $9,383,000 Friday.

CHICAGO SHARES DIP.

Prices declined yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange in turnover of 36,000 shares. Peter Fox Brewing set a new 1944 high of 102, up 1½. Heavily traded issues included Commonwealth Edison, down ¼; New York Central, up ⅝, and Chicago corporation, unchanged.

Oil Output Sets All-Time High in First Six Months of 1944

More petroleum was produced and refined in the United States in the first half of 1944 than in any previous corresponding period, the Oil Weekly reported yesterday. This record was achieved despite man power shortages and other serious handicaps. The trade paper added that the oil industry will increase operations further in the second half of 1944.

Peak war demands have not been reached, the publication said, altho they are being approached. Further increases in refinery runs and crude production were forecast as additional refining capacity nearing completion is brought into use.

Oil Output Problem Described.

"Providing enough crude oil to make full use of refining facilities will become an increasingly difficult problem," the Oil Weekly said. "However, there is not within the industry any general apprehension over the ability to produce as much crude as present and projected refining facilities can process, at least for the next six or nine months."

Daily Average Mounts.

During the first six months of 1944, the trade journal said, United States crude oil production averaged 4,461,000 barrels a day, compared with 3,919,000 barrels a day last year. Despite increased output, heavy refinery requirements forced withdrawal of approximately 13 million barrels of crude from storage in the first half of 1944.

William R. Boyd Jr., chairman of the petroleum industry war council, yesterday said prompt allocation by the federal government of a sufficient number of heavy duty truck tires is the only means of avoiding serious crippling of deliveries by tank trucks of gasoline and oil essential for military movements and vital food production.

UNITED STATES MINTS SET NEW PRODUCTION PEAK IN FISCAL YEAR

Washington, July 24 (AP). — The three United States mints turned out money at the rate of nearly 35 tons a day in the fiscal year ended June 30 to establish a new production record, Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the mint, reported today. The mints produced 9,761 tons of domestic coins and 2,593 tons of coins for foreign governments.

Mrs. Ross gave no details of the money produced for foreign governments, but the treasury announced some time ago that the mints had completed one large order for The Netherlands, and had started working on a second.

HALSEY OFFERS PAR IN BROOKLYN GAS REFUNDING

An offer by Halsey, Stuart & Co. to underwrite 42 million dollars in Brooklyn Union Gas company refunding securities on better terms than the utility recently proposed to accept from other buyers has been made to the New York public service commission, the investment banking firm said yesterday.

Halsey, in a competitive sale, will guarantee Brooklyn Union Gas par value for 30 millions of 25 year general mortgage 3½ per cent bonds and for 12 millions of 25 year 4 per cent debentures, the firm informed the commission.

This would compare with the utility's plan to sell the general bonds to 16 institutional investors with a 3¾ per cent coupon rate at 101, and the debentures as 4¼s to F. S. Moseley & Co. as principal underwriters at 101, it was said.

HOG PRICES RISE ON IDEA SUPPLY SHORTAGE NEARS

Belief that a pork shortage will develop soon drove hog prices toward office of price administration ceilings at the Chicago stock yards yesterday. Action was the liveliest since price control of pork began in 1942.

Despite the large storage stocks of pork packers bid aggressively for dwindling hog supplies which shrank to the smallest volume in nine months and were substantially below July, 1943, shipments.

Selected 195 to 230 pound hogs brought the $14.60 top price, within 15 cents of the ceiling price for hogs weighing 240 pounds or less, and the highest price since Oct. 29. The average rose 30 cents to $13.75.

Prime long-fed steers met good demand at firm prices, but weakness was evident in stock selling at $16.00 or less.

Lambs sold at mostly steady prices of $13.75 to $14.25.

SAYS AUSTRALIA NOT COMMITTED TO MONEY PACT

CANBERRA, Australia, July 24 (AP).—Prime Minister Curtin today said the Australian government had neither accepted nor rejected results of the international monetary conference at Bretton Woods, N. H. Public announcements from America, giving what he said were impressions that an agreement was being entered into, were misleading, he asserted.

The leader of the Australian delegation signed a certificate that the record of the conference proceedings was accurate, Curtin said. The conference proposal will be placed before parliament and Curtin is prepared to give it the most sympathetic consideration, he said.

PHILLIPS CRUDE OIL PRODUCTION SETS NEW HIGH

Six Months' Profit Tops 9 Million.

Production of crude oil, approximately 77,000 net barrels a day, and production of 26 to 70 grade natural gasoline, more than 1 million gallons a day, by the Phillips Petroleum company are the highest in company history, Frank Phillips, board chairman, said yesterday in the company's semi-annual report. During the first half of the year, 171 wells were completed and it is contemplated that 500 wells will have been drilled by the end of the year, Phillips said.

Frank Phillips.

All the company's major war manufacturing projects have been completed and are in operation and no additional plants for war production are contemplated, the report said.

Gross Income Gains.

Gross income for the first six months of 1944 reached a record level of $94,305,126, an increase from $74,156,540 a year ago, resulting primarily thru larger crude oil production and higher sales volume, including production from new plants completed since Jan. 1, Phillips said. Several other plants which started operations in recent weeks are expected to increase later this year.

Net earnings before federal taxes were $15,068,433, and exceeded that of any previous six months period. Net profit was $9,004,538, or $1.83 a share, compared with $7,345,314 or $1.62 a share for the first half of 1943.

Shell Profit Increases.

Other oil companies also increased earnings in the six month period. Shell Union Oil corporation reported consolidated net income of $14,507,369, or $1.08 a share, against $10,435,194, or 80 cents a share in the first half of 1943. Renegotiation has started on 1943 business, the company said. Some 1944 business also must be renegotiated.

Sun Oil company's profits in the six months were $7,787,133, or $2.67 a common share, compared with $5,711,593, or $1.94 a share, in the 1943 period. No provision was made for war time contingencies or for any adjustments that might result from renegotiation, the report said.

ASSISTING SUCH FIRMS IS PART OF OUR WARTIME JOB

Today in Chicagoland, firms which in peacetime built furnaces, now produce steel landing mats for airfields. Other companies that formerly manufactured refrigerators and other household equipment, today are turning out artillery shells.

Similarly, throughout Chicago and the Middle West, firms both large and small have converted their facilities to the business of war. And in this work—as in their peacetime production—The Northern Trust Company continues to assist by supplying commercial credit for current needs.

For years this institution has cooperated closely with productive industry in this area. Credit has been—and is being—provided to secure raw materials, to meet payrolls, to carry inventories, and to move products to their destinations. Heads of established businesses are cordially invited to consult with the officers of this bank.

A Guide for Investors in Meeting
TODAY'S INVESTMENT PROBLEMS

• We have just published a comprehensive review of the many elements that enter into The Investor's Problem today. This study seeks to give the investor a comprehensive appreciation of all the important factors which have a bearing on any investment decision he may make now.

• Do you appreciate the dangers of too many "blue chips"? What are the risks in seeking higher income? How does the inflation factor enter into your investment program? Are you in a position to seek capital appreciation instead of high taxable income?

• Discussions of these and many other questions constitute part of this review, a copy of which may be had on request

See your neighbor's Tribune today for additional want ads!

As an emergency measure due to newsprint restrictions, the Tribune temporarily can print in any one copy only half of each day's total volume of want ads. As a result, this copy contains one set of want ads, while the next copy off the press after this one contains an entirely different set of ads. The odds are your neighbor's copy today will be the alternate to yours. By referring to the letters "A" or "B" next to the page number, you can quickly identify the alternate sections. Even tho your copy contains only half the want ads published today by the Tribune, it still contains more want advertising than any other Chicago newspaper.

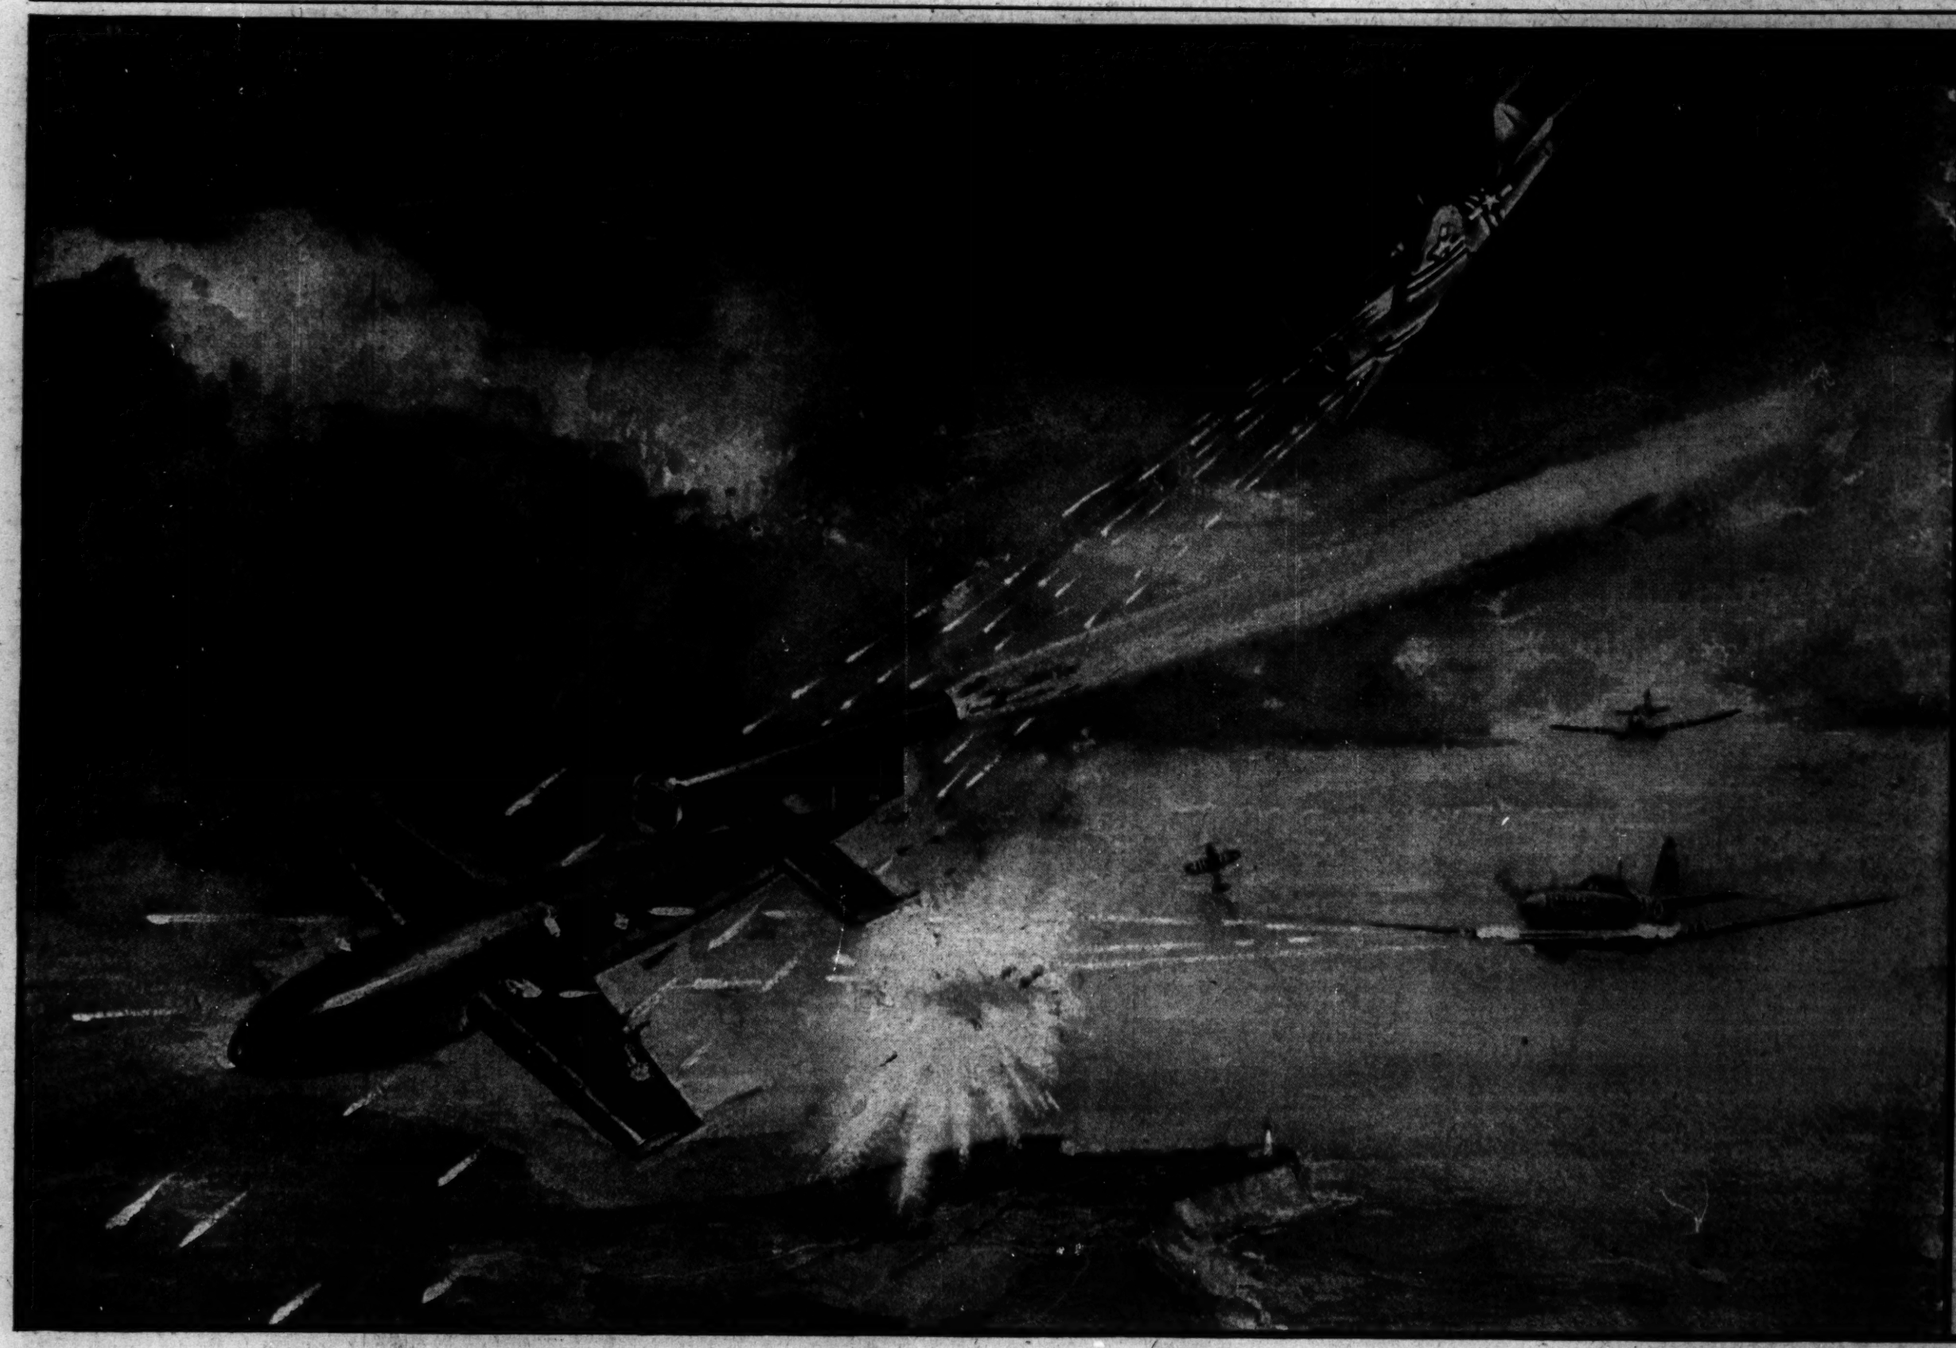
BAGGING A NAZI ROBOT PLANE OVER ENGLISH COAST



• This dramatic illustration is a reproduction in its original colors of a painting by Gary Sheahan, Chicago Tribune artist in the western European war zone, who personally witnessed the robot blitz. The picture represents the artist's conception of an aerial attack upon a German robot rocket plane over the south coast of England. The robot is shown being overtaken by Thunderbolt and Spitfire planes, which are firing at it. Flying patrol over the English channel, the fighter planes of the allied air forces pursue and shoot down many rocket planes that are released from the French coast by the Germans. When a robot plane is hit by machine gun bullets it either explodes with a blinding orange flash or, being crippled, dives to earth.
